MEXICO MATTERS ABOUT THE SAME

Constitutionalists Plan to Concentrate Attack Upon Federals at Monterey Soon.

LIND AND MINISTERS CONFER

Washington Remains Quiet Concerning Situation—Secretary Bryan Busy With Politics and President Uncommunicative.

Matamoras, Mexico, Nov. 1.—A final attack on Monterey with the combined Constitutional forces now in that vicinity was planned today at a conference of Constitutionalists leaders at Villa Apodeca, 12 miles east of Monterey.

The proposed attack, it was said, will begin as soon as the Constitutional forces can be concentrated. Additional details of the fighting at Monterey was brought to this city today by Constitutional officers. The destruction of several of the city's largest buildings by cannon and fire is firmed. The number of non-combatants killed, according to these officers, has been greater than the previous casualties among the troops on either side. Many of the wealthier class, it is stated, have been killed and the Federals, the Constitutionalists say here, summarily executed a large number of the poorer class who were suspected of aiding the rebels.

The Constitutionalists claimed to have had control of Monterey three days, October 23rd. 24th and 25th—but withdrew temporarily upon the arrival of Federal reinforcements.

Quiet at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Administration officials shed no further light today on their plans for dealing with the Mexican situation. The government here still is awaiting some announcement from the Huerta administration as to the result of the last election.

Reports describing the conduct of the elections and giving impressions of the political situation generally in Mexico, were received today from John Lind at Vera Cruz. It is believed some of the suggestions under consideration here have been submitted to Mr. Lind for approval.

It is not expected that any announcement on the situation will be made before next week.

Secretary Bryan, after two days' absence campaigning in New Jersey, went over the Mexican dispatches today before leaving to address Maryland voters. He said there was no change in the situation. He conferred with President Wilson before going to Rockville.

There was discussion today in official circles over the possibility that the President might send a message or make an address to Congress giving a detailed report of what has occurred since he last informed Congress on the Mexican situation. There was no indication at the White House that such was the plan.

Ministers Confer.

Vera Cruz, Nov. 1.—John Lind, President Wilson's representative, received visits today from the Russian, Norwegian and German ministers who arrived from the capital last night. He conferred for a long time with the German minister. Mr. Lind said the interview was extremely cordial in character, but maintained absolute reserve regarding the subject under discussion.

Other conferences will be held before the ministers return to the capital tomorrow or Monday.

Address Washington.

No Gales, Sonora, Mexico, Nov. 1.—General Venustiano Carranza, leader of the Mexican Constitutionalists, announced here tonight that he would make a formal appeal to Washington probably tomorrow or Monday for recognition of the belligerency of the Mexican insurgents.

General Carranza arrived tonight on a special train from Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora.

It was said in revolutionary circles that Carranza's mission was to meet and confer with an agent of President Wilson who was expected to arrive.

Knew Nothing of It.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Representatives in Washington of the Mexican Constitutionalists denied tonight any knowledge of a meeting planned between General Carranza and an agent of President Wilson at Nogales. In official circles it was stated that the President had sent an agent to meet the Constitutionalist chief.

PADDED ELECTION.

Mexico City, Nov. 1.—El Pais, the nearest approach to an independent newspaper in Mexico City, today editorially admits government influence in last Sunday's elections. It says:

"It is evident and notorious that the authorities secured the triumph of the Huerta-Blanquet ticket. This we do not deny nor doubt, but it is a far cry from what may have occurred to questioning the validity of the elections.

"Suppose the Huerta-Blanquet ticket had not been put out, would the votes cast for them have gone to Manuel Calero, Federico Camboa, or Felix Diaz? It is clear they would not, because they were artificial votes, invented and non-existent."

The political intrigues of the White House against our country have entered a period of apparent inertia recently, President Wilson showing himself reserved, undecided and expectant like one who prepares a most telling blow," says El Pais in another editorial.

"The cable, however, in spite of its laconicism, gives a glimpse of the machinations of the government at Washington which may be summarized as follows:

"President Wilson has not resolved to proceed frankly and openly against Mexico, doubtless because he comprehends the colossal injustice of his cause, but he searches for allies and accomplices in the crime against humanity.

"President Wilson has doubtless tried to wheedle the European governmentse into the perfidious belief that violation of the suffrage in Mexico is notorious, and that provisional President Huerta is to blame.

"Nothing can be more sophistical or unjust. Nobody but ourselves has any right to determine whether Gen. Huerta has violated the suffrage; nobody but ourselves should place the responsibilities."

Washington, Nov. 1.—Capt. Ballinger, of the revenue cutter Bear, at Nome, today wired to Washington asking for $2.000 to aid Eskimos in the vicinity of Nome, who suffered severely from the recent cyclone.

MAYORALTY FIGHT ABOUT FINISHED

Battle for Political Supremacy in New York City Practically Ended Yesterday.

MUD-SLINGING IS EPIDEMIC

One Name Remains Untarnished from the Political Quagmire, Charles R. Whitman, Candidate for District Attorney.

New York, Nov. 1.—The battle for the mayoralty of New York with abundant skirmishes for lesser offices virtually closed tonight, ending a campaign in which economic issues were buried under an inter-change of personalities and a flood of vituperation. On Tuesday ballots will be cast, final speeches will be made Monday.

The foes of Tammany Hall, united under the standard of fusion with John Purroy Mitchel as their leader, have centered their fire upon Charles F. Murphy, Tammany chieftain. Mitchel, although a tireless campaigner, was eclipsed as an orator by John A. Hennessy, a political comet, whose course deflected the candidates from their prescribed orbits of campaigning to acrimonious debate largely centered about the recent removal of William Sulzer from office and revelations resultant therefrom.

Hennessy was Sulzer's investigator of graft in State Departments and he has made public what he claims to have unearthed in the way of corruption. His bombardment of Murphy and Edward E. McCall, Tammany candidate for mayor, resulted in a John Doe investigation by the district attorney and the revelation that former State Senator Stillwell, now in Sing Sing Prison for bribery, sought a pardon from Sulzer by turning informer against Tammany. These charges have been met with hot denials.

All Sides Confident.

Fusion leaders predicted tonight the election of Mitchel by pluralities ranging from 75,000 to 125,000. Tammany was equally confident that McCall would win by from 50,000 to 100,000.

The turmoil of the campaign has resulted in unloosening the tongue of the Tammany chieftain for the first time in the memory of his followers. Under the assault Mr. Murphy talked daily with reporters and on one occasion issued a statement of 1,800 words.

Hardly less striking that the spectacular charges of Hennessy has been the apparent sympathy of the Eastside for Sulzer in his fight for election to the Assembly on the Progressive ticket in the Sixth district. Twenty years ago he represented the district. The former Governor also waged a campaign against Aaron J. Levy, Democratic leader of the Assembly, who is seeking election as municipal court justice.

In the epidemic of mud-slinging one figure has been untouched. This is

No Falling Off in Custom Receipts

Washington, Nov. 1.—Although the new tariff act with its lowered rates of duty has been in effect practically a month the customs receipts have so far shown little falling off.

According to the Treasury Department today the customs receipts amounted to $30,138,000 for October, just about $80,000 less than those of October, 1912. The deficit for the fiscal year to date, the statement shows, is $5,757,627, about $3,900,000 more than the deficit at the corresponding period last year.

Pension payments under the Sherwood act are apparently largely responsible for the larger deficit.

The payments for the periods in 1912 through October amounted to about $52,500,000 and for the same period this year to nearly $57,000,000 an increase of more than $4,000,000 in this one disbursement item. The total pay warrants for October 1913, were $59,366,994, with total receipts of $64,196,633, leaving an excess of receipts for the month of $4,829,639.

The net balance in the general fund of the treasury at the close of the day's business was $124,923,123 and the grand total of cash in the treasury was given at $2,037,846,293 with a total gold in the trust fund of $1,098,986,169. In National bank depositories to the credit of the United States treasurer there was $91,121,101. At the close of business yesterday there were 7,514 National banks in existence, with a capital of $1,068,534,175 and circulation outstanding, secured by bonds amounting to $740,063,776.

Wealth and Want in Political Fight.

William G. O'Malley and Edmund B. Jermyn, candidates for mayor of Scranton, Pa. The former is a poor man and running on that ticket, while the latter is a man of millions and has the endorsement of the suffragettes.

ARGUE CONTROL OF REGIONAL BANKS

Banking and Currency Committee Discuss at Length Capitalization Plans

DEBATE WAXED VOCIFEROUS

Supporters of Strict Governmental Control Theory Declare They Are Prepared to Carry Fight to the Senate

Washington, Nov. 1.—A snare was reached today in the running discussion of the administration currency bill by the Senate Banking Committee when the committee spent hours in debating the capitalization and control of the four regional banks tentatively proposed to administer the new system.

The debate at times waxed vociferous and the committee adjourned tonight until Wednesday without affirmative action on the question. Several members took the position that hope for a unanimous report from the committee hinged upon the question of the control of the regional banks which may lie either in the government or in the member banks. The supporters of the strict governmental control theory declared they were prepared to carry their fight to the floor of the Senate. Administration supporters in the committee adhered to the plan in the administration bill as it came from the House by which the banks would elect six directors of each regional bank, and the Federal reserve board would appoint three. The board, however, would have the power to remove three of the bank directors.

Reject Proposition.

The committee rejected a proposition advanced by Senator Hitchcock by which the entire system would be

Fight Organized Baseball System

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 1.—The board of directors of the Federal League here tonight decided to declare war upon organized baseball, admitted Buffalo, N. Y., and Baltimore, Md., to the circuit, making it an eight-club organization, and refused to have any dealings whatever with Horace Fogel, representing Philadelphia capitalists.

The directors in their decision to try to sign players of the two major leagues, voted not to ask any man in organized baseball already under a contract, to join their organization but they held that any player under a reserve clause might be tendered a contract. This, it was said, was done because the directors felt that the contract of a player would be upheld in the courts, but that the reserve clause would not.

NASHVILLE PAPER SOLD.

Democrat Goes to Tennesseean and American.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 1.—The Nashville Democrat, a morning daily, has been sold to Senator Luke Lea's newspaper, the Tennesseean and American and will cease publication with tomorrow's issue. The Democrat was established in the Fall of 1911 and was politically "regular" Democratic in policy.

OSBORNE AMATEUR CONVICT

Good Words, Published by Prisoners of Atlanta Federal Prison, Declares His Self-Imposed Sentence Futile.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1.—The efforts of Thomas M. Osborne, of New York, who recently served a self-imposed sentence at Auburn prison, to learn at first hand the psychological effect of penitentiary life in the minds of prisoners, today were characterized as well meant, but futile in an article appearing in Good Works, the paper printed within the walls of the Atlanta Federal prison.

This article under the caption "an amateur convict," said that Mr Osborne's trip to Tophet with a string tied to himself," was both estimable and entertaining, and that he deserves credit for directing attention to prison problems. The article adds, however, that "though this penitentiary Columbus really may have gained some ideas about physical existence in jail, he actually got no deeper than the surface of "the inferos in which all bona fide convicts must live."

It is pointed out that Mr. Osborne understood his self-imposed hardship fortified by the excellence of his motives and a contemplation of the plaudits he undoubtedly would earn through his martyrdom. "That," says Good Works, "is the main obstacle which prevents him from attaining his object, for real convicts have no such support of encouragement."

The convict has not the comfort or mediation upon present heroism or future renown, says the article. "The only companions of the real prisoner's solitude," it continues, "are vain regrets for the past, shame and humiliation at the treatment to which he is subjected in prison and the dread of the prospect of disgrace and persecution which await him when he goes back to the world."

Hope is expressed that good will come of Mr. Osborne's experience and it is suggested that if judges and prosecutors were obliged to qualify by spending a term in prison no longer than that of Mr. Osborne, "justice and decency in administration of criminal law would be greatly advanced."

Good Works is published by the penitentiary prisoners, and as is stated in an editorial in the current issue, articles appearing therein present the views and ideas of the prisoners and not those of the officials.

OUTLINES

The Governor of Indiana has refused to send soldiers to aid the police of Indianapolis to handle the street car strike.

Most of the regulations concerning the collection of the income tax having been completed those in the internal revenue collector's office have turned their attention to the selection of the staff of collectors.

The currency bill debate in the Senate Banking and Currency Committee has developed into a very heated affair. Arguments over the capitalization of the regional reserve banks were heard today with no definite result. The committee adjourned until Wednesday.

Next Tuesday is election day in many States. Virginia will elect a Governor who has run with no opposition. New York City has practically closed her heated three-cornered mayorality fight while the battle is still going on in New Jersey.

Prisoners in the Federal prison at Atlanta, in Good Words, a paper published within the walls, declared that Osborne, who recently spent some time in the Auburn prison in New York to learn conditions there, only touched the tops of the infernos prisoners really go through.

New York markets: Wheat irrregular; No. 2 red 97 to 98; No. 1 Northern Duluth 95 1-2. Rosin quiet. Turpentine steady. Money on call nominal, no loans. Spot cotton quiet; middling uplands 14.10; gulf 14.35; no sales.

ALL REGULATIONS OUT OF THE WAY

Next Feature of the Income Tax Law is the Selection of Collecting Staff.

THOUSANDS HAVE APPLIED

Three Hundred and Thirty-four Deputy Collectors, Forty Agents and Forty Inspectors to be Appointed.

Washington, Nov. 1.—With most of the regulations for the collection of the income tax out of the way, internal revenue officers today turned their attention to the selection of the staff to collect the money. In the next few months 334 deputy collectors, 40 agents and 40 inspectors are to be appointed.

Several thousand applications for these positions have been received at the Treasury Department. Appointments probbaly will be apportioned among the States and in most cases successful applicants will need the endorsement of collectors of internal revenue in their districts and be acceptable to Senators and Congressmen.

Although the operation of the income tax law so far as concerned collections at the source of income began today, the actual cash will not reach the treasury for many months. Corporations and others who pay interest on bonds or mortgages, or who pay salaries or other forms of income, must withhold the normal tax of 1 per cent, except as provided by law. The return of the sums withheld will be early in the year, but the collections will not begin until June.

Secretary McAdoo said the regulations for the collection for the tax put out by the department might require changes from time to time.

Big Dividends and Low Wages Unjust

St. Louis, Nov. 1.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield addressing the members of the St. Louis Commercial Club tonight said the time is coming when big dividends combined with low wages will not be respectable.

"The idea that many rightly can profit out of conditions under which their fellows wrongly live, will not last," he said. "It is uncertain how soon public opinion will say that a wage for working women in a factory that is insufficient to maintain them in decency, shall not go on side by side with a costly home of the owner of that business." Mr. Redfield said it was important that business men of the country understand the purpose of certain work to be undertaken with the approval of the President, provided Congress supplies the necessary funds. "We purpose," he said, "to undertake an inquiry into the fundamental economic laws that underlie the vast phase of capital and labor."

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 1.—A wireless message received today from the government survey ship Acadia by the Halifax agents of the transport steamer Alette stated that the crew of the vessel is safe on board the government ship. The Alette was beached on the shores of the Nelson river as the result of damage by ice.

REFUSE TO SEND STATE MALITIA

Governor Ralston of Indiana Will Take No Hand in Indianapolis Car Strike

DELAY MAIL COLLECTIONS

All Union Laborers in City Wear Badges Reading "We Walk; Do You?"—Fighting in Downtown Districts.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 1.—Governor Samuel M. Ralston tonight emphatically refused to take any action in the street car strike, which completely tied up the service here at noon today. He told Mayor Shank, who admitted the situation was beyond control by the city authorities, that if the police were not doing their full duty to appeal to Sheriff Theodore Porteus, of Marion county for aid. The mayor tonight conferred with the sheriff, but no decision was reached.

No attempt had been made to move a car tonight, although about 400 strike breakers were brought into the city this afternoon on a special train from Chicago. President Robert I. Todd, of the Street Railway Company, said tonight he was prepared to start the cars at any time adequate police protection for them was offered.

For more than an hour late today, a mob, estimated at 5,000 persons, fought in the downtown business section before it was broken up by mounted police. The trouble started when Joe Hinchman, a car inspector, tried to repair a broken trolley pole on a car at Meridlon and Washington streets. The mob pulled Minchman from the car and started to drag him to the union headquarters when police rescued him. The crowd started to take the inspector from the police, who fired in the air to drive back the crowd. Women took a prominent part in the disorder.

Thousands of men and women walked the streets tonight wearing placards which read: "We walk; do you?"

Although vehicles of every description were pressed into service, the great majority of Indianapolis laboring people, who did not join the mob that surrounded the Louisiana street car barns where the strike breakers are quartered, walked home tonight.

That the Federal government may take a hand in the strike was intimated by a statement by Postmaster Inspector William T. Fletcher. The car company has a contract with the government to collect mail from substations. Inspector Fletcher declared the mails must be collected on schedule and if they are not the government would start an investigation and make arrests if necessary.

Will Not Run Cars.

The strike of the employes of the Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co., called late last night, has tied up street car traffic completely since noon today. No effort was made by the com-

Rifles Are Hidden By Coal Strikers

Trinidad, Colo., Nov. 1.—The capture of 14 rifles was the net result of an armed expedition consisting of two regiments of infantry, two troops of cavalry and a platoon of artillery, comprising the Colorado National Guard which left here early today to occupy the Ludlow district and seize the arms and ammunition of the striking miners of the Ludlow tent colony.

The 14 rifles were turned over voluntarily. The soldiers with the exception of a detachment of 125 returned to their camps at Trinidad and Walsenburg tonight. No organized search for weapons was made. It is declared that more than 1,000 rifles have been hidden by the strikers.

Fifteen hundred men, women and children of the Ludlow colony singing "Marching Through Georgia," marched out one mile to meet Adjutant General John Chase in command of the expedition.

"You come to us in peace and we greet you as friends," was the greeting to General Chase by John R. Lawson, of the United Mine Workers of America, who marched at the head of the procession.

Many of the men carried picks and the women and children carried American flags.

HERRESHOFF WINS FINALS.

Defeated Maurice E. Risley at Golf for Governor's Cup.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 1.—Fred Herreshoff, of Garden City, took final honors in the annual Fall golf tournament of the Atlantic City Country Club today, defeating Maurice E. Risley, of the Home Club, for the Governor's cup two up.

Herreshoff was never down. Risley successfully came from two down and evened up the match but the strain of his play in the morning game with Walter J. Travis told on him and he wavered on the last two holes.

Risley eliminated Travis in the forenoon in a hard 20-hole match for the honor of meeting Herreshoff. The Garden City finalist defeated Richard Mott, Hutingdon Valley, C. C., in the other semi-final round.

MANY ELECTIONS SET FOR TUESDAY

Eight States and Many Municipalities Will Choose Officers on That Day.

CAMPAIGNING HAS CEASED

Four Congressional Districts Send Representatives to Washington. Seven Candidates for Governor in Massachusetts.

New York, Nov. 1.—Elections will be held next Tuesday as follows:

Massachusetts—Governor and State officers; Legislature.

New Jersey—Governor; Legislature.

New York—Chief Judge Court of Appeals; associate judge Court of Appeals; nine Supreme justices; Assembly and State Senator 21st district.

Maryland—United States Senator; State Comptroller.

Pennsylvania—Two judges Supreme Court.

Kentucky—Two Circuit judges; Legislature, two constitutional amendments.

Virginia—Governor and State officials.

Congressional — Third Massachusetts; 13th and 20th New York and Third Maryland districts.

Municipal elections will be held in many cities, the more important contests beng held in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Louisville.

Virginia Elects Governor.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 1.—Virginia will elect a Governor next Tuesday, chief interest in the event being the fact that there is but one candidate, an almost unprecedented situation. The Democratic party is in the field, having nominated Henry C. Stuart. Republicans and Progressives were unable to agree upon a candidate that both parties could support and determined not to enter the contest.

Campaign Closed.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 1.—The campaign in New Jersey which involves principally the election of a Governor, practically closed tonight. The campaign has been marked by the presence of several speakers of National prominence. Secretary of State Bryan and Congressman Glass, of Virginia were among those who spoke for James F. Fielder, the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Senator Borah and other Republicans of progressive tendencies, spoke for former Governor Edward C. Stokes, the Republican candidate. Former Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, and Governor Johnson, of California, spoke for Everett Colby, the Progressive candidate.

All Hands Confident.

Boston, Nov. 1.—One of the most spirited campaigns in Massachusetts politics virtually was closed tonight with four of the seven candidates for Governor declaring themselves confident of success. There will be decided also contests for the rest of the State ticket and the Legislature. The latter is now Republican.

The gubernatorial contest is an unusual one. Governor Eugene N. Foss, who forsook the Republican party four years ago and was elected to Congress as a Democrat, has renounced the Democratic party which subsequently made him Governor for three terms, and is running independently for a fourth term.

His Democratic opponent is David I. Walsh, who has served two terms as Lieutenant Governor.

Congressman August P. Gardner leads the Republicans, while the standard bearer of the Progressives is Charles S. Bird, a paper manufacturer of Walpole.

Kentucky Elections.

Louisville, Nov. 1.—With the legislative seats conceded to the Democrats in almost every district in the State, interest in next Tuesday's election in Kentucky is confined largely to municipal contests. A bitter campaign has been waged in Louisville and several other cities.

Taking No Interest.

Baltimore, Nov. 1.—Despite the activity of the various candidates and the efforts of political orators of National reputation in the campaign in Maryland, which practically closed tonight, the voters generally displayed no great enthusiasm. Chief interest centers in the contest for the United States Senate, the candidates being Blair Lee, Democrat; Thomas Parran, Republican, and George L. Wellington, Progressive.

New York, Nov. 1.—The voters of New York State next Tuesday will choose two Judges of the Court of Appeals, and a new State Assembly. As factors other than partisan politics enter into the election, the contest for control of the lower House of the Legislature is expected to be the real test of party strength in the State.

Thirty-four cities will elect Mayors and nine Supreme Court Justices will be chosen.

Now Quiet in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—The State political campaign which had been quiet, ended tonight. The electors will select two judges for the Superior Court, and will vote on five proposed constitutional amendments. More interest was shown in the amendment authorizing a $50,000,000 bond issue for roads than in the Superior Court canvass, opposition having been manifested against the bond issue.

Lewis in Massachusetts.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 1.—The Orient, Europe and Mexico would regard the defeat of Massachusetts' Democratic candidate for Governor, Lieutenant Governor David I. Walsh, as a repudiation of President Wilson's foreign policies, according to United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

Surmise of Gridiron Contests—Vanderbilt Loses to Virginia; Sewanee to Georgia Tech; Yale to Colgate.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 1.—Battered and bruised the Vanderbilt University football team today lowered its colors to the University of Virginia, the score being 34 to 0.

The Virginia backs hammered the Vanderbilt line into a pulp, driving Morgan, the big Vanderbilt center, from the game with an injured foot and necessitating numerous changes in the line-up.

While Virginia's goal was threatened several times it was never in serious danger except in the final quarter. Boensch, Vanderbilt's quarter, darted through Virginia's defenses on Vanderbilt's yard line. Twisting and jumping, he spurted down the field, apparently assured of a touchdown. When he had passed all the Virginia players the throng of spectators was in suspense. But Randolph, substitute right half back for Virginia, out distanced other pursuers and, with a burst of speed, tackled Boensch on Virginia's ten-yard line. A costly fumble by Vanderbilt on the next play ended the Tennesseeans' chances to prevent a shut-out.

Virginia's scores in the first half were directly due to forward passes but in the latter half of the game the local men bored repeatedly through Vanderbilt's line and circled the ends for substantial gains.

Neither team scored in the first quarter. Each appeared to be testing the strength of the other and playing carefully. Virginia's first score followed a thirty-yard forward pass from Gooch to White who was downed on Vanderbilt's 15-yard line. Mayer and Gooch shortened the distance to the goal and Ray carried the ball over for a touchdown. Carter easily sent the ball through the posts.

The next touchdown by Virginia came after Vanderbilt had been penalized 22 1-2 yards for rough playing. Gooch shot a forward pass from the 25-yard line to Woolfolk who caught the ball as he was crossing Vanderbilt's goal line. Carter again kicked goal.

Curlin, who started at quarterback for Vanderbilt, made a costly fumble which led to Virginia's third touchdown. White recovered the ball on Vanderbilt's 20-yard line and Ray carried the ball over the line after three approaching plays.

Carter kicked goal. The first half ended with the score 21 to 0 in Virginia's favor.

In the first of the second half Virginia rushed the ball with end runs, line plunges and off-tackle plays from the Virginia 20-yard line across Vanderbilt's goal for a touchdown, Ray carrying the ball over the line. Carter kicked goal.

The last quarter started with the ball in Virginia's possession on Vanderbilt's 25-yard line. Randolph was sent in to replace Mayer and his fresh strength told against the Vanderbilt line. After several fierce line plunges he crossed the goal line with the final touchdown. Boensch's sensational run for 75 yards was the only feature of the game after that time.

The line-up was as follows:

Vanderbilt	Position	Virginia
Chester	LE	Coleman
Murray	LT	Maiden
Aske	LG	Redus
Morgan	C	Jett
Puttman	RG	Carter
Huffman	RT	Woolfolk
E. Brown	RE	Sillitto
Curlin	QB	Gooch
Sikes	LHB	Mayer
McQueens	RHB	Ray
Turner	FB	Landes

Referee: Bergen, Princeton; umpire, Risely, Colgate; head linesman, Cole, Michigan; touchdowns, Ray 3; Woolfolk 1; Randolph 1; goals from touchdown, Carter 4; time of quarters, 15 minutes; substitutes, Virginia: Randolph for Mayer; White for Coleman; Mayer for Randolph; Speer for Mayer. Vanderbilt, White for Huffman; Boensch for Cohen; Cohen for McQueens; Huffman for Morgan; Warren for Murray; Preston for Chester.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1.—Crashing through Sewanee's line at will and circling the ends for long gains, Georgia Tech football eleven this afternoon defeated Tennessee here 33 to 0. Homer Cook's 80-yard run around Sewanee's right end gave Tech a touchdown in the first quarter. It was followed by another in the second and one each in the third and fourth.

Tech was certain of the game from the start.

Unable to advance the ball when it was theirs Sewanee played a punting game.

New Orleans, Nov. 1.—Brilliant play by Kirk Newell, captain and left half of the Auburn eleven, was the main factor in Auburn's 7 to 0 victory over Louisiana State University here this afternoon. The only touchdown of the game came in the third quarter and Auburn's victory was made possible by a 50-yard run by Newell from the center of the field placing the ball within the shadow of L. S. U.'s goal posts. Harris tore through the L. S. U. line and placed the ball within a foot of the goal line. Another plunge and it was over, Arnold kicking the goal.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Chicago today crushed Illinois 28 to 7 and maintained its predicted front of the conference championship race. The Illinois lead through the first half with seven points scored early in the game when Pougue, quarter, ran back a punt through the whole Maroon squad for a touchdown but their defense melted away before the Maroons in the second part.

In the second half Chicago rushed the Illinois team off their feet.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—The University of Pennsylvania team with help of the trick plays and good generalship defeated Penn State today by the score of 17 to 0. It was a hard fought and fast contest. Penn State playing a stronger game than the score indicates.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—Wisconsin's conference football championship was lost this afternoon when Minnesota's eleven inflicted an unexpected one-sided defeat on the Sagers, 21 to 3. Their aggressive attack proved too strong for the Wisconsin system of defense.

The result puts Minnesota in a position to contest the conference title with the University of Chicago in their contest at Minneapolis November 15th. The game was one of the fiercest ever played in Madison.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 1.—A. & M. swamped Wake Forest this afternoon 37 to 0, the Baptists making only two first downs during the whole game. Wake Forest kicked off, and on the second play the Techs fumbled, the Baptists recovering and carrying the ball to A. & M.'s four-yard line on two penalties and three plays, they were held for downs. Wake Forest only had possession of the ball three times after this when they resorted promptly to puting. A. & M. made one touchdown in the first quarter, one in the second, three in the third, and a field goal in the fourth, Hurtt kicking four goals and missing one. A. & M. used a large number of substitutes. The features were the playing of VanBroklin, who made a 60-yard run for a touchdown in the third period, and made another touchdown after receiving a forward pass on the 25-yard line, and Riddick, who made most of A. & M.'s gains, and the line plunging of Skarry. C. Young also played a good game for the Techs.

Summary: Touchdowns, Skarry, Riddick, VanBroklin (3); goals from touchdown, Hurtt, Cook; goal from field, Riddick from 30-yard line; officials: referee, Fetzer, of Davidson; umpire, Reeds, of Oklahoma; head linesmen, Wilson, of Lehigh.

Substitutions: Powell for Carter; White for Jones; Tyner for Trust; Lee for Horne; Seifert for Anthony; O. S. Winston for McHenry; Beauregard for Cooke; Ferderber for Phillips; VanBroklin for Rice; Young, R., for Skarry; Skarry for Young, R. Time of quarters, 11 minutes; attendance, 800.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.—The strength of the Crimson first line players and the weakness of the second string men were brought out in Harvard's game today against Cornell which the Crimson won with apparent ease, 23 to 6.

As long as Brickley, fullback; Hardwick, left half; Captain Storer, right, and others of the regular Harvard team were in the line-up, touchdowns were scored regularly and Brickley added his customary field goal. Cornell was held back of the middle of the field and was a negligible factor for three periods.

In the last 15 minutes, Coach Haughton sent his substitutes into the game and they crumbled against the Ithican onslaught, allowing a touchdown.

It was the first consistent march of an opposing team to Harvard goal line this year, although Holy Cross scored on Harvard in the game two weeks ago.

The three Harvard touchdowns, all by Brickley, came on steady rushing and varied plays.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—Colgate found Yale's much united defense more of a tradition than an actuality today and defeated the Blue 16 to 6 by superior football. It was the first time this year that Yale has been scored upon and Colgate goes down in the football hall of fame as one of the very few colleges in the country to defeat Yale.

Colgate's team was fast, well balanced and splendidly drilled. It appeared heavier than Yale's. Its two giant tackles, Parker and Abel, opened great holes in the lines through which the fullbacks swept for good gains. Yale was weakened by several substitutes in the line. Cornish, who was playing a star game at quarterback, had his jaw broken just before the close of the second period, and his understudy failed to measure up to his standard.

Colgate made two touchdowns and a field goal. One touchdown was the direct result of a fumble and the other partly so. Thompson who succeeded Cornish fumbled a punt when tackled and it was Colgate's ball on Yale's 15-yard line. Five rushes brought a touchdown. The second came when Knowles, Yale's right half, standing back of his own goal line for a punt, let the ball slip through his fingers, and Riley, Colgate's right end, fell on it.

In the last period Brook, Colgate's left guard, sent the ball between the uprights from the 25-yard line.

Yale's touchdown came in the second period. The Blue, playing fiercely, rushed the visitors off their feet, until finally Knowles made a dashing end run for 15 yards and crossed the line.

Athens, Ga., Nov. 1.—The University of Georgia defeated the A. & M. of North Carolina 19 to 6 in a fiercely contested football game here today. The visitors several times endangered the Georgia goal line, but were unable to score until the final quarter. Two of Georgia's touchdowns came in the second period and the other in the third. McWhorter, the star right halfback of the Georgia team, made two of the Georgia scores. In the third period he received a North Carolina punt and ran 50 yards for a touchdown.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 1.—A savage offense gave the University of Michigan football team a 43 to 7 victory over Syracuse this afternoon. During the first two periods the orange line melted against whirlwind attack which produced touchdown after touchdown. Syracuse braced in the third quarter and gave Michigan a battle. In the closing minutes of play Syracuse made a game rally and crossed the Michigan goal for their only score.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 1.—Princeton's reconstructed football eleven defeated Holy Cross this afternoon by 54 to 0. The visitors never threatened Princeton's goal line. The Tigers netted long gains by a series of forward passes and in addition successfully made end runs, fake passes and fake kick plays.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Resorting in the main to straight football but using an occasional forward pass or criss-cross formation, the Carlisle Indians overwhelmed Georgetown University here today 34 to 0. Georgetown never threatened the Carlisle goal.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 1.—Navy's football eleven easily defeated the Lehigh University team here today 39 to 0. The game was marked by long, tearing plunges through the line by the Navy and in addition there were two runs of nearly the entire length of the field by Miles and Nichols, who went in as substitute fullback and quarterback respectively in the last period.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The Army eleven was beaten by Notre Dame today by a score of 35 to 13. The cadets were outclassed in every department of the game, and except in the second quarter, when they scored both their touchdowns, they looked like novices beside the Westerners.

Notre Dame's long forward passing and pretty open field play was spectacular and a revelation to Eastern football enthusiasts. Out of 14 attempts with the forward pass the Westerners made 12 good for long distance gains. Fullback Eichenlaub plowed through the Army line for good gains.

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 1.—The Virginia Polytechnic Institute team was defeated here this afternoon by Washington and Lee University by 21 to 0. The Techs played a defensive game throughout with the exception of the final quarter when they made two determined efforts to score but their opponents with superior weight held them.

Washington and Lee played an open style and made many gains on forward passes. They scored one touchdown in the first, one in the second and one in the final quarter.

Davidson, N. C., Nov. 1.—Davidson defeated Newberry College here today 32 to 0. The game was a fast contest. Davidson gained consistently on forward passes and line rushes. McKinnon and Elliott, for Davidson, and MacLain, for Newberry, starred.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—Percy G. Cornish, Yale's best quarter back, will not play football again this season. This was the announcement tonight of physicians who examined his broken jaw.

Pittsburg, Nov. 1.—The University of Pittsburg, victor over Carlisle and Cornell, was defeated today by Bucknell 9 to 0. At the same time Washington and Jefferson College, that a week ago held Yale to a 0 to 0 tie defeated Grove City College by a score of 100 to 0.

A GOOD GENERAL DOG.

One day last Summer two sportsmen were sitting at a table in a restaurant in Ottumwa, Iowa, eating their noonday lunch, and as they filled their stomachs they felt better toward the world in general and each other in particular. One of them lived in South Dakota and the other in Ottumwa. Both are good shots, both love to hunt, and in the course of the conversation the Dakota man said that he had made arrangements to put in a week immediately after September 1st shooting prairie chickens, and it would be a pleasure to have the Ottumwa man join him.

So it was arranged that they would take the hunt together and that the Ottumwa man was to send a young setter dog he had raised to a trainer in South Dakota to have him broken on prairie chickens, and the two sportsmen would have him ready to start in with when the season opened.

A few days later the dog was sent to the land of water-right homesteads and State-capital fights and placed in the hands of the trainer. The arrival of the dog was acknowledged, and after about a month the owner wrote and asked how the puppy was working. In a week or so he received the following letter from the trainer:

——————, S. D.

Mr. H. W. H.——, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Dear Sir: Your inquiry arrived four days ago, just as I was going out to work the puppy, and I thought I would wait till I got back before I answered. I just arrived and I hasten to tell you about him.

I drove out four miles from town and took the dog in the buggy. I hitched the horse in a farmer's yard, and then took the dog out in a stubble-field, where I unsnapped his chain and told him to "go on."

He evidently caught the full meaning of what I said, for I have never seen anything without wings go like he did. That wheat field had about 600 acres in it, nad that dog circled it so fast that he looked like a merry-go-round. He made about four laps around the place and had five coveys of chickens, two calves, an old red bull and two mule colts all going at the same time, and finally, as a change in the program, he started right down through the middle of the field after a jack-rabbit.

He barked like a hound and chased the rabbit about a quarter of a mile, and I feel sure he would have caught it if he had kept after it, but just as the rabbit turned the puppy saw the fast mail train coming around a curve about a half mile to the west, and as it was going faster than the rabbit, he evidently thought it was a little closer to his gait, so he took after it.

I got up on a wind pump where I could see up the track for four miles. The train had a half mile start and is scheduled to make fifty-seven miles an hour, and being a little behind time it was probably going a little faster than that, but that puppy was running alongside of the engine, barking at it, before it got to the third mile-post. Then I guess he thought perhaps I might want to tell him something else, so he started back down the track and was there when I climbed down from the wind pump.

While he was drinking out of the water tank, I slipped up and caught him and put the chain on him. I then tied a 30-foot cord to the chain and took him out where I had seen a prairie chicken drop down in the weeds, and let him work up to where the bird was.

Just as the chicken got up he gave a lunge and started after it. When he jumped he got me off my balance so I couldn't pull him back, and he pulled so hard on the line that it raised his front feet off the ground, and he was traveling on his hind feet most of the time.

I had tied the rope to my belt and before I could get my knife out and cut it we were going across that field like a comet. The dog was jumping on his hind feet like a kangaroo and I was stepping from fifteen to thirty feet at a stride.

Just as we got to a wire fence, I cut the rope and the dog went through and I hung up against a post. He went across the road and in thirty seconds he and a covey of chickens and another dog and two cows were all mixed up in a kind of blur.

Oh, he's a good dog. That is, he's a good general dog. The great trouble with him now is that he changes his mind too often. He tries to hunt too many things at the same time. He is entirely too general in his pursuit.

But I want to say that if he ever does make up his mind to center his effort and decide positively to hunt for some one thing, he'll sure find it, if it is on top of earth.

I put in three days looking for him, and in that time he had been seen by twenty-one rural mail carriers, caused two runaways, been shot at four times and had chased every farmer's cat in two counties. For any distance up to four hundred miles I'll back him against an air ship. One farmer told me that he looked out of the window and thought he saw a wireless telegram going across the field, but an hour or so afterward he was talking about it with his neighbor, and he told him that he happened to be out in the road where he could see it good when it went by, and it looked to him like a dog, but he wasn't sure.

One of the mail carriers said he saw him run straight up in the air for three hundred yards and then turn and run straight down again.

I didn't see him do that, but I believe he can.

Yours truly, Thomas R. J.—

FORESTRY ASSOCIATION.

Regular Fall Meeting Held Last Month in Raleigh, N. C.

The regular Fall meeting of the North Carolina Forestry Association was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Raleigh at 10:30 September 30th. Although the attendance was not large, several important matters were transacted. The question of appointing delegates to the National Conservation Congress in Washington was taken up, and the following members were appointed:

Delegates—Mr. C. C. Smoot, Norh Wilkesboro: Mr. Hugh MacRae, Wilmington; Miss Julia A. Thorns, Asheboro; Mrs. T. P. Harrison, Raleigh; Mr. H. M. Cates, Graham.

Alternates — Congressman J. H. Small, Washington; Mr. E. B. Wright, Boardman; Mr. Frank R. Hewitt, Asheville; Mr. B. F. Keith, Wilmington; Dr. C. H. Herty, Chapel Hill.

Great care was exercised in selecting delegates who would attend, and a full representation of our association at the Congress is confidently expected.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Council of State to plant, so far as is consistent with the scenic effect, and with the plans of the Council, a full collection of native North Carolina trees on the Capitol grounds, and the grounds of the Governor's mansion. This matter has since been brought to the attention of the Council of State and they have expressed their willingness to accede to the request of the Association.

It was unanimously decided that the next annual convention of the association be held in some central town in the western part of the State.

Here-to-fore, the meetings have all been held in Raleigh and, for this reason, many of the west who are or should be interested have been unable to attend. It was also decided that in connection with the meeting some side trip or other form of entertainment be arranged. It is probable that our next meeting will be held in Asheville, toward the end of March or early in April. It is hoped that a side trip through the white pine plantations of the Biltmoer estate or through the conservative logging operations of the Carr Lumber Company on Pisgah Forest, may be arranged.

One of the principal objects of the meeting was to urge upon the Legislature the importance of extending the stock law all over the State. Our Association has always stood firmly for the elimination of the open range conditions and has steadily advocated a State-wide Stock Law. As a large proportion of those in attendance on the meeting were directly interested in the stock law measure being considered by the special session of the Legislature, and early adjournment was taken to permit the members to appear before the special legislative committee in charge of these bills.

Largely as a result of this campaign, headed by the indefatigable enthusiast, Mr. B. F. Keith, of Wilmington, and strongly supported by the agents of the United States Department of Agriculture, in charge of tick eradication work in this State, the legislature just adjourned has enacted a series of local bills extending the stock law over four more whole counties and parts of six others, and providing for elections on the stock law question in at least five additional counties. This is most encouraging; and if the present campaign can be kept up (and we intend to keep it up) Mr. Keith believes that within four years the whole of the State will be under this law.

Among those in attendance at the meeting were President E. B. Wright, President of the Butters Lumber Company, Boardman; Dr. D. H. Hill, President of the A. & M. College, West Raleigh; Mr. Clarence Poe, Editor of the Progressive Farmer and Vice-President for North Carolina of the National Conservation Congress, Raleigh; Secretary J. S. Holmes, Mr. J. S. Hill, Durham; and Dr. T. M. Owen and G. H. Randall of the United States Bureau of Animal Husbandry, in charge of Tick Eradication work in North Carolina.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT.

Two Young Business Men in Auto. Wreck.

Ocala, Fla., Nov. 1.—David S. Williams, Jr., and A. P. Smith, young business men of this place, were killed tonight when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on a country road near Ocala. Both were dead when their bodies were taken from beneath the heavy machine.

Williams was the son of a prominent family here. Smith came to Ocala two years ago from Baltimore.

The Atlanta Federal Prisoners to be Known by Their Names.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1.—Prisoners at the Atlanta Federal penitentiary in future will be known by names instead of numbers and their uniforms no longer will bear the letters "U. S. P." This announcement was made today by Good Words, the newspaper published at the prison.

For more than a year Warden Moyer has urged this change upon the officials of the Department of Justice, and recently, according to Good Words, his plan was given official sanction.

Lilly, Ga., Nov. 1.—A. D. Godwin city marshal of Lilly, was killed in a pistol duel here today with Wright Spradley, a prominent farmer. Spradley, who is believed to have escaped injury, is being sought by authorities. The men are said to have quarreled over a dog.

WEEK'S DOINGS IN ROBESON

Robeson Baptist Association Has Interesting Session—Cotton Crop is Short—Business Changes and Other Items.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 1.—Along with a large number of other Lumberton people, your correspondent spent a few hours Thursday at Antioch Baptist church, six miles south of town, where the Robeson Baptist Association was in session. To the writer it was one of the most pleasant days he has spent in recent years. The weather was ideal and the gathering of people was great.

There is where your correspondent heard gospel preachers first over 50 years ago, the late Rev. Haynes Lennon being the pastor at that time, he having served the church over 50 years. He was the first and last minister the writer heard preach at Antioch. This was between 25 and 30 years ago. Everything has changed there since then. The old church has been replaced with another building, the old log school house with its fire-place large enough to take in four-foot wood has been replaced by a modern building and a flowing well has taken the place of the well with the sweep and pole with the moss-covered bucket. It was there that your correspondent first went to school with his old blue-back spelling book in the latter sixties. During the writer's last school days there he walked four miles in the morning and four back in the evening. During the visit there Thursday your correspondent looked up old schoolmates and other friends he had known in his childhood, but found less than 20 of them altogether. While he was inexpressibly glad to meet these friends of other days again, it was sad indeed to realize that in a short time they will all be gone the way we must all go. The writer walked over the old burying ground near the church where as long as he can remember were a number of graves marked with lightwood markers. Those old markers are there yet, but since the writer's earliest recollection he has seen no one who could tell the names of the people buried there. Your correspondent was attending church at Antioch the day that Sherman's army or a part of it, passed through Lumberton and on down the road leading to Whiteville. In horror the writer gazed at the dreaded Yankees as their long train of wagons and soldiers passed the church. The correspondent's visit there Thursday brought most vividly to his mind the scenes and hardships of half a century ago, but not many at that meeting knew of the past from experience. Everybody there seemed to want everybody to feel at home. Talk about dinners! The people in that section know what to do when it comes to preparing for the hungry. Such a bountiful dinner, made up of everything good to eat, was there prepared to the queen's taste. Among those in attendance from Lumberton were Rev. C. H. Durham, Mrs. Thomas, Rev. and Mrs. Hedgepeth, Rev. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Lawrence, Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Pope, Mrs. S. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Regan McIntyre, Mrs. W. W. Carlyle, Messrs. L. R. Varser, E. J. Britt, R. E. Lee, Simeon Caldwell, Frank Gough and others not just now recalled. At this session Rev. C. H. Durham was elected moderator for the 12th time, while Dr. R. T. Allen was elected clerk for the 12th time. Among the prominent visitors present were Drs. Poteat and Vann, Revs. C. J. Thompson and Livingston Johnston. The association closed yesterday to meet next year at Raft Swamp, six miles north of Lumberton.

A start has been made tearing down the old tobacco warehouse immediately back of the Seaboard passenger station. The roof has been removed and it is hoped the work will be completed in a short time. Every person in Lumberton having a dread of fire should sleep better when the old building is removed as it has long been one of the worst fire traps in town.

The congregation of the East Lumberton Baptist church is having erected near the church a modern residence to be used as a parsonage.

William Lovett, probably 40 years old, night watchman at Kingsdale mills for several years, died suddenly about Thursday midnight while on duty. About 10 o'clock he went to Dr. Pope for medicine. The doctor seeing that he was in no condition to work, gave him the medicine and told him to go home. Instead of doing this he returned to the mill and about the hour named he went into the fire room and sitting down on a box asked the fireman to give him a drink of water. The fireman went for the water but upon his return found the man dead.

A two weeks term of Superior Court Judge Lyon presiding, convenes Monday, first week for criminal work and the second for the civil docket. Up to last night there were 14 prisoners in jail for trial.

If there are those who think that the cotton crop in this section is anythink like gathered they had as well get that out of their heads. Your correspondent has seen several fields that are white with cotton, some of the fields showing no signs of having been bothered at all. Mr. John S. McNeill, superintendent of the oil mill, made a trip through the upper end of the county one day this week and says he was very greatly surprised to see so much cotton still in the fields. A traveling man who has driven over the county a good deal says that some fields look like snow, no sign of any picking having been done being visible. More cotton has been brought to market during the past three days than during any three days this season thus far.

Rural Carrier John Meares, route No. 5 from this place, reports that on Wednesday afternoon he killed what he is satisfied was a mad dog. Though he had to shoot the dog four times with a shotgun, hitting it every time, the animal never uttered a sound of any kind as if in pain.

The persimmon crop in this section is a tremendous one, many trees being simply loaded with the fruit. Fat 'possums are beginning to make their appearance and in a short time beer will be plentiful if the people will make it.

A young man bearing the familiar name of Jones, said to have arrived here recently from Wilmington, was put in jail this week, charged with being one of a party who smashed some window glass down in the Lumberton cotton mill village. Your correspondent understands he made the required bond, but doesn't know whether he was tried or not.

A benefit show will be given at the Pastime theatre Tuesday evening for the benefit of the graded school library. Those interested in the work should attend and suggest to friends that they do likewise.

Florida oranges are becoming plentiful and while they are said to be sweet, they are the greenest ever seen shipped.

November came this morning with the temperature at the weather station here standing at 32. However, this was not the coldest morning of the season, as on the 21st the mercury was down to 31. During the month of October last year the rainfall at the station was .28 of an inch while during October this year it was 11.95.

Sheriff Lewis completed his round of the county tax collecting today. He says collections were just fair. When asked about cotton conditions the sheriff said that in some sections little of it had been picked, while in others most of it had been gathered. It was his opinion that the crop is the shortest in many years. Mr. A. W. McLean stated to your correspondent this morning that he believed the cotton crop in the county is the shortest in 20 years.

Regular services will be held at all the town churches tomorrow except the Gospel Tabernacle, where the services will be conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Howard VanDyke, returned missionaries from China. Mrs. VanDyke will address the congregation at 11 A. M. and Mr. VanDyke will speak at 7:30 P. M. Before her marriage Mrs. VanDyke was Miss Annie Holtz. She spent some time here a few years ago and will be greeted by a large number of admiring friends.

Messrs. McIntyre, Lawrence & Proctor, for several years local counsel for the Seaboard, have been appointed division counsel to succeed Maj. John D. Shaw, who died recently.

Mr. J. S. McDonald, manager of the McDonald Drug Co., has been confined at home most of the week as the result of an attack of malaria.—Rev. W. D. Combs, pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle, expects to leave Tuesday on a ten days' trip to Atlanta and other places.

Conditions at the Waverly Hotel are about like they are on Wall street—unsettled. It was understood that the hotel would close this morning, but after Manager Jones had made his arrangements to move out, he was yesterday requested to hold over till Monday with the privilege of remaining until the 15th and perhaps right on. The hotel people don't know where they are at.

Your correspondent got it "officially" this morning, from a news butcher that the proposed new train on the Seaboard would be put on the 23rd of this mouth, which falls on Sunday. All who observe changes of railroad schedule will admit that they generally occur on Sunday.

Two or three real estate deals are pending here, which if they materialize, will shake things during the next few days.

Mr. T. L. Johnson has purchased a half interest in the Lumberton opera house and henceforth it will be the Lumberton Opera House Co., Inc., with H. M. McAllister and T. L. Johnson proprietors and W. S. Wishart, manager.

W. C. Jones, formerly of Wilmington, but later of Wadesboro, married a girl here last January. Ten days ago he is alleged to have forsaken his wife, leaving her a note telling her he was gone. He was arrested in Wadesboro Thursday and brought back here charged with abandonment. On his arrival here yesterday he appeared to be on the verge of having delerium tremens, having been drunk ever since he left here, it is said. He was placed in jail to sober up. In the Recorder's court today the woman appeared and pleaded so hard for him that judgment was suspended upon payment of cost. His sister came to the rescue and paid him out and he and wife are reunited. Jones claims to have represented Bladen county in the Legislature some time in the past. He also claims to be a lawyer.

Dr. C. C. Lockhart, who claimed Monroe as his home, was arrested here today charged with practicing medicine without license. The doctor was discharged with the understanding that he leave on the next train. His condition is pitiful in the extreme as he appears to have let dope take from him all sense of reason, his only object seeming to be to secure drugs at all hazards.

The Waverly Hotel doors were closed today. Manager Jones and family moving out. Mr. Hyman Anderson, formerly manager of the hotel, has again taken charge and says he will keep it open until the 15th to accommodate people who desire rooms, but no meals will be served.

GOVERNOR TO WASHINGTON

Nature of His Business Unknown. Work on Buncombe Roads—American Bank a State Depositary—Notes.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 1.—Governor Craig left this morning for Washington, D. C., on official business, the nature of which he would not make public. He will return to Raleigh Monday morning and be here until Tuesday afternoon when he leaves for Asheville where he will be for the North Carolina Good Roads Days, November 5th and 6th. Buncombe county, therefore, gets the services of the chief executive on the roads those two days, the personal work of the Governor in road building to be one of the crowning features of the day in this State.

Judge Charles M. Cooke, presiding over the Wake Superior Court this week, made a unique disposition of the damage suit of John Weaver vs. Royall Cotton Mills Co., Wake Forest, in which $20,000 damages was being sued for. He sent the jury out and told counsel that he had been considering the case during the lengthy trial of three days and he wanted to tell the lawyers and parties to the suit that he had made up his mind that if a verdict for more than $2,500 were given by the jury he would set it aside and that if it were for less than $1,500 he would likewise set that aside. He suggested that plaintiff and defendant had better get together on a compromise. Very soon there was announcement of compromise that gave Weaver, the plaintiff $2,500, the maximum that the judge had intimated that he would permit to stand under jury verdict.

The resignation of C. H. Duls, of Charlotte, as judge of the Superior Court from the 14th district, was received in the Governor's office this morning after Governor Craig had left for Asheville. The appointment of a successor to Judge Duls will not be announced by the Governor until he returns Monday.

The Building Commission for the erection of the North Carolina Home for Wives and Widows of Confederate Veterans to be at Fayetteville, made a second attempt today to decide upon plans for the main building which is to cost $11,250, according to the latest adjustment of the funds. The death of Col. Ashley Horne necessitated re-organization, so Col. J. A. Bryan, of Newbern, was elected chairman to succeed Col. Horne. Final adoption of plans was left open to Monday when the commission will hold its first meeting about raising the $10,000 State appropriation since it is found not to have been included in the big bond issue.

addressed a Democratic rally here tonight.

"Mexico will go further," he said. "She will preach to her people that this condemnation was because the President and not recognized Huerta. Is the conclusion too far fetched that war might be precipitated, with all its horrors?"

Senator Lewis entered the Massachusetts campaign hurriedly, at the request of President Wilson.

"Just now, before the nations of the world, tremble two serious problems, said the Illinois Senator. "One is the effort of President Wilson and his administration to maintain before the Orient, particularly Japan, that doctrine of home rule which our fathers in Massachusetts established as the fundamental theory of the American democracy—the right of the States to regulate and control their home affairs, their schools, their lands, the manner and kinds of people who should mingle in their citizenship.

"Foreign governments do not understand your State issues, but they do know Massachusetts. You decided this election against the Democracy and the morning after this decision the Japanese in the Orient, recalling the fight of Massachusetts in behalf of the liberty of the black man, will cry aloud that Massachusetts has repudiated her President on the yellow question; that she has defeated him in his purpose to protect California and Massachusetts in her right of State rule and home government.

"Mexico will go further, she will preach to her people that this condemnation was because he had not recognized Huerta."

CYPRESS IN SOUTH.

Forest Examiner Leaves Washington to Examine Supply Here.

W. R. Mattoon, forest examiner, has just left Washington to study cypress in the South.

Cypress grows along the Atlantic coast and Gulf of Mexico from Maryland to Texas, and in the Mississippi river valley it extends as far north as Cairo, Illinois, at the junction of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. It is a distinctly tree of the swamps, and more than 90 per cent. of it is found at an elevation of less than 100 feet above sea level. Extensive cypress forests occur in the delta of the Mississippi, covering several thousand square miles, and also in some of the large swamps of Georgia and Florida, such as the Okefenokee and the great cypress swamps fringing the everglades. In some places it occurs where the soil is covered with water for weeks or months at a time, and in a few places the base of trunk is submerged throughout the year. Usually the lower part of the trunk is heavily buttressed and numerous projections, or "knees," are sent up from the roots, probably as an aid in securing air.

Cypress wood has great durability, which adapts it to many purposes for which some other species are unsuited. Census statistics show that in 1911 over 982,000,000 feet of it were used for lumber, lath and shingles, and that in point of annual consumption it stands seventh among the various soft woods, or coniferous trees. It is one of the few conifers which shed their leaves each Winter. It is used for a great variety of purposes, such as tanks, cisterns, columns, exterior and interior finish, railroad ties, poles and wharf piling. It is especially valuable for green house construction.

While cypress wood has so many good qualities the tree itself presents many problems to the forester. Its rate of growth, they say, is extremely slow, so that the cost of producing large-sized timber is great as compared with that of producing wood from other more rapidly-growing trees. Furthermore, it does not readily reproduce itself, and there is some doubt as to whether mature stands will replace themselves after being cut. It is an open question, according to the authorities, whether it will pay to maintain the species in localities where it now occurs. Much of the land upon which it grows is capable of high agricultural development when drained. Even where it might be reproduced, it is not known how this reproduction may be brought about. It is with a view to throwing light on these important problems that Mr. Mattoor is undertaking the present study.

NEW YORK CITY ECONOMIZES.

Budget for Next Year Calls for Small Expenditure.

New York, Nov. 1.—The budget committee of the board of estimate announced today that it had drawn up a budget calling for only $192,995,551 for New York City's housekeeping expenses next year. Although this is an increase of $284,110 over the budget for 1913, it shows the smallest increase of any budget for many years. As a rule, the yearly increase has been about $10,000,000. The committee estimated the general fund of the city at $42,500,000, indicating that the tax rate for Manhattan might be reduced next year from 1.81 to 1.77.

Panama, Nov. 1.—Secretary Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War, today inspected the 10th infantry at Camp Otis and the Marine Corps at Camp Elliott. An excursion to the ruins of old Panama has been arranged for tomorrow by the minister of foreign relations, Ernesto LeFevre.

Healthy Hair, Free From All Dandruff

Parisian Sage Makes Dull, Unattractive Hair Soft, Fluffy, Abundant and Radiant With Life.

Unsightly, matted, scraggy hair is a sign of neglect—of dandruff, the hair destroyer.

Parisian Sage is a scientific preparation, based on a thorough knowledge of what is needed to cleanse the scalp and hair, keeping them perfectly healthy, stop scalp itch and falling hair, and make hair grow. It supplies hair needs.

Parisian Sage is a tea-colored liquid, delicately perfumed—not sticky or greasy—that come in a fifty cent bottle at druggists and toilet counters. Always sold on money back of not satisfied plan by Robt. R. Bellamy. Look for the "Girl with the Auburn Hair" on the package.

Get a bottle today—pour a little on a sponge or cloth and rub lightly over the hair, taking a small strand at a time—rub it into the scalp. Presto! the dandruff surely disappears; the hair is free from dust and excessive oil and is doubly beautiful—you are made comfortable. Try it now—it will not only save your hair and make it grow, but give it that incomparable gloss and beauty you desire.

BUSINESS INSURANCE VS. ADVERTISING.

I am taking it for granted that every merchant has his business insured. I suppose all of them are insured against fire, lightning, burglary, dishonest employes, etc., but how many, I wonder, are insured against the greatest of all calamities—loss of trade? They will tell you this is an expensive luxury and I heartily agree with them; but I wonder how many consider their advertising an investment—business insurance as it were?

The advertising manager will sometimes run across a fellow who has something to sell but who is asleep at the switch, so to speak, and who will ask: "Does advertising pay?" Here is the answer: The concerns named here are National advertisers and ones who have found that it does pay: Mellin's Food, National Biscuit, Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes, Ostermoor Mattresses, Thermos Bottle, Rexall, Howard watches, National Cash Register, Bell Telephone System, and hundreds of others. When any sane man sees a list like that and fails to read its personal message to himself and to his business, there is something radically wrong with him.

Who pays the cost of advertising? Now, Mr. Consumer, I want to say right here to you as well as to you, Mr. Merchant, there is no cost to advertising. Publicity is an economy of business. Why? Let's refer to automobiles. Suppose a manuafcturer only produced a machine now and then, or in other words, when he received an order for one. Can you realize that only John D., and a few other potentates with a good rating in Dun's or Bradstreet's could own one. But advertising created a demand. Riding in an automobile is what everybody, except those minus the price and something to mortgage, is doing. What brings in the "kale" for the service of unlimited money and the greatest engineering brains? What has made the million dollar plants possible and made automobiles comparatively cheaper than cold storage eggs and creamery butter? Advertising!

A million dollar plant and $25,000 per year brains devoted to producing one automobile to order would make the price give Standard Oil assets a look like my bank account on settling day. But advertising spreads, the money comes back over the production of 100 automobiles per day. The million dollar plant and $25,000 per year brains draw toll from 100,000 automobiles per year.

Again, I ask, "Who pays the freight?" It pays itself and is tickled to death to do it. It makes for the perfect product. And it denudes the price of its fangs. And just here, Mr. Consumer, I want to say, "Don't buy the thing that is just as good, for by so doing, you pay for non-advertising, help the trailer or has been and you boost the piker's game. I imagine I can hear you say, Mr. Retailer and Wholesaler, that the advertisers I have mentioned in this article are specializing and can afford to advertise. Can you afford not to? And if they can specialize on one thing, can't you specialize on several things?

Now remember, that I am not saying that you don't advertise, for I don't believe there lives, in this day of progress, a merchant, large or small, who does not advertise. But do you consider your advertising an' investment? Or do you go at it in a slip shod manner, scratching your ad on a piece of scrap paper, leaving its composition entirely to the newspaper set-up man, contracting for so much space each issue, and then fill it from border to border and allow your ad to stand from issue after issue.

And right here I believe is a good time to give a few simple rules to all. Never advertise unless you have something to sell that is worth the price you ask for it. For as Lincoln once said: "You can fool all of the people part of the time and part of the people all the time, but you can't fool all of the people all the time."

Never allow your ad to run several issues without changing it. Never get the habit of exaggerating. The public will soon see through your exaggeration and will place you and your business on a level with your announcement.

Do not forget quality and talk price. Tell about your goods. Prices are forgotten long before quality. Never advertise spasmodically. If your appropriation is small, use small ads, but keep constantly at it, and above all change your ads every issue.

Never drop off in your advertising in the dull season but rather increase it for this is the time when you should strive to make business. You will not only mend the quiet times, but the rush will be better when the season comes around. I know of several firms who always increase their advertising during the so-called dull season, and, as a consequence, they have no dull seasons. Do not imagine you and your goods are so well known that you do not need to advertise. Your competitor will be much better known than if you do not advertise by modern methods.

Do not think advertising is simply a hit and miss affair. Systematic advertising coupled with the right kind of publicity pulls business, and if you pay for an ad that pulls, it is better than paying for space filled with copy that does no good.

And last, but greatest of all—never consider your advertising an expense—it is an investment and the value it attains by persistent and constant advertising is one of the finest elements of "good will" in any business.

SMALLPOX AT ST. MARY'S.

Isolated Case Has Been Discovered at School in Raleigh.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 1.—A case of smallpox developed today at St. Mary's School, Episcopal Parochial school for North and South Carolina, in a most unaccountable manner. Rev. George W. Lay, rector of the school, says it is a very mild case, the patient having no temperature. She had been under close observation and isolated for days before physicians finally pronounced her malady smallpox. Dr. Rankin, of the State Board of Health, and Dr. Knox, have given special attention to the case and to precautions to prevent any spread of the disease among students. Dr. McKee, city physician, is in charge of the case, with a trained nurse constantly with her and the most complete isolation. The work of the school will go right on without interruption, everybody about the institution being freshly vaccinated.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published daily except Monday, at $6 per year, $3 for six months; $1.50 for three months; 50 cents for one month, served by carriers in the city, or by mail.

THE SUNDAY STAR, by mail, one year, $1; six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES may be had on application, and advertisers may feel assured that through the columns of this paper they may reach all Wilmington, Eastern Carolina and contiguous territory in South Carolina.

Obituary sketches, cards of thanks, communications espousing the cause of a private enterprise or a political candidate and like matter will be charged at the rate of 10 cents per line, to persons carrying a regular account, or, if paid cash in advance, a half rate will be allowed. Announcements of fairs, festivals, balls, hops, picnics, excursions, society meetings, political meetings, etc., will be charged under the same conditions, except so much thereof as may be of news value to readers of the paper, in the discretion of the editors.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 51; Editorial and Local rooms, No. 61. Call either, if the other doesn't answer.

COMMUNICATIONS, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and, if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected unless the real name of the author accompanies the same, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

ALL DRAFTS, checks, express money orders, and postal money orders, for the paper should be made payable, and all communications should be addressed to THE WILMINGTON STAR CO.

Some men have bad luck on account of being too far behind the crowd that gets to the pie counter first.

When a politician gets into trouble he goes right off and gets in to more trouble by becoming a Progressive.

One of the best signs that something is wrong with a man's head is that he is always putting his foot in it.

When a Mexican seeks safety in flight he does only what any of us would do if we could aviate and save trouble.

No man should claim to have been a woman's schoolmate unless he explains that she was only a golden-haired tot at the time.

Standing at Armageddon is not a one-night stand. Some of them will stand there till doomsday without standing the least showing.

All men believe in free speech. Some of them even go so far as to believe that a good speech is so free that they garble it and use it for their own.

Lillian Russell says "women aim to make themselves attractive." The marvelous thing about it is the accuracy of their aim. They never miss.

"Just talking back" is one of the habits of the Jacksonville Times-Union, but its forward talk is a custom with the paper. However, it is always telling a lot of "Florida fish stories."

The currency bill introduced by Representative Carter Glass is still his but it is not "the same old bill." After it passes he will have to look into the Glass bill to make sure that it isn't a reflection on his originality.

Of course, the Philippines will be given their independence "when they are prepared for it," but they should be given to understand that they must be better prepared for it than New York, Tennessee, South Carolina and Colorado.

Horace Greely used to make this painful inquiry: "Will lying never cease?" It never did while he was living, but up to the time of his death it hadn't become an art like it has developed among New York politicians when they try to explain their acts.

It would delight the average constituent if there should come to the hustings a political aspirant who can prove that he is a big man without proving that his opponent is a little man—"small potatoes and few in a hill," as they say in South Carolina.

Many years ago a wit declared: "The world is divided into two classes—one doing something and the other complaining because it was not done the other way." Same old classes are still here. One class does something and the other class tries to do the class that does something.

A young man in New York got daffy on a Tennessee girl and embezzled $55,000 in order to impress her with the fact that he was in affluent circumstances. When a fool and his money are parting without regard to consequences, a North Carolina girl's first question is, "Where did you get it?"

President Huerta invited General Felix Diaz to go to the City of Mexico to see him. Concluding that Huerta wanted to see him worse than he wanted to be seen, the General immediately went to see the commander of an American battleship so he could go to sea with him instead of going to see Huerta. The Mexican papers denounced Diaz for being "a molly," but the truth is he did not care to take chances on mollifying Huerta.

Florida politicians also hate to see it dull when it comes time to run for office. A contemporary in the Land of Flowers refers to a Senatorial candidate as "raging around the State and using his club at Jacksonville." The only difference between Senatorial aspirants in Florida and about thirteen other Southern States is that those in Florida have got the start on the others who "rage around" under the hallucination that they are Senatorial tall timber.

THE OTHER SIDE OF RATE REGULATION.

The railroads have their rate problems as well as the shippers, and now that everybody is studying the rate question it should be considered from all angles, in order to get "just freight rates", not just to suit us, but just for the State, just for the people and just for the carriers that serve the people and the State.

The evils of the transportation system must be corrected and discrimination must be eliminated before the people can admit that there is any other side to the question. No people can be held up and then be expected to be prayerful for the success of the freebooter, but with just treatment from the railroads the people will be for just treatment for the railroads. We need the railroads in our business and the railroads need us in their business, and there must be some common ground upon which we can stand for the good of the State, the people and the railroads.

The Star's position on the rate question has been to resent injustice but stand for a square deal for the best interests of all the parties at interest. Chairman E. E. Clark, of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and who is himself a graduate from a long term of railroad service, recently made some judicious and significant remarks before the National Association of Railway Commissioners. Among other things he said:

"If it be true that the present financial condition of transportation agencies is due to reckless, improvident or even dishonest financing in the past, it would be a mistake to undertake to correct it by a policy of reprisal which would impair the usefulness or efficiency of the carriers on which the welfare—the very life—of the commerce of the country depends."

All of that must be admitted by those who want to see the country develop and prosper and see the railroads prosperous and vigorous enough to perform the great service they are rendering. With abuses corrected and fair treatment assured all round, we don't think there will be any great difficulty in getting the patrons of the railroads to acknowledge that they are compelled to have revenue so they can give effective and ample service for the territory they serve.

Not only that, the railroads have great development schemes to carry out at great cost for the general good of their territory, with only a remote chance of getting it back by actual developments in the remote future. They are casting bread on the waters, but they are sure to get it back in the future. We can help them get it back in the early future if we will fall into line with them and co-operate in their development plans. Some community is sure to do it, but eastern North Carolina ought to do it first.

PAD THE PAYROLLS.

Christmas is coming and then comes 1914 with its 365 days for doing at least 365 things for the progress and prosperity of Wilmington. Wilmington has done pretty well this year but it ought to do mighty well next year. The way for that to be done is to pad the payrolls of every industry in Wilmington and add to the city's payrolls by establishing new industries along diversified lines. The present busy year will close in 60 days and if every live man in the city thinks up something by the first of January, we can hold a mass meeting of industrial thinkers who can get together on some plan or some understanding that will promote the development of the city. While we are doing sixty days of thinking we ought to think of establishing a few industries ourselves as well as ponder over the best plans to induce outsiders to come here to engage in manufacturing—to join us, it would be all the better to say.

There isn't any use to dwell on the necessity of plenty of payrolls to increase the prosperity of Wilmington. Everybody admits that plenty of employment for men and women workers and earners would be a boon to the city and its population now here and yet to come if employment is provided. Since we all recognize that to be true, the thing for every man in Wilmington is to join in a campaign for establishing and getting factories with little and big payrolls that shall contain the names of men, boys and girls who are seeking some opportunity to earn a livelihood. Wilmington needs to be a city of greater payrolls and more payrolls. What to do to have factories with payrolls is the subject that we have to consider.

What shall we do? Well, the first thing to do is to quit having pipe-dreams about making Wilmington a manufacturing city without getting together and organizing a definite and effective plan for doing it. Individually, we are indulging ideas of progress but we need to get all these ideas in concrete form by uniting in an organization that will have push and punch in it—not the "pnch" that puts us out of business but the punch that means business. There are a lot of excellent plans to work upon, but none can be agreed upon till we get together and hear propositions and decide upon some action. We cannot do much by resolving within ourselves to be "a live Indian," but we can whoop it up by getting together and working together on plans, propositions and projects that will appeal to investors and promoters.

One of the first things we have got to do is to know Wilmington ourselves before we can hope to tell others about Wilmington. We ought to know in the concrete what Wilmington has done, what Wilmington is doing, what Wilmington can do, what Wilmington ought to do, what Wilmington should do, and what Wilmington must do. All of this involves the advantages, adaptibilities, potentalities and possibilities possessed by Wilmington for manufacturing and distributing and for reaching consumers. Each one of these subjects ought to be studied and elaborated. We can only hint at them here.

THE PUBLICITY GAME.

The Manufacturers' Record, the most persistent, the most consistent, and the most effectual booster of the South, has good words for the work which The Star has been doing for Wilmington and all this splendid section, so rich in resources and possibilities. We greatly appreciate the commendation of a publication of such great influence, and it gratifies us to publish elsewhere the editorial which refers in a way to The Star's efforts, but which in a general way contains a hint of great value to people who are interested in promoting their cities by aiding in broadcasting publicity when it is given in the home papers.

The Star has often contained articles that would have attracted attention to Wilmington and this entire section, but we have never felt like urging that marked copies of the paper should be sent from one end of the country to the other by those interested in the subjects directly or interested in the development of this locality and section in a general way.

We have written several times on that means of aiding in attracting attention to Wilmington, but now that the Manufacturers' Record brings the subject home to our people, we can repeat that every article marked and mailed to distant points would make a good booster of the person who does so. It is helping The Star to boost by seeing to it that people abroad can observe what Wilmington is doing and achieving. Don't fail to read the article from The Record. The best part of it is the hint it throws out to those who appreciate the value of publicity. The article referred to is entitled "Why Americans Go to Canada."

UNION TERMINAL COMPANY.

The Union Terminal Company at Jacksonville is now doing business, and the Jacksonville Times-Union tells us that it is promising great things for that port. On Wednesday last through service to all local and long distance stations was regularly installed by the first carload shipment leaving the big warehouses of the company on Jacksonville's water front. The carload consisted of a large consignment of talking machines shipped by the Florida Talking Machine Company. It was routed to Tampa, and it is only the beginning of through business of all kinds from the big terminal.

The Union Terminal is not a publicly-owned terminal. It is a terminal which serves all the railroads and affords ample accommodations for distributors all over the United States, desiring to distribute out of Jacksonville. It is a warehouse company that provides storage and distributing service.

President Wilson will not even let President Huerta choose his own successor. "Hu" needn't think that just because Roosevelt chose his successor in the United States, such a thing will be tolerated in Mexico where the people have a right under their constitution to act for themselves. With a Democratic President officiating at Washington, Huerta will not be permitted to be the Roosevelt of Mexico. He is not Mexico's Teddy, by George!

The most delicious time of the year in Wilmington is every month in the year.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The United States is so far behind in the naval race that even though Great Britain and Germany were to call a halt for a time, and this country continue to build ships at the rate of two a year, we would not overtake the leaders for about ten years. But there is no likelihood that there will be any cessation of the shipbuilding race in Europe, and the only safety for the United States is to provide for four battleships at the session beginning in December, to make up for the cuts in the naval programme last year and the year before, and then to follow strictly the policy of building two ships annually.—Washington Post.

An unusual parole has been granted by Governor Blease, of South Carolina, to James G. Seigler, undergoing a sentence of seven years in the penitentiary for shooting an Aiken policeman two years ago. His considerable estate was in a somewhat tangled condition, and he has been given a month or six weeks to straighten things out, the only condition imposed being that he abstain from intoxicants, go unarmed, and report to the sheriff once a day. Many signed the petition for a temporary release, no doubt because he is of a prominent family, and ought not to be too severely punished for mere homicide. — Springfield Republican (Ind.)

Ten days ago the bark John Ena was in a storm off Cape Hatteras. The scared helmsman deserted the wheel. There was imminent danger of the vessel going to the bottom. Mrs. Charles V. Olsen, wife of the bark's master, saw the sailor leave his post. She realized the dangerous predicament of all on board. Quickly she sprang across the deck and swung the big wheel over. No doubt she saved the live of the vessel's crew. If Mr. Carnegie's hero commission has a spare medal the case of Mrs. Olsen is recommended for investigation. And if non-hero medals, coward medals, are being distributed it might be well to pin one on the sailor who wasn't as brave as a woman.—Savannah News.

For some years past the hotel situation at Lumberton has been bad. Now it is both bad and interesting, for, after the 15th of this month, the town will have no hotel at all. The old Waverly, of blessed memory, is to be torn down by the Bank of Lumberton, which owns it and which will erect a banking home in its place. The clerk of the hotel has rented rooms in another building, where he will offer lodging for the people who visit Lumberton. The cafe will do the rest. A town of Lumberton's importance cannot long be without a hotel, and now that The Waverly, a sore spot of long standing, is done for, the public may expect something to be accomplished in the way of a modern hotel. Evidently Lumberton has got tired of waiting for outsiders to come in and build a hotel where the capital of that town was afraid to tread. If the Lumberton people will manifest a little disposition to give Mr. A. W. McLean enough backing to show their faith in him as a good fellow, their hotel problem will be soon solved.—Charlotte Observer.

The negroes of North Carolina are to be congratulated on the State Fair which has just been held in Raleigh. It was made a jubilee because of the semi-centennial of the freedom of the race, and the reunion of those who were one time slaves added a distinctive feature to it, and made it stand out as perhaps the best North Carolina negro State fair yet held. It marked the progress of the race along lines which will build it up in the way it should be built up, and those who aspire to leadership among the race will be guiding wisely and well if they devote their energies to the improvement of their people along these lines which make of them better citizens.—Raleigh News and Observer.

A WORD ON THE ADVANCED PRICE OF MILK.

Our local dairymen have announced that until further notice the selling price of milk for this locality will be 12 1-2 cents per quart, an advance of 25 per cent., on the price these dealers have charged heretofore. They explain this somewhat startling increase by stating that they had been driven to it by the high cost of feed and labor, conditions which had made their business yield them a loss, instead of a profit, for some time past; and assuring the public that nothing but this state of affairs had forced them to take this step, the necessity for which they deeply regret.

One cannot help feeling an earnest sympathy with a set of business men who thus reluctantly increase the price of a commodity as important as pure fresh milk; and it seems but meet that a community should not murmur against the increased cost, when the reasons for it are thus plainly stated. However, without questioning for a moment the truth of these assertions, the reflection has forced itself upon the writer, that if the cost of feed and labor in cities like Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and others, whose local conditions naturally require a much larger service expense than our small town, keeps dairymen able to deliver pure unskimmed milk for family use in sealed bottles at a selling price of less than ten cents per quart, while our milk dealers find themselves unable to serve it at 10 cents without losing money, these dealers must necessarily be very deficient in the knowledge of obtaining feed and labor at reasonable prices. And for the benefit of the public they are so anxious to serve, they would be surely willing to obtain this knowledge, provided the necessity of it would be proved to them.

To open their eyes to this, is in a measure, the duty of every milk consumer in the city of Wilmington. Pure, fresh milk, obtained from healthy cows, cannot be overestimated as a food, forming not only an important part of almost every family's daily meals, but an invaluable help in the care of invalids, convalescents and, most of all, infants and young children. In a prosperous community like ours, it is probably an easy matter for a large majority, to meet this increased cost of their daily needs, by quietly adding the required sum to their household expenses, passing it over with a joke or a "grumble," as the case may be. But we cannot and must not ignore the fact that there are in our midst—and their number is not few—housewives and mothers, whose daily duty it is to count the cost of the food they provide for their tables, even to the extent of pennies. And to many of them the only alternative in a case like this is to cut down the supply, when it becomes too expensive. There can be no doubt that many young children, whose daily sip of fresh milk means much for their growing young muscles and bones, will be deprived of this needful help, when their mothers realize that the difference in price must be spent on filling a number of other hungry mouths, equally depending on them. Now, if the milk dealers of Wilmington deserve our earnest consideration in their efforts to make ends meet from their point of view, perhaps more so do these hard-working young wives and mothers in their efforts to adjust the family purse to the needs of their households.

As I said, nothing can equal pure, fresh milk in quality, especially as a healthy beverage for old and young. But there are in the market many good makes of evaporated cream and milk, which, if necessary, will serve as substitutes for fresh milk in the preparation of custards, cakes and numberless other dishes served daily at our tables, and many good housekeepers will testify to their merits. And if we make a united effort—the sick among us as well as the poor, or rather the rich and well-to-do among us especially—to buy milk at 12 1-2 cents per quart only in quantities sufficient to supply our daily beverages, and while this price continues to use some good brand of evaporated cream or milk for all other purposes, it seems safe and logical to predict that it will not be long before some of our dairymen will make a special study of the cost of feed and labor, that will enable them to return to former prices. And incidentally we would have done a quiet little service in one of humanity's greatest and most sacred causes; the raising of the next generation.

HOUSEWIFE.

THE NEWSPAPER BUSINESS.

(Owensboro (Ky.) Messenger.)

The Lexington Tribune, a very sprightly new daily paper, which was started four months ago by T. M. Owsley, has turned its toes to the daisies. There was nothing wrong about the Tribune. It had all the appearance of a real newspaper. It was a real newspaper. It had a real purpose. But it was started in a field that was already well covered. There are no two better newspapers than the Herald, in the morning, and the Leader, in the evening, in Lexington. They are complete products. Not with $100,000 could Mr. Owsley have made the third proposition go in that field. He wisely saw his error and quit before his financial losses were very serious.

We note that, instead of new newspapers, there are now numerous consolidations of old papers in many cities in the United States. This has become necessary. There is every reason for economy and retrenchment in the newspaper business. The cost of labor is constantly increasing. The cost of paper was never higher. The demand for illustrations, for expensive features, for greater telegraphic service, for good writing, and the mad struggle for circulation to attract advertisers, is growing fiercer. Subscription prices are steadily lowering, and few publishers have the nerve to demand living prices for their advertising space.

There are many newspapers graveyards, and there will be more soon unless honest publishers courageously, systematically, show up the frauds in their profession who are faking the advertisers for business upon fictitious circulation claims. In this, happily, it now seems, however, they are to have the vigorous co-operation of the third assistant postmaster general. It is well.

WHY AMERICANS GO TO CANADA.

(From the Manufacturers' Record.)

"During the last 12 months 140,000 Americans settled in Canada. The reason they did so was because they were not posted about the opportunities in North Carolina. Canada has found out that the way to get settlers is to get them to thinking about Canada as a land of opportunity and great possibilities."—Wilmington (N. C.) Star.

It was not The Star's fault, for there is not in the South a more active, intelligent advocate of a city's, or a State's advantages than The Star, that the opportunities offered by North Carolina were not fully known by the people who went to Canada.

But what is Wilmington doing to back up The Star's work? What is the State doing?

Are the people of Wilmington really doing anything big and broad to make known the advantages of the country tributary to that city, are they doing anything to make Wilmington known?

How much active, practical appreciation of The Star's work have they shown?

How many of them have mailed to business acquaintances elsewhere copies of The Star containing interesting facts about that city?

How much is North Carolina, as a State doing to tell the world of its wealth and resources, of its wide range of climate, from the almost semi-tropic to the cold of its high mountains; of the almost infinite variety of its agricultural products; of the limitless opportunities for manufacturing?

Canada has been doing all these things for years, and doing them on a broad basis, costing hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. In this is found the difference between Canada and North Carolina and other Southern States. Georgia, through its State Chamber of Commerce, is endeavoring to raise $50,000 a year to be expended in making known the State's advantages. Every other State in the South must follow this example and do its own work in making known its own resources, and not depend upon outside or general organizations to do it for them.

INTEREST GROWING IN FAIR

Ladies of Sorosis Busy Arranging for Fine Arts and Industrial Exhibit—Programme for Corn Show Exercises.

The ladies of North Carolina Sorosis are busy completing the arrangements for the Fine Arts and Industrial Exhibit, which will be held in Wilmington on November 11th, 12th and 13th, and they are greatly encouraged by the support which they have received from the local business men and by the great interest manifested by the people of the city and county. Its success is assured.

The programme of the exercises of the Boys' Corn Show Day, which will be held in connection with the fair, was announced yesterday by Mr. J. P. Herring, county farm demonstrator, and includes addresses by Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State superintendent of public instruction, and other able speakers. The exercises for the first two days of the fair will be held in the Court House, and on the third day of the fair, which will be known as Boys' Corn Club Day, the prizes will be awarded for the best exhibits and for the largest yields, in The Star building on Chesnut street, where the fair will be held. In connection with the exercises there will be interesting corn exhibits.

The exercises for the first day of the Corn Show will begin at 11 o'clock in the Court House with an address by Mayor Parker Quince Moore. Following him Mr. C. R. Hudson, of Raleigh, will speak on the farm demonstration work which is conducted under the supervision of the United States government. The exercises will close with judging of corn by a committee composed of Messrs. C. R. Hudson, T. E. Brown and A. O. McEachern.

The exercises on the second day will also be held in the Court House and will begin at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. M. L. Stover, president of North Carolina Sorosis, will introduce Mrs. S. J. McKimmon, director of the Girls' Canning Clubs, who will speak to the girls on this work. Following this address Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, will introduce Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State superintendent of public instruction, who will deliver an educational address. Mr. T. E. Brown, director of the Boys' Corn Clubs of this State, will make an address on this work.

On the last day of the Corn Show and Industrial Fair Mr. D. L. Gore will deliver the prizes for the best exhibits and for the best yield the past year. This will take place at 11:30 A. M. in The Star building.

Mr. Herring yesterday mailed postal cards to those expected to make exhibits reading as follows:

"You are requested to send in your yield of corn to J. P. Herring not later than the 8th of November, as at this date the time will expire and should your corn yield not be in the hands of Mr. Herring on that date, you will fail to participate in the prize contest. Address all products that you wish to enter in the show to Mr. J. P. Herring, Wilmington, N. C., express prepaid."

The following with regard to the pure food exhibit is contributed by a member of Sorosis:

"Tell me what a man eats and I'll tell you what he thinks' may be an exaggeration—in fact, we know that it is—yet the principle back of the assertion is based on truth. A well-nourished body means a well-nourished brain. If the body is poisoned with adulterated food, brilliantly-colored candy and confections, pickles, etc., the brain will be poisoned in the same way by the same things. Science has proven these things for us to profit by, therefore we realize the necessity of eating and feeding our children on foods that are pure and properly prepared.

"One of the chief features of the New Hanover Fine Arts and Industrial Exhibit will be an exhibition of the purest foods on the market, a pure food directory and demonstrations of the pure and properly prepared coffees. The Domestic Science Department will look after another side of the same question.

"Enticing prizes will be offered for perfectly prepared foods. The merchants who wish to enter the contest for a fine barrel of Pippins may do so by calling 'phone 1755. People sending candy in sanitary packages of one pound each will have to present their goods on or before November 10th. A committee will be on hand at the former express office on Chesnut street, the day before the exhibit begins to receive them.

"The Pure Food Store Committee takes great pleasure in presenting the names of advertisers and contributors to the exhibit and wish to add that each is a representative and well known firm. The list follows: Pompeian Co., Washington, D. C., olive oil; Ralston Wheat Food, St. Louis, Mo., cereals; Horlick's Malted Milk Co., Racine, Wis., milk; Blooker's Cocoa, New York City, cocoa; Maple Flake Mills, Battle Creek, Mich., cereals; Robert T. Thomas & Son, New York City, coffee; Cleveland Macaroni Co., Cleveland, Ohio, macaroni and noodles; Northwestern Yeast Co., Chicago, Ill., yeast; A. Goodman & Son, noodles and macaroni; Kellogg Toasted Corn Flake Co., Battle Creek, Michigan; George Washington Sales Coffee Co., New York City, coffee; Huyler's, New York City, candy; J. W. Beardsley & Son, New York, peanut butter and codfish; American Sugar Refining Co., New York City, sugar; Rauxes Gelatine, Johnstown, N. Y.; Baker Co., New York City, coffee; Shredded Wheat Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Postum Cereal Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"The names of merchants and friends in Wilmington who have so thoroughly co-operated with the Pure Food Store exhibit will be given later, and the committee wishes to enlist the aid and interest of the entire community."

Will Make His Home Here.

Dr. J. W. Stanly, who removed from Wilmington to Asheville last February, has returned to the city and will resume the practice of dentistry here. He has formed a partnership with Dr. George Patterson, and they will be located in the offices in the Southern Building on Front street, now occupied by Dr. Patterson. Mrs. Stanly and children will remain in Asheville for a while, but expect to return to the city in a short time. Dr. Stanly has a large circle of friends who will be glad to know that he has decided to again make his home in Wilmington.

HEALTH BUDGET ANNOUNCED

Copies Transmitted Yesterday to the Council and Commissioners—Letter of Explanation Accompanies Budget.

Accompanied by a letter of explanation of certain features from Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt, county superintendent of health, copies of the new health budget prepared by the County Board of Health for the remaining seven months of the fiscal year, as required by the amendment to the county health bill, were transmitted yesterday to the City Council and the County Commissioners.

The Commissioners will meet in regular monthly session Monday afternoon and will consider the new budget at that time. The City Council will meet Monday morning on another matter, but the budget may also come up at that time. If not it will be considered at a special meeting Tuesday or at the regular meeting Wednesday. The communication accompanying the budget follows, this copy being directed to the Council:

"November 1, 1913.

"To the Council of the City of Wilmington:

"Gentlemen:—Conforming to the requirements of an amendment to 'An act to consolidate the health departments of the city of Wilmington and the county of New Hanover,' which act is designated as H. B. 1546-S. B. 495, I am directed by the Board of Health of New Hanover county to submit an estimate of the expenses of the Board of Health of New Hanover county for the remaining seven months of the present fiscal year; namely, from November 1st, 1913 to May 31st, 1914.

"Inasmuch as a signed agreement exists between a majority of the members of the Council and a majority of the members of the County Board of Health, who were appointed by both bodies, and were given power to act for each, and, inasmuch as the terms of this agreement have been in no way changed or abrogated by any act of this joint committee, or by act of any other administrative or legislative body, and, inasmuch as the officers and assistants of the County Board of Health have been elected to 'serve until the second Monday in January, one thousand, nine hundred and fifteen,' 'unless sooner removed', at the salaries fixed by the County Board of Health as provided in Sections 3 and 7 of H. B. 1546-S. B. 495; no change has been made in the amounts of the monthly salaries of any officers or assistants of the Board of Health. However, I am directed by the County Board of Health to call the attention of the Council to the meager salaries now being paid to Dr. Thos. B. Carroll, meat and milk inspector, and Mr. Geo. F. Catlett, city chemist, and, in view of the valuable and conscientious service being rendered by these officials, the County Board of Health most respectfully requests and recommends that for the remainder of the present year the salaries of these two officials be increased at least $25 a month to each official.

"Those items tabulated in this estimate under the head of sundry expenses are arranged and grouped with a view to adhering as strictly as possible to the provisions of the aforesaid amendment. Under the appropriation for disinfectants, all material used for the destruction of disease germs and parasites will be provided. Under the item, medicines for the indigent, all material used for the preventive and remedial treatment of the indigent poor and the inmates of the institutions will be provided. Under the item, uniforms for police, both Winter and Summer uniforms and outfits will be provided. Under the item, laboratory supplies, all chemicals, glassware, and other expendable material and such permanent apparatus as may be possible to provide when necessary out of the remaining funds of this item will be provided. Under the item, printing, stationery, and postage, all blanks, stationery, office supplies, and postage will be provided. Under the item of maintenance of conveyance, the up-keep, gasoline, oils, and other materials for the automobile will be provided as far as possible. Under the item, attendance Board of Health, the statutory provision for fees allowed the members of the County Board of Health for attendance upon meetings will be provided. Under the item of contingent fund, the cost of maintenance of indigent sick under quarantine, horse and buggy hire when necessary, and the unforeseen expenses of the operations of the health department will be provided for as far as possible.

"Under the head of maintenance of incinerator, the item of laborers and superintendent shows considerable increase over the pro rata monthly allowance made in the original appropriation. This increase is due to the necessity that has arisen for two additional laborers and for higher price labor. The original estimate was based upon an average of 20 tons per day of eight hours. The daily average is, however, more than 36 tons and the material to be burned is of such character that the laborers must be men experienced in the care of furnaces and the trimming of fires. The item of fuel and supplies remains about the same as provided in the original estimate, and the experience of the past four months indicates that the amount asked for under this item will be sufficient.

"By order of the County Board of Health. CHAS. T. NESBITT,
"County Health Officer."

The budget as arranged follows:

RESUME OF Y. M. C. A. WORK

Regular Activities of Young Men's Christian Association Rapidly Taking Shape—Many Members Enrolled.

The regular work of the Young Men's Christian Association is rapidly taking shape, and during the past week the many activities, made possible by the splendidly arranged and well equipped new building, just completed, have been opened up in a way that has far surpassed the expectations of the officials and the membership alike.

The formal opening of the building is still delayed because the remainder of the electrical fixtures have not arrived but all regular work has been started, and the officers all day yesterday and last night were kept busy receiving new members and lining them up for work.

Practically all of the apartments have been rented for the Winter, and the members who have taken advantage of these splendid advantages are well pleased. Many are using the baths, swimming pool and gymnasium in the morning, and several have lined up for a sun rise run.

The Bible classes have organized for the Winter's work. The Fellowship Supper and Bible Study Class held its first session Monday night. The Grammar School boys at a banquet Tuesday night got under way for work, and will keep up an aggressive campaign throughout the Winter.

The Boys' Department, an entirely new feature, made possible by the new building, is keeping well ahead of the Senior Department both in numbers and in the use of privileges. The lobby with its entertaining games of shuffleboard, boebolo, checkers and other features is socially a fine place for the boys. Hikes have been taken and others are being planned. The club rooms on the second floor have been fitted up and the boys' work director, Mr. Roberts, will push this interesting feature the coming week.

The Physical Department opened for work Monday and many new members for each class have been added daily. The department hopes to have the combination lockers tomorrow. Just as soon as they come they will be assigned and the classes will be completely organized. The Business Men's Class for sustaining members with its private showers, especially fitted up, locker rooms and special class work in the gymnasium is taking the lead, and will no doubt be a most popular class. The work that is being done is of the highest order and the instruction both along development and recreation lines is alone worth the small membership fees.

The new song books for gospel meetings have arrived, and this afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a "social song" service under the leadership of Mr. Edward Roberts, the boys' work director, who has had much experience in leading services of this kind for men and boys. The public is cordially invited to this meeting.

Friday morning the building committee met the architects and contractors for final settlement of financial matters. Mr. Shattuck, of the firm of Shattuck & Hussey, architects of Chicago, specialists in Y. M. C. A. architecture, after going over the building congratulated the committee on the splendid building both in point of construction and in finish. He also highly commended the method of arrangement.

This week will see every department lined up for work. The directors hope to be able to formally open the building within 10 days. Plans have already been outlined for this event which will mark a new era of usefulness for the association in this city among men and boys.

RESUME NIGHT SERVICES.

Special Musical Programme at St. James' Episcopal Church Tonight.

Night services at St. James' Episcopal church will be resumed this evening and in addition to a sermon by the rector there will be a musical programme which has been prepared especially for the initial service. As usual, there will be an organ and violin recital from 7:45 to 8 o'clock. As the anthem for this evening a part of the Cantata of "The Temptation" will be sung by the full choir of 30 voices, accompanied by the organ and violin. The music of the cantata is deeply devotional and its melody is of the sort that is most attractive to the average lover of music.

The sermons at the night services are always practical and are intended to meet the needs of every-day life.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be in waiting at the door to welcome all visitors. Strangers are extended a cordial invitation to worship at St. James' church.

The musical programme for the morning service, Holy Communion, at 11 o'clock, will be as follows: Communion service, Stainer; offertory, "O, Lord and Ruler of the House of Isreal!" Stainer; "Aben'dlied," violin and organ; Nunc Dimmittis, "Gregorian," Tone IV, Schuman.

The following is the programme for the evening service:

McHenry McChord, organist and director; Greene Fenley, violinist.

TO REPRESENT STATE.

Deputy Collector of Customs Leaves for Important Conference.

Mr. Thos. L. Vines, special deputy collector of customs, left last night for New York City to attend a conference of collectors to be held in the New York Customs House tomorrow. Mr. Vines was designated by the Treasury Department to represent the Customs District of North Carolina, quite a distinction for Mr. Vines, who is one of the very best men in the service. A recent order of the department called for this conference which is an important one in the re-adjustment of customs affairs all over the country to meet the new conditions brought on by the new tariff law. Mr. Vines will likely be in New York several days.

In Charlotte's Class.

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer, editorially: "The Murchison National Bank of Wilmington has abandoned its plan of a one-story all-bank building, and will erect a 10-story bank and office building. The Murchison's new home will be on the corner so long occupied by the Cape Fear Club, hard by the postoffice. The building is to cost the rise of $200,000, and will be in the Charlotte class."

MOTIONS AND JUDGMENTS

Kept Superior Court Busy All Morning of Last Day of Term—Criminal Term of One Week Begins Nov. 10th.

After being in session for two weeks and occupied largely with cases of minor importance on the civil docket, Superior Court adjourned yesterday at noon. The morning was devoted to the hearing of motions and signing of judgments, a number of cases on the motion docket being disposed of. Judge Rountree will preside this week over court in Pender county and next week will open a one-week term of New Hanover court for the trial of criminal cases.

It was expected that the case of Mrs. Helene P. LeMassena against Mrs. Elizabeth Vanb. Nichols would be called yesterday for a hearing on a motion in connection with the attachment of the furniture of the latter, but it was not taken up, going over until the next term.

POSTOFFICE RECEIPTS.

Wilmington Office Shows Large Gain in Business Over Last Month.

The receipts for the Wilmington postoffice for the month of October were $12,945.15. This shows the remarkably large increase of $2,756.84 over the preceding month of September, the receipts for this month being $10,188.31. For the month of October last year the receipts were $11,826.64, making an increase of $1,118.51 in favor of October of the present year. A large part of this increase in business is due to the greater patronage of the parcel post department, especially the C. O. D. feature, which was inaugurated July 1st. The indications are that the postoffice will continue to do an increased business, and at the present rate of growth it will be absolutely necessary within the near future to have additional help in order to look after the business properly. The fact is the office is badly in need of additional help even with the present business.

Building Permits Issued.

Building permits have been issued to Mr. E. Boushee for the erection of three five-room residences on Third street, the estimated cost of the buildings being $3,600. Mr. William Struthers, Jr., has been granted permits for the construction of six four-room houses, the estimated cost being $3,000. Four of these will be erected on 12th street and two on 11th street. Permission has been given Mr. James Sprunt to erect a garage in the rear of his home on Front street, the estimated cost being $1,100. Mr. W. A. Simons, the contractor and builder, has the contract for the erection of all the buildings. Reville & Page have been given permission to erect two four-room houses on Queen street, the estimated cost being $800.

THE C. W. POLVOGT COMPANY
"The Store That's Always Busy"

STYLE PLUS ECONOMY
IS ALWAYS POSSIBLE WHEN YOU PURCHASE AT POLVOGT'S.

Many women imagine they cannot dress in CORRECT style without becoming unduly EXTRAVAGANT. This is a mistaken idea, as hundreds of people who shop regularly at Polvogt's will assure you. Even the lowest price garments we sell, for instance, are made up on absolutely AUTHORITATIVE fashion lines; to pay more means added elaboration and finer fabrics, perhaps, but at THIS store the LOW-priced offerings are ALWAYS in Correct style.

It would probably astonish you if you knew how little some of the best dressed women in Wilmington pay for their clothes, and they do it simply by selecting EVERYTHING where a Dollar invariaby buys MORE. Read today's advertisement carefully through and you will find hints how you can make YOUR money buy more STYLE and VALUE than it ever did before.

FALLTIME FABRIC OFFERINGS.

The Correct Colors and Weaves, Backed by Our Liberal Guarantee as to Wear and Worthfulness.

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHES

We Are Particularly Prepared to Fit Slender Figures and Small Women.

We make these sizes a specialty. Of course we have regular sizes, also, but we pay particular attention to the fitting of the small woman and the slender figure.

Our garments will fit, because they are designed for special work. They are different from the garments usually shown by merchants because they are cut and sell for small women or slender figures, and designed with the chief idea of GRACE and STYLE.

Tailored Suits for $12.50 to $50.00.

Comprising Serges, Cheviots, Poplins, Broadcloths, Diagonals, Eponges, Velours and Velvets.

Evening Dresses and Dancing Frocks.

Each day brings us new Novelties in Dainty Frocks and Party Dresses, of Chiffon, Charmeuse, Crepe de Chine, Crepe Meteor, and Poplins.

We believe such collections of evening wear have never been shown in Wilmington heretofore, and will be a revelation to most people.

The garments we show have a distinct character and indicate to critical people that we KNOW STYLE and WEAVES in the selection of Women's garments. Women know what they want, in the selection of Evening and Dancing Dresses, and know style when it is presented. The Fashion Journals keep women thoroughly posted as to what is desirable, and only the new models are shown in our establishment.

There is nothing old in our stock.

Plans have about been completed for having a travelers' aid at the union station who will devote her time to assisting and serving in any way possible the needs of women who are traveling either to or from the city. The ladies hope to have the work begin this week. The Sorosis will launch the work, but in order to keep a lady at the station all the time they will have to depend upon the substantial support of the public in general. It is a worthy work, and one that should appeal to all interested in welfare work.

At the Masonboro public school house Friday night a most delightful Hallowe'en party was given for the benefit of the piano fund of the school. One of the features of the evening was the contest to determine the most popular young lady in the community. The prize was a cake given by Mrs. E. A. Orrell and was won by Miss Bessie Hayes, assistant teacher in the school, who received 3,507 votes. Miss Annie Mack Farrow came second with 2,792 votes. Miss Hayes was declared the most popular young lady in the community. The cake brought $63.39. The evening was most pleasantly spent by all present. The proceeds from the party were sufficient to pay off the indebtedness of the piano.

BANQUET AT WARSAW BY TOBACCO BUYER.

Warsaw, N. C., Nov. 1.—On Saturday night last, Mr. A. B. Anderson, one of Warsaw's genial tobacco buyers, entertained a party of his gentlemen friends in the spacious parlors of the Warsaw Inn, of which he is proprietor. The "stag party" was complimentary to the men connected with the tobacco market here and their friends. The parlors and dining room were tastefully decorated for the occasion, and the music was furnished by the Warsaw orchestra.

At 10 o'clock the guests were ushered into the dining room where a delightful six-course supper was served, after which the boys had a talkfest with T. B. Massie acting as toastmaster. The toasts were delivered in a happy vein, the first being Mr. A. B. Anderson, on "Our Tobacco Market;" then Mr. E. J. Hill on "Warsaw, Her Past, Present and Future;" Mr. John H. Carter, "The Men Connected With the Warsaw Market;" R. D. Johnson, "Our Wives and Sweethearts."

Those enjoying Mr. Anderson's hospitality were: Messrs. H. F. Pierce, L. P. Best, A. L. McGowan, J. E. Williams, J. W. Lovelace, A. J. Bray, W. L. Hussey, John H. Carter, R. H. Best, R. D. Johnson, E. J. Hill, R. L. Best, Walter Carter, D. S. Harris, R. W. Blackmore, B. C. Sheffield, J. S. Yarboro, James Hines, Stanley Wall, E. L. Jones, W. T. Jones, Elwood Tate, F. G. Spearman and H. H. Hines.

LOCAL DOTS.

—The County Commissioners will meet in regular monthly session tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—The Clyde Line steamer Santiago touched at Southport Friday en route to Georgetown where she took on a part cargo and returned here to finish loading. She arrived yesterday and will sail for New York today.

—In another column of today's paper will be found an advertisement of Mr. James Owen Reilly, the real estate man, announcing that Hibernian Hall, a three-story building on North Third street, opposite the City Hall, is on the market for sale. It is a valuable piece of property.

—During the month of October the police department made 149 arrests, 99 of the defendants being colored. There were 30 arrests for disorderly conduct, and 29 for drunkenness. For vagrancy there were 22 arrests while violations of the prohibition law were at a minimum, there being only five arrests.

—The cutter Seminole sailed Saturday for Hatteras to search for a derelict reported there. The work of the cutter along this line off the South Atlantic coast has been of the best and her commander, Capt. Carden, has established a record which has attracted attention all over the country and especially in Washington.

—Mr. J. Robert Branch, a popular young member of the Wilmington bar, has opened an office in the Trust building, occupying one of a suite of offices adjoining the rooms of Robert Ruark, Esq., of the local bar. He is well equipped for his profession and friends predict a brilliant career for him.

—The residence at No. 709 South Third street, occupied by Mrs. M. E. Jones and owned by Mr. Ben Crumpler, caught fire from sparks yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and the roof was slightly damaged, the loss being about $25. The firemen were called out and quickly subdued the flames.

—The city yesterday made its first payment on the loan of $200,000 secured from the Old Dominion Trust Co., of Richmond. In accordance with the terms of the loan $50,000 of the amount was paid back yesterday; $50,000 is to be paid back December 1st; another $50,000 January 1st and the balance of $50,000 February 1st.

—Mr. J. Harry Salling has resigned his position as rate clerk in the freight claim department of the Coast Line to become associated with the progressive real estate firm of Watson & Applewhite. These gentlemen feel that they have added a great asset to their business by securing the services of Mr. Salling and that they will now be in better position to serve their patrons.

APPLY FOR CHARTER.

Southern Steamship Co., Will be Incorporated Under Laws of State.

For the purpose of putting on three boats from Wilmington to Northern ports, an application for a charter for the Southern Steamship Company was made out yesterday and mailed to the Secretary of State. The capital stock, all of which is common with none preferred, will be $125,000, and the incorporators, named in the application, are Capt. M. L. Gilbert, of New York, and Messrs. L. E. Hall and W. E. Perdew, of this city.

The active work of securing stock for the new company will begin just as soon as the charter is received which should be the early part of the week. At a meeting Thursday night of representative shippers a committee was appointed to look into a proposition made by Capt. Gilbert, and to make application for a charter if they should find it to be feasible. They have investigated the matter, and as a result have decided to incorporate the company which is to be controlled entirely by Wilmington stockholders although it is understood that the Morse Securities Company will have a large holding of the stock.

The three steamers which the new company proposes to operate are now at Bathe, Maine, undergoing repairs. While the plan that has been discussed proposes to put on two of these between Wilmington and Baltimore and one between this city and New York the matter will be left entirely optional with the local stockholders, and should they decide upon a different arrangement this will be carried out.

Capt. Gilbert will have active charge of the organization of the new company.

WILL WORK THE ROADS.

Colonists at Castle Haynes Will Observe Fifth and Sixth.

A delegation of colonists at the Castle Haynes colony of the Carolina Trucking Development Company visited the office of Mr. M. S. Willard, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, yesterday morning and announced their intention of observing November 5th and 6th, set apart by Governor Craig as days on which citizens all over the State should join in road making, and asked the use of some of the county road machinery. The request was gladly granted by Chairman Willard, who was very much pleased at this practical way of manifesting interest in road building which furnishes an example for other parts of the county. The Carolina Trucking Development Company will furnish the colonists with a traction engine which will be used with the road machine that will be furnished by the county. The interest in the observance of the day is pretty general around Castle Haynes and the citizens of the community hope to get all the main roads in that vicinity in good shape as a result of the effort that will be made on those days.

Real Estate Transfers.

Deeds were filed for record yesterday as follows: Mary F. Steljes and others to John L. Roderick, for $10 and other considerations, lot on northwest corner of Eighth and Wooster streets, 33x66 feet in size; Mary F. Steljes and others to Thos. A. Kidder, for $1,000 and other considerations, lot 6 and part of lot 7, block 15, Carolina Place; Joseph T. Sellers and wife to Elijah A. Chadwick, for $10 and other considerations, lot on east side of Eighth street, 90 feet west of Nixon, 30x150 feet in size.

Has Wilmington Kin.

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer: "The Washington papers have given prominence to the recent wedding of Mr. B. F. Keith, the vaudeville man, to Miss Ethel Bird Chase. The groom was a widower and is 67 years old. His bride is 30. Keith is a cousin of Mr. B. F. Keith, of Wilmington. The wedding was a hurriedly arranged affair and was held aboard the groom's yacht. The first thing Mr. Keith did after the ceremony was to change the name of his boat to a word made up of the letters in his bride's name, then he set sail for Florida waters."

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Mr. S. P. Hewett, of Rocky Mount, was a visitor to the city yesterday.

—Mr. M. W. Jacobi returned yesterday from New York City, where he spent two weeks on business.

—Superintendent of Streets John C. McAllister, returned yesterday from a day at the East Carolina Fair at Newbern, which is reported as a success in every respect.

—Friends of Mr. W. Oscar Morris, of the Builders' Supply Company, are glad to see him on the streets again, after having recently undergone an operation at Harper's Sanitarium. He hopes to resume his business duties tomorrow.

—Arrivals at the Clarendon Hotel yesterday, the opening day, included Chas. N. Norman, Greensboro; Jay Reed, Richmond; Jas. W. Murrell, Phoenix; Berry Parker, Mount Olive; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schrader, Decatur, Ill.; Geo. W. Barry, Washington, N. C.; T. F. Barnly, Richmond.

—Mr. J. J. Blair returned yesterday from Raleigh, where he went to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the Stonewall Jackson Training School at Concord. Mr. Blair is a member of the board. This was a special meeting called for the purpose of electing a successor to the present superintendent, Mr. Walter Thompson, who recently resigned to take a position as superintendent of the Children's Home at Winston-Salem. Mr. C. E. Boger, superintendent of the Concord graded schools, was elected, as stated in the telegraphic columns yesterday.

—Dr. M. M. Caldwell has returned from Montgomery, Ala., where he attended the 12th annual session of the Association of Seaboard Air Line Railway Surgeons, held in that city October 29th, 30th. The Association meets next year at Fredericksburg, Va., but Dr. Caldwell has secured a promise that the association will meet in Wilmington in 1915. While in Montgomery Dr. Caldwell had the pleasure incidentally of representing North Carolina at the first session of Alcazar Temple, Mystic Shriners, having marched in the parade with Hon. Oscar Underwood, Democratic leader in the lower house of Congress.

BRIDGE OVER FOURTH STREET.

Seaboard Officials to Meet With City Council Monday.

Mayor Moore yesterday called a special meeting of the City Council to be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock for the purpose of conferring with Chief Engineer W. L. Seddon and other officials of the Seaboard Air Line Railway with regard to the proposed construction jointly by the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line of a concrete bridge over the present tracks of the Seaboard on Fourth street, near Hilton. Mayor Moore stated that he had been requested by the Seaboard officials to call the special meeting of the Council.

The Atlantic Coast Line notified the Council some weeks ago that it was ready, and had so notified the Seaboard Air Line, to begin the construction of the bridge. It was stated in the communication that under the terms of the adjustment of the controversy between the two railroads as to certain property and track rights in the northern part of the city, the Seaboard Air Line is to have charge of the construction of the bridge and the Coast Line is to bear one-half of the expense. The Coast Line will have one or more tracks under the new bridge in addition to the Seaboard tracks. It is supposed that at the meeting tomorrow the plans for the structure will be discussed by the chief engineer of the Seaboard and if they meet with the approval of Council work will likely begin on the structure in a short time.

NEW SEABOARD TRAIN.

Additional Passenger Train Will Go on With Change in Schedules.

While yesterday was the date set originally for putting on the additional passenger train on the Seaboard Air Line between Wilmington and Hamlet, a slight delay in making out the new Winter schedules for the road has been encountered, and it is not likely that the new train will go on before the middle of the month. No official advices about the additional service had been received at the office of Mr. E. E. Hunter, division passenger and freight agent, it was stated yesterday, and the local officials could not, therefore, say just when the train would be put on. The change in schedules will probably be made about the 18th or 19th of this month, and at that time the new train will be put on. It will leave Wilmington about 6 o'clock in the afternoon and arrive at Hamlet about 10 o'clock. Returning it will leave Hamlet about 6 A. M., reaching Wilmington about 10 o'clock.

Article in World's Work.

Dr. Charles T. Nesbitt, county health officer, has an interesting and instructive article in the November issue of the World's Work, the well known magazine published in New York City, on "The Health Menace of Alien Nations." While he devotes especial attention to the negro race in this connection he reviews the history of several other Nations with other races from which some striking observations in regard to the present social position of the South are made. He shows that many of the existing evils in the South can be traced directly to the presence of the negro, and gives facts to show that the colored race is slowly decaying.

Special Sermon at Grace Church.

"The Jew in Connection With the Second Coming of Christ" will be the subject of a special sermon which Rev. J. D. Bundy will preach tonight at Grace Methodist church. This is one of a series which Mr. Bundy is preaching on the second coming of Christ. He extends a cordial invitation to any Hebrews in the city to attend the services and hear the sermon. The sermons on this subject that have already been delivered have proved to be most interesting as well as instructive, and have attracted much attention.

Dr. Holland Will Preach.

Rev. Dr. R. C. Holland, president of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Lutheran Synod, South, arrived in the city yesterday from Newbern, where he spent the week, and will occupy the pulpit today, morning and evening, at St. Matthew's Lutheran church, in the absence from the city of the pastor, Rev. G. W. McClanahan. The morning service begins at 11 o'clock and the evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Holland is an able minister and fine speaker and doubtless will be heard by a large congregation at both services.

Fire Destroys Residence.

A two-story frame building, owned by Mrs. J. H. Runge, in the rear of No. 315 South Fifth street, was almost totally destroyed by fire last night about 9 o'clock. The house was occupied by colored people. The loss is estimated at $500. The fire was supposed to have been caused by rats. The fire department was called but arrived too late to save the building as it burned rapidly.

TIGERS DEFEAT RAMBLERS.

Football Game at Hilton Park Yesterday Afternoon Hard Fought.

In a hard fought and interesting game of football at Hilton Park yesterday afternoon the Wilmington Tigers defeated the Ramblers by a score of 32 to 0. The star players for the Ramblers were Snakenberg, Fowler and Coughenour. On the defensive Merriman did well. This was the Ramblers' first game for the season and for an untrained team they did remarkably well. The bright star in the Tigers' aggregation of bully players was Wessell. In line plunging he never failed to make from 5 to 15 yards. Cutler's broken field running, Houston's short end runs and Meares' fine defensive work were also features. In the line Lewis played well at center as did the other men who compose the team. The team work of the Tigers was a marked improvement over their past form. Umpire, LeMoyne; referee, Jacobs; timekeeper, Kendall; linesman, Bagby.

Whiskey Stolen from Express Office.

The city office of the Southern Express Company, on Chesnut street, was entered Friday night by robbers, and 17 quarts of whiskey stolen. How many there were in the party is not known but they evidently got more than they wanted as several quarts were left outside the door. Entrance was effected through a window in the rear. Mr. J. W. Smith, the agent of the company, reported the robbery to the police yesterday morning, and it is understood that they have some strong clues as to the guilty persons. Officers are at work on the case, and hope to land the thirsty individuals behind the bars of the city prison.

The Recorder's Court.

The Recorder had a short session yesterday morning. Haynes High submitted to a charge of a technical violation of the prohibition law, and judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs. According to his statement he was given some money by two friends with which to purchase liquor, and later paid over the amount received to a third person from whom he received in exchange the booze and gave it to his friends.

Wilmington the Winner.

There was much interest here last night in the outcome of the football game between the Wilmington High School and Kinston. It was not learned until a late hour just how the score stood, but when the Western Union finally gave the result along about towards midnight, 20 to 7 in favor of Wilmington, it looked mighty good to the local admirers of the team. The Wilmington High got home this morning shortly after 1 o'clock.

GOVERNOR'S ROAD DUTY.

Tar Heel Executive in Washington, Tells of His Plans.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—Next week is to be high water mark in the building of roads in North Carolina. In addition to Governor Craig and several thousands of patriotic Tar Heels, Governors Major, of Missouri, and Hodges, of Kansas, are expected to don overalls and shoulder the shovel and pick and help to improve the State's highways.

Governor Craig, who is spending a few days in the Nation's Capital, today wired invitations to the Missouri and Kansas Governors urging them to come to North Carolina next week and assist in the great work inaugurated by Governor Craig. Major and Hodges successfully carried out a plan whereby the men of the two States worked on the roads for two days. They were pioneers in the movement and should they come to North Carolina they will be given a royal reception.

The plans of North Carolina's "Good Roads" Governor have been somewhat changed. Instead of going direct to Asheville on the night of November 4th, Governor Craig will go to some point in the eastern part of the State, arise with the sun and work for a couple of hours. Then he will catch a train for the west, making at least one stop. It is planned now that Governor Craig shall go to Newbern, the home of Senator Simmons, where both the Governor and the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee will make "dirt fly". From Newbern Governor Craig will go to Goldsboro and put in another two hours and from there he will go to Durham and again be assigned to a couple of hours labor on the roads. He will then catch a train for Asheville where he will work on Buncombe county roads all day Thursday.

It is estimated that at least a million dollars worth of good roads work will be done in the two days and the effect of the movement will be twofold. P. R. A.

GORGAS TO AFRICA.

Man Who Made Panama Healthy to Try Hand Elsewhere.

New York, Nov. 1.—Col. W. C. Gorgas, whose work in producing healthful conditions in the Panama Canal Zone brought him world-wide fame, left here today for South Africa on a mission to help the medical experts in the Transvaal devise ways and means to decrease the mortality caused by pneumonia. Mrs. Gorgas and Major R. E. Noble accompanied him.

Jackson, Ky., Nov. 1.—Practically the entire business section of Jackson, scene of many feud battles, was destroyed by fire early today. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

PANKHURST COULD DANCE.

English Lady Warns Against Militancy in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English suffragette today stepped on equal suffrage soil for the first time and for the first time addressed women who have the right to vote.

"I feel like dancing," she told the Chicago suffragettes who greeted her. She made two speeches and attended three receptions.

Mrs. Pankhurst told several hundred members of the political equality league that if the women of Illinois failed in their duty at the polls the fight for "votes of women" would receive a set-back all over the world. She advised her hearers against party affiliation and against militancy.

"THE FLAGLER SYSTEM."

Founders Name to be Given Florida East Coast Railway.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 1.—To perpetuate the memory of the late Henry M. Flagler, owner of the Florida East Coast Railway, the trustees under his will have instructed J. P. Beckwith, vice president of the road, to have the lettering on all equipment, stationery, etc., changed to The Flagler System. The road will hereafter be known by that name.

COTTON CLOSED STEADY

Decline in Early Stages of the Day, But Recovery Was Made Later. Four to Six Points Off at the Close.

New York, Nov. 1.—The cotton market recovered an early decline today, but failed to hold its rally and was more or less unsettled with the close steady at a net loss of 4 to 6 points. Weakness in Liverpool was attributed by private cables to increased offerings of actual, and while the local market was steady by overnight buying orders, first prices were 2 to 6 points lower. Prospects for continued clear weather in the South and more seasonable temperatures as well as the decline abroad seemed to unsettle the confidence of Friday's buyers and the market soon broke to a net loss of 10 to 12 points. Offerings were well taken, however, and the market rallied during the middle of the morning. Predictions of bullish ginning figures for the period ending last night, probably helped this advance while there were also reports that interior factors were refusing to follow the decline in futures. There was a good deal of realizing on a rally which carried active months back to about the closing figures of last night. This checked the advance and the market later eased off on reports that a Montgomery firm estimated the crop at 14,680,000 bales minimum.

Closing prices showed reactions of some 5 or 6 points from the best. The Southern correspondents of a local firm estimated ginning to November 1st at 8,787,186 bales, comparing with the official report of 8,869,222 last year and 9,970,905 two years ago.

Spot cotton quiet; middling uplands 14.10; middling gulf 14.35; no sales. Futures closed steady.

AMERICAN A DEPOSITORY.

Wilmington Bank Designated by State Treasurer Lacy.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 1.—B. R. Lacy, State treasurer, today designated the American National Bank of Wilmington, N. C., as a State depository. This is the only bank that has been designed in quite a while by Mr. Lacy, perhaps in years. The American National of Wilmington, it is understood, has made rapid strides being one of the most progressive and well managed banks in the State, hence the necessity of Mr. Lacy using that institution.

ALABAMA VS. COAST LINE.

Trying to Oust Railroad From Doing Business in That State.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 1.—Suit was entered by the State here today against the Atlantic Coast Line railway, seeking to oust that system as a corporation doing business in Alabama, for alleged non-payment of franchise tax for 1911-12, and 1913. It is stated that if this suit is successful, it is merely a forerunner of similar suits against other railroads in the State.

Washington, Nov. 1.—A resolution calling upon President Wilson to furnish the House with a complete list of all executive department officials absent from duty during the last four weeks to engage in political activity was introduced today by Representative Britten, of Illinois.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Commander Thomas S. Wilson, U. S. N., retired, aged 42, died today in Media, Pa. He was graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1893 and was retired because of ill health last February.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Secretary Daniels today sent a commendatory letter to John Michael Keane, ordinary seaman on board the destroyer Cummins, for bravery in jumping overboard and rescuing a drowning man.

The first successful motorcycle trip across the desert between Phoenix, Arizona, and the Grand Canon, was accomplished by Billy Doheney, Maurice Valentine and Chet Munson.

WHY IS WILMINGTON FIRM?

Because Its Citizens Have Learned the Truth.

After reading the generous and encouraging report from Mr. Winner, those who have the misfortune to suffer as he did, will naturally long to get similar relief. But to get the same good as Mr. Winner had, you should get the same remedy. There are, of course, other kidney pills, but there are no other kidney pills the same as Doan's. That is why Wilmington people demand the genuine.

S. C. Winner, jeweler, 215 E. Market St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "I still believe Doan's Kidney Pills a good kidney medicine, and I cheerfully confirm the testimonial I formerly gave in their favor. This remedy has been used in my family, being procured at Bellamy's Drug Store, and it has given relief from backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MAYORALTY FIGHT ABOUT FINISHED

Charles R. Whitman, district attorney, and candidate of all parties and factions for re-election. He is aiding in the fight against Tammany.

Of minor interest are the contests for Congress in two districts and for State Senator in the district represented by Stillwell before he was sent to Sing Sing.

In the 13th Congressional district a successor is to be chosen to the late Timothy D. Sullivan, "Big Tim," of the Bowery, and in the 20th district a successor will be elected to Francis Burton Harrison, who resigned to become Governor General of the Philippines.

Continue Campaign.

New York, Nov. 1.—On the eve of the closing of the campaign of the mayoralty election, the fusion and Tammany forces through public oratory and written statements tonight continued their political war of bitter denunciation and heated denials.

Among the interesting developments of the last day of the campaign was the repudiation by Edward E. McCall, Tammany's candidate, of a charge that he had borrowed $21,000 from former Police Inspector McLaughlin, presumably to meet a "campaign assessment" when he was nominated for the State Supreme Court in 1902. McLaughlin made a similar denial.

The story, touched upon in campaign speeches by John A. Hennessy, former Governor Sulzer's graft investigator and brought up again by Hennessy yesterday in the "John Doe" inquiry into campaign charges of graft and irregularities became public in its latest form today through a published affidavit by McLaughlin's son, William M. McLaughlin, Jr., who related that his father had difficulty in recovering the money from McCall and that it had finally been repaid in the form of a check of which his father had a photograph taken. The former inspector in an affidavit given out tonight at Democratic headquarters, said his son was "mentally irresponsible," and had been made the "tool" of McCall's enemies. Young McLaughlin was an attendant in Supreme Court when McCall was on the bench.

Ripe Hen Fruit for Sulzer.

Of the many spirited episodes of recent speech making throughout the city, William Sulzer, deposed Governor, and now a candidate for the Assembly from the Sixth district on the lower Eastside, met with one tonight which caused him to accuse his political enemies of adopting a new method of campaign warfare. Sulzer went into the Second assembly district to denounce Alfred E. Smith, speaker of the Assembly, who is seeking re-election. Sulzer found himself in a strong Tammany territory. He took his place in an improvised balcony diagonally opposite the local Tammany headquarters.

Four wagons bearing McCall and Smith signs drove into a crowd of several hundred persons gathered in the street. Men set upon the wagons, tore off the signs and warned the drivers to leave. They had hardly gone when fire engines dashed up, some one having sent in a false alarm.

When Sulzer finally was able to speak 30 giant fire crackers were set off in rapid order. Madison street horse cars, which run ordnarily at about 30 minute intervals, began to pass through the crowd frequently, each loaded with passengers who insisted that the conductor stop where the throng was most dense.

A bevy of girls in a doorway began a campaign of shrieking when Sulzer tried to talk. A fife and drum corps came on the scene. A hundred men carrying Tammany banners marched behind it. After a few fist fights the police diverted the parade into a side street. Sulzer was then assailed with eggs and vegetables. He retired into a building, his auditors following. When he left after his speech, the disorder was resumed.

Chester C. Platt, ex-Governor Sulzer's secretary, gave out a statement tonight, with the approval of the deposed Governor, in which he said that John Purroy Mitchell owed his candidacy and possible election of mayor to Mr. Sulzer. Until Mr. Sulzer and Hennessy entered the campaign it was spiritless. He predicted Sulzer's election to the Assembly by a big majority.

Telegrams Made Public.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Telegrams signed "Chester C. Platt," the name of former Governor Sulzer's private secretary, sent from the executive chamber the day before Sulzer was impeached, which sought to influence the votes of Assemblymen, were made public today.

Another telegram signed "William Sulzer," which urged Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, to interview the President as soon as possible and make an appointment for him to see Antisdale, Mitchel and some other friends at an early date, was given out. There was nothing to indicate whether Roosevelt complied.

That Sulzer frequently called Judge McCall by telephone was shown by charge slips from the telephone company. Only one of these calls was made after the impeachment charges had been voted.

Both the telegrams and the telephone charge slips were revealed by State employes who are auditing the accounts of the executive chamber during Sulzer's incumbency.

A telegram signed "Chester C. Platt," and sent to Henry P. Burgard, at Fulton, N. Y., on August 12th, read:

"Will you telephone or telegraph Assemblyman George Ghan immediately. He voted for Frawley report yesterday, but I think if you can reach him, you can prevent him from voting for impeachment. Answer can you help us with other Assemblymen? You ought to be in Albany."

Burgard is a Democratic leader in Buffalo. Ghan is a member of the lower House from that city.

Telegrams sent to J. J. Cummings, George H. McGuire, M. Z. Havens and William H. Kelly, of Syracuse, read:

"Can you bring influence to bear by telegraph or telephone on Representative P. J. Kelly and S. G. Daley to prevent them from voting for impeachment resolution? Quelk action necessary."

The telegram to Roosevelt was dated July 21st.

SOUTHERN EDUCATION.

Met in Nashville, Tenn., and Discussed Negro Question.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 1.—The problem of education for the negro race had a prominent place today on the programme of the Southern Educational Assembly, which closed a three days meeting. J. R. Guy, Charleston, S. C.; Jackson Davis, Richmond, Va., and Dr. James H. Dillard, president of the Jeanes fund, were speakers.

Dr. D. B. Johnson, Rock Hill, S. C., discussed rural schools. The association elected W. K. Tate, Charleston, S. C., president, and R. A. Clayton, Birmingham, Ala., secretary-treasurer for the coming year.

capitalized at $100,000,000 to be subscribed by the banks underwriting the stock and selling it to the public. This $100,000,000 would be under the absolute control of the Federal board which would distribute it among the regional banks as conditions warranted. The vote on the proposal was 7 to 4.

Senator O'Gorman proposed that each regional bank be capitalized at 10 per cent. of the National bank capital in the district which it served, and that each bank control its own capital. He suggested two means of securing the capital. The first would require the banks to underwrite the stock and offer it to the public. The second would require the banks to subscribe the amount of five per cent. of their capital stock and would leave the remainder open to public subscription. Senator O'Gorman's plan was not disposed of today.

The committee deferred further meeting until Wednesday, owing to the absence of several members who have left Washington on account of the elections.

REFUSE TO SEND STATE MILITIA

pany to move its cars after the first few sent out this morning were stoned by strike sympathizers.

All cars on the 13 interurban lines which run into the city over the lines of the traction companies were stopped at the city limits.

The belief is freely expressed that no attempt will be made to re-establish street car service until after the municipal election here Tuesday.

Should the company care to make an effort to start its cars tomorrow morning, Superintendent of Police Hyland said tonight he would try to give them enough policemen to prevent rioting.

SIGNS EXECUTIVE ORDER.

Amending the Civil Service Rules Relating to I. C. C.

Washington, Nov. 1—President Wilson today signed an executive order amending the civil service rules relating to the Inter-State Commerce Commission so as to enable the commission without reference to the civil service law to appoint one director of physical valuation; five members of the supervisory board of engineers; a supervisor of land appraisals and a chief accountant.

The director of physical valuation, the commission already has directed, is to be Commissioner Charles A. Prouty, of Vermont. Thus far the President has not accepted Judge Prouty's resignation as commissioner.

URGES CAUTIOUSNESS.

United States Marshals Get Instructions from McReynolds.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Attorney General McReynolds today directed United States marshals to be cautious in interpreting the recent action of Congress in removing deputy marshals from the protection of the civil service. "Under no conditions," said Mr. McReynolds, in a circular letter to all marshals, "must marshals attempt to use these appointments merely for personal reward or partisan ends." Approval by the department will be necessary before permanent to deputy marshalships are made.

Frederick, Md., Nov. 1.—Secretary of State Bryan made three speeches in Western Maryland today in the interest of the Democratic ticket and especially of Blair Lee's candidacy for the United States Senate.

JOHN ADAMS.

On October 30th, 1735, John Adams, second president of the United States, was born at Braintree, Massachusetts, which place is now called Quincy. He had been vice president for two terms under Washington. People then thought a vice president could not be elected president. But Adams broke away from this idea that was rapidly crystalizing into habit.

Our thoughts are largely influenced by habit. We have so long thought of something as hard to do that we deem it impossible. The things which are impossible to a resourceful man are very few.

Saving money is a habit, and to live well and happily on less than we earn is not impossible by any means.

STATE TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY

Interesting Programme for Great Meeting to be Held in Raleigh This Month—Some Distinguished Educators.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 1.—The programme for the 30th session of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, which is to be held in Raleigh November 26th-29th, and which will be attended by from 1,200 to 1,500 teachers, educators, progressive thinkers, and constructive workers of the State, is rapidly nearing completion and it promises to be the most vitally practical and at the same time highly inspirational programme which has ever been arranged for the assembly.

It is the desire of the officers of the assembly that every teacher in the State who can possibly do so come to Raleigh and hear the master educators who will speak to the assembly, and, in hearing their addresses, gain an inspiration which will carry them through the coming year and practical instruction and help which will send them back to their work with a new vision of service and a new capacity for achieving that vision.

Every effort is being made to facilitate the coming of the teachers of the State. Letters are being addressed to the county superintendents and the boards of education urging the granting of holiday Friday of Thanksgiving week, so as to enable the teachers to attend the assembly. Special railroad rates will go into effect to and from Raleigh, and extensive preparations are being made in the city for the reception of the large crowds which will attend and for making their stay a pleasant one.

Special emphasis in the programme of the assembly this year is being placed upon the problems of rural life, the improvement of country life, the correlation of the educational forces with the life of the community, and the vitalizing and vocationalizing of the curriculum of the country schools so that they may more adequately fit the country youth for intelligent and progressive life on the farm, and may thus become factors in the building up of that scientific and successful rural citizenship which is to be the basis of North Carolina's future prosperity as a State.

The services have been secured for this programme of two of the South's greatest authorities in matters of rural education: President J. D. Eggleston, of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and former State superintendent of public instruction of Virginia; and President E. C. Branson, of the Georgia State Normal School; both of whom will address the evening general sessions of the assembly held in the new Auditorium. These men know the conditions and needs of the South and, from their remarkably successful experiences as practical educators and investigators, they will bring messages of real worth to the teachers of North Carolina.

President Eggleston and President Branson are old North Carolinians, the latter by birth and the former by adoption, both having for years been teachers and superintendents in this State. They have gone out, one to Virginia, the other to Georgia, to become leaders of education, and they return with joy to speak to the teachers of the State to which they gave the ambitions of their young manhood. President Eggleston will give an address on the improvement of rural life through correlation with the work of the schools. President Branson, who has spent much time recently in organizing "Know Your Own State and County Clubs" in the Carolinas and Georgia, will tell of his work in this line and of the striking success the idea.

Of special interest to the city teachers and superintendents will be the presence of Dr. William Heard Kilpatrick, professor of the history of education in the teachers' college of Columbia University. Dr. Kilpatrick is a recognized authority on educational practice, and his address will be on the Montesorri method of elementary teaching, the famous method originated by Madam Montesorri in Italy, which is exerting an increasinly potent influence on American educational practice. Miss Ella V. Dobbs, of the University of Missouri, who is a specialist on hand work and manual training, will also be present to meet with the primary and grammar grades associations in their departmental meetings, to address them and to aid them in their discussions.

In addition to these mentioned, other distinguished men will address the assembly. On the opening night, Wednesday, His Excellency, Governor Locke Craig, will speak to the general session and to the public which will be in attendance. An address of welcome will be delivered by the Hon. Josiah W. Bailey, to which response will be made by State Superintendent J. Y. Joyner in behalf of the assembly. On Thursday evening, the annual president's address will be delivered by Prof. A. C. Reynolds, president of the Cullowhee Institute, who is this year president of the Teachers' Assembly.

The annual Thanksgiving service, which has come to be one of the most impressive and best attended of the meetings of the Assembly, will be held as usual at noon of Thanksgiving Day. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Neal L. Alderson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Winston-Salem. Special music for this service has been arranged for.

Last year at Greensboro the precedent was set of the presentation by the Assembly to the State of an oil portrait of all living former State superintendents of public instruction. A portrait of Dr. Joyner was presented at that time. This precedent will be varied this year by the presentation of a handsome bronze bust of the late Calvin H. Wiley. The ceremonies will take place Friday evening after the address of Dr. Branson, and the presentation will be made by Acting President E. K. Graham, of the University of North Carolina.

The departmental sessions of the different organizations allied to the Teachers' Assembly give promise of being unusually helpful to teachers in their several special lines of work. Experts will meet with practically all of the departments, will make addresses and assist in the discussions. Live questions and vital problems of practical pedagogy will be discussed, and numerous displays and exhibits of an illustrative and instructive nature will combine to make these sessions of the utmost value.

OVER HUNDRED HURT.

Grand Stand at Football Game Falls, Injuring Many.

Green Castle, Ind., Nov. 1.—One hundred or more persons, most of whom were women, were hurt, eight seriously when the bleachers on Depauw University Athletic field collapsed just before the Depauw-Rose Polytechnic game this afternoon. It was estimated that more than 700 men and women were on the bleachers when they went down. Members of both football squads did good work in disentangling the twisted mass of lumber and humanity. The game was not played.

The seriously injured were Chester Dalleypple, Terre Haute; Mrs. H. Foster, Green Castle; Miss Eugenia Pickett, Green Castle; Mrs. R. A. Foster, Indianapolis; Ray Wade, Indianapolis; W. J. Wheeler, Evansville; Miss Gladys Light, Terre Haute, and Miss Florence Dillman, of Connersville.

The swaying of the crowd in cheering the Depauw team as it came on the field is believed to have been the immediate cause of the collapse.

Som day we will make your glasses and when we do we will make them the best we know how. An experience of 25 years has given us the "know-how." Yes, you will like our glasses very much. Eyes tested free. Dr. Vineberg, the Eye Specialist, Masonic Temple.—Advertisement.

FERTILIZER MADE FROM AIR

Speech of Hon. Jno. M. Faison, of the Third North Carolina District, Delivered in Congress—Scientific Investigation.

The House had under consideration Senate amendment 609, relating to taxing of cotton future on exchanges, when Mr. Faison spoke as follows:

Mr. Speaker: I have introduced in Congress recently two bills—one appropriating $350,000 for the study of, testing, and experimentation of the best and cheapest electrical methods of obtaining nitrogen from the air, and the other bill appropriating $50,000 for study of, testing and experimentation of the best electrical methods of obtaining a larger per cent. of acid phosphates from phosphate rock by baking such rock in high-temperature electric ovens, for agricultural fertilizing purposes.

The present supply of nitrogen or ammonia for such purposes comes largely from the saltpeter beds of Chile as nitrate of sodium. Some also comes from cottonseed meal, fish scrap, waste from packing houses, coal and peat. It is largely controlled by trusts, which have been controlling the output of these mines and gradually increasing the cost, until today it costs the farmers about $60 per ton retail, containing about 19 to 20 per cent. ammonia. During the Summer months in my State and district in Eastern North Carolina, where much nitrate of soda, with other fertilizers, is used by the berry and truck farmers and for cotton, tobacco and corn crops, the annual supply gave out and could not be purchased when needed for late application to cotton and corn for larger yields.

This Chile saltpeter—sodium nitrate—supplying 18 to 20 per cent. of ammonia for plant food or 400 pounds of ammonia only to the ton, at a retail cost of 15 cents per pound to the farmers, contains besides much sodium compounds not only not needed as plant food but beyond certain limits distinctly retarding plant growth stimulated by the ammonia, and with other chloride and chlorate compounds from continued use tending to harden, dry and crust the soil. Such drawbacks to plant growth, particularly strawberry, tobacco, grape, vegetable and fruit crops, so largely now grown in the South, in my State and district—the market-garden section of the South Atlantic States—are a most serious objection to the extensive use of nitrate of sodium, yet this Chile saltpeter furnishes the largest per cent. of rapidly soluble ammonia so much needed by these quick-maturing fruit, berry and vegetable crops.

Free nitrogen or ammonia gathered from the air by electrical methods in the form of calcium or lime nitrates is an ideal compound for fertilizing purposes, having no deleterious sodium compounds to retard plant growth, especially of tobacco, strawberry, grape and other fruit and vegetable crops.

The nitrogen or ammonia is taken up for plant food just as well as in the Chile saltpeter, while the lime or calcium nitrates from the air increase the plant growth in sandy and rocky lands by correcting the acids in the soil and also soften and mellow the soil rather than harden or crust it, as do the sodium compounds of the Chile saltpeter. In fact, plant-food chemists state that nitrogen or ammonia is only taken up and assimilated as lime or calcium nitrates, while the lime or calcium hastens humus decay and corrects and disinfects the toxic excreta of plant growth in the soil. Hence such lime nitrates gathered from the air by electricity are nature's ideal fertilizer for such class of agricultural crops.

Again, the cost of nitrogen or ammonia in the Chile saltpeter is about $60 per ton retail to the farmer, or 15 cents per pound for the 400 pounds of ammonia contained in each ton of sodium nitrates. The air enveloping the earth contains 78 per cent. nitrogen and 22 per cent. oxygen, or 75 5 per cent. nitrogen by weight. It is estimated by accurate scientists that resting upon each square yard of the earth's surface in the 10 miles of air above are 5.5 tons of nitrogen per square yard, or 20,000,000 tons to each square mile of the earth's surface worth, at 15 cents or more a pound, $6,000,000,000 per square mile of the earth's surface. Of this great quantity of nitrogen in the air we breathe the nitrogen is not only not needed for breathing to sustain human and animal life, but is poisonous to both if it were free, not combined with oxygen, as only the 22 per cent. of the oxygen in the air is required to sustain animal and human life

Only a minute fraction, about 0.000,002 of this 78 per cent. nitrogen is taken up by ordinary plant life, and when fed to animal life returns back into the soil as barnyard manure. By lightning and from rain and through chemical and bacteria action of certain leguminous crops—field peas, soy beans, clovers, alfalfa, and so forth, known to farmers as "diversification and rotation of such crops"—a small amount, about 65 tons, of nitrogen can be returned annually to each square mile of soil, leaving practically the whole amount of nitrogen, 78 per cent. of the air, or 20,000,000 tons, worth $6,000,000,000 to each square mile unused.

Each year chemists, scientific students, manufacturers and agriculturists have been studying and testing methods of utilizing this enormous quantity of nitrogen in the air. As the Chile saltpeter (nitrate of sodium) has been used so freely as a fertilizer for larger crop yields and increased in value by such larger use and by the monopoly of trusts, and in view of such limited supply in the Chile saltpeter beds becoming exhausted in 50 years (about 2,500,000 tons being sold last year and increasing annually), such study, tests and experiments have been an inviting field for chemist and capital.

In 1901 Americans first began the air-nitrogen electrical manufacturing industry at Niagara Falls, but their electrical plant, gathering only three per cent. of free nitrogen, was too expensive to operate. Norway chemists in 1903 began the air-nitrogen electric manufacturing and now successfully manufacture nitrogen from the air, forcing the air rapidly and highly heated and cooled over pulverized limestone, as lime or calcium nitrates. German chemists began about the same time with equal success and later formed all these companies into a trust by patenting their processes, and have succeeded well, as only the cheapest raw materials are needed—air, water, and lime-stone—with large trical powr plants, as found and developed in Norway and Germany. From these two countris and Chile the United States imports about $50,000,000 of sodium and calcium or lime nitrates now per annum, largely for agricultural fertilizing purposes, above our exports of fertilizing chemicals. Still larger quantities must be ustd annually to supply our wasting soils for larger and larger yields of food crops for the increasing millions of people, as ammonia, unlike potash and acid phosphate, the other two ingredients of commercial fertilizers, is so soluble that it washes away in the soil, if not soon taken up in plant food. There are, besides, such large deposits of potash and phosphate rock in Germany and America, respectively, that no exhaustion is expected for centuries. The lime or calcium nitrates thus manufactured from the air, containing about 14 per cent nitrogen, equal to 17 per cent ammonia, is an ideal fertilizer; yet, like sodium nitrate, it is probably more hygroscopic than nitrate of sodium of Chile and becomes too wet to ship in bags or mix with potash salts and acid phosphates for a dry fertilizer easily handled and rapidly distributed for manufacturing growing crops, which has to some extent become corrected by the mixture of more slaked lime. This electric-manufactured calium or lime nitrate can be manufactured

A FINE TRIBUTE TO WILSON

Beautiful Estimate of Democracy's President by Hon. A. W. McLean, of Lumberton, Before Antioch, High School.

The first of a series of lectures to be made before the literary societies of Antioch High School, in Hoke county, was delivered recently by Hon. A. W. McLean, of Lumberton, N. C., whom his friends freely predict will be North Carolina's next Governor.

Mr. McLean took as his subject, "Woodrow Wilson,", speaking of the Wilson family from the time they landed in America, down to the present time, paying remarkably fine tribute to the Nation's Chief Executive:

Mr. McLean said in part of Woodrow Wilson's administration: "When he called together in special session the Congress, members of his own party feared, and the opposition freely predicted, that on account of the small Democratic majority in the Senate, and also because of the discussions among some members of his own party, as to the method of revising the tariff, that President Wilson would never obtain a satisfactory revision of the tariff at the hands of Congress. The advocates of protection were highly elated at the prospect of failure, and derisively referred to the spectacle created in their imaginations, and vividly depicted in current cartoons, in the newspapers and magazines, of the angry school teacher, unable to control and discipline his disobedient and obstreperous pupils. The opposition claimed, as it had claimed in the contest for the nomination at Baltimore, that Woodrow Wilson was only a scholarly professor, spoiled by the long experience which he had gained in the dogmatic atmosphere of the school room; that he was a mere theorist, unacquainted with the practical side of politics and statecraft.

"When the tariff bill was launched there were reports of dissension, treachery, and insurgency among the members of the President's own party. The false prophets began to exclaim with one harmonious vice: "I told you so.' 'The Democratic party is not susceptible of constructive leadership.' These critics further contended that the Democratic majority in the House was too large and unwieldy, while the majority in the Senate was too much of the hairbreadth variety, to insure safety. Mr. Wilson started out to redeem the sa-

ABSTINENCE FOR THE SAKE OF OTHERS.

(The Story)

As in a mirror, in the Epistle to the Romans we see a faithful reflection of one Apostolic Church. The sight is disappointing. Where is the unity of the spirit? The Church is rent. The converts from Judaism, taught from childhood to consider the prohibitions of the ceremonial law as of divine origin, deem them still obligatory. They observe them with scrupulosity. They look upon those who do not obey them as no Christians. They are censorious. * * * On the other hand, the Gentile converts, never having been in bondage to the ceremonial law, knowing nothing of its arbitrary distinctions as to days, weeks, etc., were inclined to resent any attempt to rivet the Mosaic ritual upon them, and to look with contempt upon their brethren who wore these fetters so complacently. * * * Doctrinally, the purpose of the Epistle to the Romans is to show that Christianity is the legitimate fruitage of Judaism; that there is as little room for strife between Christianity and Judaism as between the fruit and the blossom. It is the blossom's destiny to fade and fall, that the fruit may come to perfection. A fight for Judaism is a fight for a blossom. * * * Practically, Paul's purpose in writing is to outline those principles which will most surely conduce to peace. This is the first, and, as yet unsurpassed, essay in Irenical Theology. * * * Paul unequivocally asserts that what might be called the liberal party is in the right. He enrolls himself with it, when he says, "We, then, that are strong." But he proceeds to give certain maxims adapted to immediate use. * * * First, as the tenets of the Judaic-Christian faction relate to matters comparatively indifferent, they are to be received with cordial fellowship. Again, the censorious disposition is to be steadily repressed. There is only one Judge of the conscience. But if anybody is bent on judging, let him turn his judicial spirit upon himself, and see that he does not grieve his brother by a selfish use of his liberty of conscience. It is possible in this way to cause the apostasy of a novice in religion, and thus undo the work of God in his regeneration. If one believes himself free in these indifferent matters, let him keep it to himself. Parading his advanced opinions may injure his brother. The use of liberty is right, but there is a manner of using it which brings condemnation.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

This inspired casuistry is of perpetual application. The question of days and meats, which caused such debate in the Church at Rome is now a matter for antiquarians. But each succeeding era in the Church has its strife over matters indifferent. * * * We have a contrariety of opinion in the Church today touching matters that in themselves are unimportant. It will not do for the Church to answer questions of casuistry categorically. The Church is not the conscience of the individual. * * * What shall we do, then? An appeal to the Bible is always wise. Put before the mind of the inquirer, the Pauline principles of ethics as contained in the fourteenth chapter of Romans. * * * In matters which are the subject of expilicit command in the Word of God, the conscience has no vocation whatever. The question of doing or not doing is not debatable. Obedience is indispensable. All matters upon which the salvation of the soul depends are subject of explicit revelation. Consequently, the sphere of the conscience is largely in matters intrinsically indifferent. * * * In these indifferent matters the Christian, conscious of his liberty, might, as far as he himself is concerned, take any course he pleased. But in the circle of his influence there is certainly some friend not so free as himself who would be innuenced prejudicially by the full exercise of his freedom. The principles of love and self-denial call upon him, within certain limits, to give up his liberty. Again, the Christian is to avoid a course which would probably give ground for criticism. He must not only be good, but seem good. He must avoid the appearance of evil. * * * But such a course as this is demanded only in the case of a brother who is sincere. It is to be maintained with a view to finally "extricating him from his rank scruples;" for "the conscience is to be won, not conquered." He is to be cured of his scruples, too, not by being induced to violate them while they remain; "for he that discerneth and putteth a difference between meats, is condemned if he eat." * * * In every community, however, there are those who take their petty whims and seek to foist them upon the consciences of others. It is one thing to acknowledge a brother as a fellow-Christian; it is quite another to accredit him as a spiritual teacher. Great harm has been done by allowing such persons to crowd their crude notions especially upon young believers. * * * When such persons substitute these indifferent matters for the substance of the gospel, they are to be withstood. But the wisdom of the serpent is required in the method of resisting them, lest they pose as martyrs and win sympathy thereby.

CHRISTIAN HOME LIFE.

(A meeting in some member's home, if convenient, led by the Social Committee.)

Two generations of religion endowed Timothy and helped make him, that workman that did not need to be ashamed of his output. Thus Lois and Eunice had that profound satisfaction. The noblest achievement of any parent is to start his child on a plane intellectual, moral, and material above the plane on which he himself started. This process accelerates the millenium more than any other. It will bring universal righteousness, peace and joy, quicker than any political organization or reform propaganda, although these are not to be depreciated or deprecated. But a reformed State is built on reformed homes.

CARNEGIE MEDAL.

Two North Carolinians Get Highest Award for Mountain Rescue.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1.—Nearly $100,000 is disbursed to heroes or their relatives by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission in its report made public yesterday. The commission distributes immediately $91,000 in awards of $2,000 and $1,000. There are 16 awards of $2,000 and 39 of $1,000. The remainder are in awards consisting of pensions ranging from $5 to $35 a month, and in cash sums under $1,000. In every award a medal is given, either bronze or silver. In a few instances only a medal was awarded.

The highest award, consisting of a gold medal and $2,000 in cash money, goes to Charles N. Wright, a merchant, 38 years old, of Highlands, N. C., who with William L. Dillard, a liveryman, 33 years old, of the same place, helped to save R. Augustus Baty, a carpenter, 26 years old, from a fall down a precipice at that place May 14th, 1911. Dillard receives a silver medal and $2,000.

Baty had fallen from the summit of Whiteside Mountain at Fool's Rock and rolled 150 feet down an almost vertical cliff, and lodged against a small bush, 2 inches from the brink of a precipice 2,000 feet deep, part of his body dangling over the edge.

Wright and Dillard descended the vertical ledge, their only handholds or footholds being ridges and hollows not more than an inch in height or depth. Wright's wife saw him and began to scream. He was nearly unnerved, but pushed on. Stopping at a tiny bush 6 feet above Baty, he let his feet down to a ledge 2 feet above the brink and then grasped Baty's coat collar. Baty gave a sudden jerk, but became quiet when Wright threatened him.

Pinning his legs around the bush, Wright drew Baty up to a place of comparative safety, where Dillard, who had lost his nerve in the final stages of the rescue, was waiting. The two men now took Baty, who was delirious 15 feet across the bare face of the cliff, within 18 inches of the brink. Then they moved Baty to the foot of the vertical ledge at the summit, from which point he was hoisted by means of a line. He recovered. The rescue took two hours and 30 minutes.

C. F. & Y. V. ANNULMENT.

Hon. A. L. Brooks Says It is to Come About Yet.

(Raleigh News and Observer, Oct. 29)

The sale of the Atlantic & Yadkin Railroad to the Southern Railway Co. and the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Co., (parent stock of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co.), will yet be annulled, in the opinion of Mr. A. L. Brooks, attorney for the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, who has been in Raleigh this week appearing before the Supreme Court in argument of cases on appeal.

"Developments and evidence secured since the regular session of the General Assembly have strengthened our case ten fold," said Mr. Brooks yesterday, when questioned about the matter. "When I appeared then before the committee advocating the passage of the resolution providing for the investigation of that sale, I was able to present only the A.B.C.'s of the evidence we now have."

He said the Corporation Commission at an early date will take up the matter for a final hearing, and complete the investigation. Following completion of the investigation the Commission will, under the resolution make report of its findings to the attorney general, who will probably enter suit in the State courts or more probably present the case to the Attorney General of the United States with request that suit be brought in the Federal courts for the annullment of the sale of the road.

The road, which extended from Wilmington to Mt. Airy, by way of Fayetteville and Sanford, as a continuous through line, was sold by order of court, and purchased by the Southern Railway Company and the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Company, and divided between themselves, according to agreement prior to the sale, it now appears. The through line was dismembered at Sanford, the part east of that point being now owned by the Atlantic Coast Line and the part west of that point being now operated by the Southern Railway.

The advocates o the annulment of the sale claim that the dismemberment of the road was in violation of the anti-trust law, and that the patrons of the road have suffered immensely on account of it.

LINEN SHOWER FOR COLORED.

Inmates of Red Cross Sanitarium Are Being Remembered.

A "Linen Shower" for the colored patients of the Red Cross Sanitarium, which was to have been held at residence of the colored nurse on Friday night of last week, was postponed until Monday night by reason of the very inclement weather. Following donations have been received: From Holy church, 18 sheets, 18 pillow cases and 12 towels; individuals, 31 towels, 24 sheets, 24 pillow cases, three pillows; St. Mark's church, $5.34; St. Luke's, $7.10; W. C. Arnold, $5; John E. Taylor, $5; colored Y. M. C. A., $2; Giblem Lodge, Masons, $5. For these donations those interested beg to acknowledge thanks. Further donations may be sent to the home of the Red Cross nurse, Anna Bentley, and public acknowledgement will be made of all those who contribute to this splendid charity. Contributions may be sent to No. 315 South Sixth street.

The action of the colored people in responding to this worthy appeal is worthy of the highest commendation and they are showing their appreciation of the work done by the Red Cross Society in no ungenerous way. It is a significant fact that two-thirds of the patients are colored people and those of their race have shown their willingness to do all possible in alleviating the suffering.

What is Woman's Beauty but Health

And the Basis of Her Health and Vigor Lies in the Careful Regulation of the Bowels.

If woman's beauty depended upon cosmetics every woman would be a picture of loveliness. But beauty lies deeper than that. It lies in health. In the majority of cases the basis of health, and the cause of sickness, can be traced to the action of the bowels.

The headaches, the lassitude, the sallow skin and the lusterless eyes are usually due to constipation. So many things that women do habitually conduce to this trouble. They do not eat carefully, they eat indigestible foods because the foods are served daintily and they do not exercise enough. But whatever the particular cause may be it is important that the condition should be corrected.

An ideal remedy for women, and one especially suited to their delicate requirements, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of women endorse highly, among them Mrs. C. S. Vance, of 511 S. Ray St., New Castle, Pa. At times she had spells of indigestion so severe that she thought she would die, Syrup Pepsin regulated her stomach and bowels, and she attributes her excellent health today to this remedy.

All the family can use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for thousands of mothers give it to babies and children. It is also admirably suited to the requirements of elderly people, in fact to all who by reason of age or infirmity cannot stand harsh salts, cathartics pills or purgatives. These should always be avoided, for at best their effect is only for that day, while a genuine remedy like Syrup Pepsin acts mildly but permanently.

MRS. C. S. VANCE.

It can be conveniently obtained at any drug store at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. You will find it gentle in action, pleasant in taste, and free from griping, and its tonic properties have a distinct value to women. It is the most widely used laxative-tonic in America today and thousands of families are now never without it.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Rheumatism, Sprains Backache, Neuralgia

"Yes, daughter, that's good stuff. The pain in my back is all gone—I never saw anything work as quickly as Sloan's Liniment." Thousands of grateful people voice the same opinion. Here's the proof.

Relieved Pain in Back.

"I was troubled with a very bad pain in my back for some time. I went to a doctor but he did not do me any good, so I purchased a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, and now I am a well woman. I always keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment in the house." —Miss Matilda Catton, 364 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sciatic Rheumatism.

"We have used Sloan's Liniment for over six years and found it the best we ever used. When my wife had sciatic rheumatism the only thing that did her any good was Sloan's Liniment. We cannot praise it highly enough." —Mr. Perigo, Des Moines, Iowa.

Sprained Ankle Relieved.

"I was ill for a long time with a severely sprained ankle. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and now I am able to be about and can walk a great deal. I write this because I think you deserve a lot of credit for putting such a fine Liniment on the market and I shall always take time to recommend Dr. Sloan's Liniment."—*Mrs. Chas. FERTILIZER MADE FROM AIR much cheaper per ton—only 50 to 80 cents per ton—than the Chile salts taken from their deposit beds, together with the $10 or $12 per ton export duty levied by the Chilean Government (from which Chile gains its largest revenues, which practically maintains its Government expenses) and makes it cost f. o. b. Chile about $35 to $40, yet on account of the small water powers of Europe not sufficient amounts of the air-nitrogen electric-manufactured calcium or lime nitrate at six to ten times less cost than Chile saltpeter, have been manufactured in Germany, Norway, and other European countries to compete with the much larger yields of the Chile saltpeter beds, and the price continues to advance under larger consumption, large export duties of the Chilean Government, and trust-manipulated prices. Hence the larger water powers of America at Niagara Falls, of Iceland (by the English Government), and Niagara Falls in Canada have attracted attention of capitalists, scientists, and chemists and are being used for cheaper electric power, ranging from 37 cents to 50 cents anr $1.25 per undeveloped in the United States—while Alaska can furnish still larger water powers, on account of the larger winter snows and rainfalls of that section. Continued perfection in the detail methods of manufacture of this air-nitrogen calcium nitrate will greatly cheapen this most expensive and most soluble ammonia fertilizer constituent, but it will take much capital to produced the amount of free nitrogen or ammonia now consumed as Chile saltpeter for fertilizing purposes.

In 1910 capitalists with the patent rights of German chemists began the manufacture of nitrogen from the air, known as calcium cyanamide, using heated limestone and coke pulverized in equal parts for absorbing the nitrogen gathered from the rapidly heated air, at Niagara Falls, Canada.

This calcium or lime cyanamide contains 20 per cent nitrogen, equal to 14 per cent of ammonia. This calcium cyanamide also has the greater advantage of being thoroughly pulverized and is not hygroscopic, remaining dry for years in bags and easily acid phosphate, yet at the same time when wet in the soil, gives up tht ammonia freely for plant food, but not so readily, as Chile saltpeter or calcium nitrate made from the air, both of which are great advantages.

The coke used in its manufacture is about as cheap as limestone, and the process of manufacture being so simple, the calcium cyanamide with 10 per cent more ammonia than the calcium nitrates and 5 per cent more ammonia than the calcium nitrates and 5 per cent more ammonia than the Chile sodium nitrate—not hygroscopic nor volatile and containing lime and not sodium—will be largely used when these electric manufacturing plants can supply sufficient quantity for agricultural fertilizers and will become the common source of ammonia obtained from the inexhaustible free supply in the air around us. Such is the purpose of this bill.

The other bill introduced calls for an appropriation of $50,000 for the study of, testing, and experimentation with the best methods of obtaining larger per cent of acid phosphate from the large deposits of phosphate rock in the United States, the common source of such soluble acid phosphate necessary for plant food.

Heretofore this phosphate rock has been mined, crushed, and treated with sulphuric acid for extracting in soluble form acid phosphate for plant food. By such chemical treatment of phosphate rock only 16 per cent soluble acid phosphate has been rendered available for plant food, the remainder being insoluble and probably not taken up from the soil, and therefore useless. By such sulphuric acid treatment a quantity of free sulphuric acid remains in the commercial acid phosphate commonly sold for agricultural fertilizers, which sours the soil and retards plant growth until corrected by the application of lime to the soil, which in turn corrects the surplus free sulphuric acid in the acid phosphate and stays any further solubility of the remaining 84 per cent of acid phosphate in the phosphate rock, rendering it inert and useless as plant food.

Recent experiments with baking crushed or pulverized phosphate rock in high-temperature electric ovens has fully demonstrated the fact that as much as 40 per cent of soluble acid phosphate for plant food can be extracted from this crushed phosphate rock without the excess of free sulphuric acid, which retards plant growth by souring the soil. Such electric method increasing the available acid phosphate from 16 per cent to 40 per cent for plant food increases the plant-food value 250 per cent and relieves the necessity of liming the soil at additional expenses to the cost of production of food crops, and adds largely to the yield of the soil, and thereby cheapens food products to the ultimate consumer.

The increasing large quantities of commercial fertilizers for the increasing necessity of larger yields of foodstuffs to supply the need of a larger population, now increasing in America at the rate of about 2,000,000 per annum, born in and immigrating to America, besides our exports of foodstuffs to foreign countries, will demand larger and larger quantities of such commercial fertilizers. It is estimated that about 10,000,000 tons of fertilizers or more, valued at $250,000,000, are now consumed annually in the United States, while about $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 go abroad in excess of our exports of phosphate rock, largely for the ammonia and potash ingredients of these fertilizers.

Ammonia being the highest priced—$60 per 100 pounds—the most volatile, and the least plentiful, except as nitrogen in the air, how important, then, it becomes to farmers, producers, and consumers of such foods in the United States that such an all-important and valuable agricultural fertilizer as ammonia should be made as cheaply as possible from the inexhaustible supply of nitrogen in the air—20,000,000 tons to each square mile of the earth's surface—and, not only not needed to sustain animal and human life, but poisonous to both when not combined with the oxygen. It is only combined in the atmosphere, useless, stored, in four times the quantity of the life-giving oxygen by an all-wise, provident Creator to increase the yield of the soil to feel increasing humanity when the "high cost of living" has become burdensome and the other natural supply of such needed fertilizer nearly exhausted.

Such a bountiful, inexhaustible supply of ammonia as nitrogen in the atmosphere and so freely provided for humanity by an all-wise and provident God, more free and bountiful than water composing three-fourths of the earth's surface, was never intended in His divine beneficent economy to be controlled by any trust nor protected by any patent rights of greedy, selfish, human invention or legislative action in order to control or lessen the yield of mother earth when the food supply is limited by the natural increase of consumers, now crying out for cheaper food in these days of the "high cost" of the common necessities of life.

It therefore should become the urgent duty of Congress to thoroughly investigate and test the best methods of utilizing these natural and much-needed highest-priced volatile ingredients of commercial fertilizers, "nitrogen or ammonia," so bountifully and freely supplied in the air, and acid phosphate for the larger yields of food supplies for hungering increasing humanity, and relieve the stress of the "high cost of living" heard on all sides. Find out the cost of the same by the best and cheapest methods of electric manufacture and regulate the trusts and patent rights which control the price and sale or corner the output of such needed agricultural fertilizers for the larger yield of old mother earth when famine or hunger seems to threaten the masses of the American people.

For this purpose I have introduced these two bills in Congress— to investigate, test, and study the manufacture of free nitrogen or ammonia by electrical methods from the atmosphere, and of acid phosphate in larger quantities from the phosphate-rock deposits of America.

I have also introduced a resolution of investigation to investigate the Fertilizer Trust controlling by combination the price and output of commercial fertilizers and their ingredients, which are fixing annually the quantity manufactured and mined and the prices, wholesale and retail, of three ingredients—ammonia, acid phosphate, and potash—when sold in the United States as Chile saltpeter, and from vegetable and animal sources, or manufactured from the air by patent processes as calcium nitrate or calcium cyanamide, potash, as sulphate or muriate of potash, or kainit, and, third, acid phosphates.

Such study, tests, and investigations by the United States Secretary of Agriculture will give the farmers and stockmen of the States commercial fertilizers at cheap and legitimate prices, while will enable them to increase their yields of meats and foodstuffs by more intensive, scientific, and modern methods of agriculture and stock raising; and such increase will cheapen the rapidly increasing cost of such foodstuffs due to the annual decrease of production and be-men, and the ultimate consumers.

Who, then, can say nay?

Congress can spend a few thousand—yea, a few hundred thousand—dollars in no better way, and hungering humanity will hail such relief with universal approval. It will be in thorough accord with the present policy of the present administration in reducing the tariff, passing proper currency legislation, curbing the monopolistic grip of the trusts, enacting into just laws a long-time credit farm-loan system, establishing vocational schools and demonstration-farm schools; in fact, it is "the key to the arch," as old mother earth can only bring forth bountifully when the proper plant food, drawn from her soil by centuries of yielding, her increase, is easily and plentifully supplied in soluble form in the ammonia, potash, and acid phosphates of commercial agricultural fertilizers so well known to all agricultural chemists and scientific farmers, who are busy as never before feeding the growing millions hungering for food and raiment.

SENATOR BROWN TALKS.

Columbus County Man Speaks of the Scarcity of Labor.

(Raleigh News and Observer, Oct. 29)

"The biggest problem that we people in the eastern part of the State have to contend with," said Mr. J. A. Brown, of Chadbourn, who was in the city Wednesday "is the labor problem. We have the cotton, but getting it picked is where the rub is. Labor gets scarcer and scarcer every year."

Asked what, in his opinion, was the remedy for the scarcity of labor, Mr. Brown said that the farmers had to get where they could do their farming with their own household. That he said could be done by intensifying and diversifying. "Grain," said Mr. Brown, "can be made with machinery largely. Stock can be raised without the great amount of labor that is required to handle cotton. We need more growing of grain and more attention paid to the live stock industry."

Asked for a restatement of the doctrine of intensification, Mr. Brown said, "I can tell you best by a concrete example. There is an old negro in Alabama who makes three bales of cotton to the acre when the average crop of cotton is half a bale to the acre. That old negro does intensive farming. The half-bale farmers don't do intensive farming.

"But I just mention that as an example. We don't need more cotton so much as we need more stock. Do you know that a cow-hide is today worth more than a whole cow was twenty years ago? Do you know that there would not be grease enough in the whole country to furnish shortening for our bread if it were not for the cotton seed oil products?"

Mr. Brown also has some very decided convictions on the matter of railroad rates. The interstate rates are bad enough, he said, but they are not anything like so unjust as the intrastate rates. North Carolina people just can't do business with one another, he said. "They are forced to do business with the people in other States. Some years ago, my brother was in Hendersonville. I wanted some Irish potatoes. I learned through a letter from my brother that there were plenty of them to be had in Hendersonville at reasonable prices. I went to the railroad office to find out the rate from Hendersonville to Chadbourn. It was $1.92 per hundred pounds. The rate from Maine and western New York was 54 cents per hundred pounds. Of course, I had to get my potatoes from some other place than Hendersonville."

Mr. Brown said that Columbus county is forging ahead rapidly in the improvement of its schools and roads.

MRS. W. W. LAKE

Tells Others How to Get Strong and Well.

Mrs. W. W. Lake, of Aberdeen, Miss., says: "The grippe had left me in a weak, run-down condition from which I suffered for some time. I tried different remedies but nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Vinol, from which I received great benefit. My cough is almost entirely gone, and I am strong and well again, and I am glad to recommend Vinol to others who suffer as I did."

Mrs. Lake's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements extracted from cods' livers—combined with the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol, and her cough disappeared as a natural result.

We guarantee that Vinol will do all we claim and will pay back your money if Vinol does not satisfy you.

MAPLE HOLDING OWN.

Widely Used and Most Valuable of Native Hardwoods.

Though at one time in the early history of the country an average of 6,000 maple trees were destroyed in clearing the ordinary New York or Pennsylvania farm, maple is today, according to the Department of Agriculture, one of the most widely used and valuable native hardwoods.

A bulletin on the uses of maple, just issued by the department, states that the wood finds place in an enormous number of articles in daily use, from rolling pins to pianos and organs. It is one of the best woods for flooring, and is always a favorite material for the floors of roller skating rinks and bowling alleys. It leads all other woods as a material for shoe lasts, the demand for which in Massachusetts alone exceeds 13,000,000 board feet annually.

Sugar maple stands near the top of the list of furniture woods in this country. The so-called "birds-eye" effect, the department explains, is probably due to buds which for some reason cannot force their way through the bark, but which remain just beneath it year after year. The young wood is disturbed each succeeding season by the presence of the bud, and grows around it in fantastic forms, which are exposed when the saw cuts through the abnormal growth.

Maple, the department goes on to say, is one of the chief woods used for agricultural implements and farm machinery, being so employed because of its strength and hardness. All kinds of wooden ware are made of maple, which holds important rank also in the manufacture of shuttles, spools and bobbins. It competes with black gum for first place in the manufacture of rollers of many kinds, from those employed in house-moving to the less massive ones used on lawn mowers. Athletic goods, school supplies, brush backs, pulleys, type cases and crutches are a few of the other articles for which maple is in demand.

Seven species of maple grow in the United States, of which sugar maple, sometimes called hard maple, is the most important. The total cut of maple in the United States annually amounts to about 1,150,000,000 feet. Nearly one-half is produced by Michigan, with Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, New York and West Virginia following in the order named.

Sugar maple, says the department, is in little danger of disappearing from the American forests, for it is a strong, vigorous, aggressive tree, and though not a fast grower, is able to hold its own. In Michigan it is not unusual for maple to take possession of land from which pine or hardwoods have been cut clean, and from New England westward through the Lake States, and southward to the Ohio and Potomac rivers, few other species are oftener seen in wood lots.

Saintliness and sanity are both a happy balance between self and society.

The housewives league of Wilmington at a rousing organization meeting Monday decided to patronize no merchant who would occupy the sidewalks of the city for displays of eatables.

It was rumored during the week that former Commissioners D. McEachern and H. L. Vollers would be asked to stand for election to the county board in the forthcoming election next year.

Mrs. Williams, wife of Chief of Police Williams, died Sunday afternoon at Harper's Sanitarium where she had been under treatment for some days, the funeral being held Monday.

J. H. W. Bonitz, many years proprietor of the Bonitz House, and one of Wilmington's oldest and most esteemed residents died Monday night, 74 years old. The funeral was conducted Wednesday.

Judge Rountree, in Superior Court Monday, non-suited the plaintiff in the damage suit brought against the Tidewater Power Co., for the death of James C. Register, an employe killed some months ago.

The coroner's jury found Monday that the death of young David Coleman, killed with hunting companions yesterday a week ago on the sound, was purely an accident. The funeral was conducted Monday.

T. B. Kingsbury is transferred to Norfolk as acting manager of the Western Union there, one of the largest offices in the South. J. Shinberger, of Greensboro, succeeds him as manager of the office here.

W. H. Plummer resigns the management of The Orton and will this week become manager of The Jefferson, a modern hotel in Columbia, S. C., being succeeded in Wilmington by Chas. E. Hooper, last season manager of The Oceanic, at Wrightsville Beach.

C. E. Borden, of Richmond, vice president of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., member of the North Carolina family of that name and for many years a resident of Wilmington where he married, died Tuesday at a hotel in Atlantic City where he was spending some time for his health, the body being brought here for interment Wednesday evening.

A letter was received Wednesday by Dr. Nesbitt, county health officer, from Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary of the State Board of Health, which states that the report of the inspector who was recently sent to Wilmington for the purpose of verifying the reports of the county health department to the State Board of Health, shows that the registration work has been remarkably well done.

A large crowd attended the lecture in Pythian Hall, Murchison National Bank building, Thursday night at 8 o'clock, to hear "The Story of Pythian Knighthood," by Mr. Geo. W. Penniman, of Mattapan, Mass representing the Supreme Lodge of Knights of Pythias. The lecture was given under the auspices of the local lodges and it was the desire of the Pythians that as many of their friends as possible hear the lecture.

Enthusiastic reports of the meeting of the Mecklenburg Branch of the North Carolina Just Freight Rate Assoication in Charlotte Tuesday night were brought back Wednesday by the Wilmington delegation which attended the meeting—Messrs. J. G. McCormick, W. E. Perdew, J. B. Rice, J. S. Brown and A. B. McNair. On Thursday a delegation composed of L. E. Hall, J. B. Rice, Isadore Bear and Waddell Walters attended the State meeting at Raleigh.

Realizing the strong and widespread opposition that had developed to the measure, and having a desire to do what in their opinion would be for the benefit of the majority of people rather than for the few, Councilmen Jones, Wood and Merritt, constituting a majority of the City Council, at the close of a spirited discusison on the subject and after a committee of ladies as well as men had been heard in protest against the new law, Wednesday morning at the regular meeting of the Council, decided to suspend until November 13th the operation of the amended city ordinance permitting the use by the merchants of two feet of sidewalk for display purposes, the ladies in the meantime to see the merchants who signed the petition for the privilege, and secure a withdrawal of their signatures so that the Councilmen at a subsequent meeting will feel free to rescind, if they desire, their former action, and declare that the sidewalks shall continue to be free of obstructions.

"Economy, whether public or private, means the wise management of labor; and it means it mainly in three senses: Namely, first, applying your labor rationally; secondly, preserving its produce carefully; lastly, distributing it produce seasonably."—Ruskin.

Saved Mine Option

A WESTERN Mining Engineer, with an option on a valuable mine was about to close the deal, when, at the last minute, the Western capitalists withdrew their support. With a few hours left in which to find the money, he got New York on the Bell Long Distance Telephone, talked with a banking house and outlined the proposition, which they agreed to finance.

THEATRICAL

The Academy has a great trio of attractions for presentation at early dates. Each will represent what is best in its line and the events will be looked forward to with much pleasure. On Monday night, November 10th, one week from tomorrow night, comes the noted play "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," while two days later, the 12th ,one of the swellest and greatest musical comedies of all, one that has received the highest praise from the press, which will be cited later to those not familiar, will be offered at matinee and night. It will be the well known success, "The Girl of My Dreams." After that, also for matinee and night, will come "The Shepherd of the Hills," a mammoth production.

In the "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" critics admit that Isabelle Lowe has never appeared more beautiful than as June, the barefoot mountain girl, though she finds herself in a strange setting in the Cumberland Mountains, which John Fox, Jr., the author of the book, laid his scenes in and which Eugene Walter has faithfully adhered to. The mountains and valleys with the winding river; the hills and trees; the cabins and caves, have been reproduced with remarkable fidelity in the magnificent production given the play. In fact, it is seldom that a play has been given as elaborate a scenic setting and electrical equipment as this play has. In the production the mountain characters, which were followed by so many readers in the pages of the book, will be seen visualized—Uncle Billy Bean, the justice of the peace, who runs the mill; his wife, Ole Hun, ever smoking her pipe; "Devil" Judd Tolliver, June's father and a feudist; Dave, his nephew, and Loretty, Dave's sweetheart. The tongue is that of the mountaineers, in fact, each one of the players has been selected to portray the bone and blood of the Southland.

Group of Beauties With the Merry Musical Play, "The Girl of My Dreams," at the Academy of Music, Wed., Nov. 12th.

"The Girl of My Dreams."

At the Academy for matinee and night, November 12th, the theatregoers of this city will be given their first view of the delightful musical play, "The Girl of My Dreams." This highly successful musical production which had its initial presentation in Chicago three seasons ago, enjoying a twelve weeks' run, is said to be one of the best delightful and refined musical plays seen in years and a worthy successor to its famous predecessor, "Three Twins." It has also filled highly successful engagements in all the principal cities of the country including Boston, Philadelphia and New York City. The book is by Wilbur D. Nesbit, of the Chicago Evening Post. Otto Hauerbach is responsible for the lyrics and the music by the late Karl Hoschna, composer of "Bright Eyes," "Three Twins," Madame Sherry" and "Doctor De Luxe."

The story of the piece tells of a bachelor's downfall before the charms of a demure little Quaker girl. These roles will be those of the principals, Countess Olga Von Hatzfeldt, Roy Purviance. The bachelor is much of a club man and has the cynical attitude of his class toward the feminine sex. A habit of breaking village speed ordinances leads him into a bad motor accident. He is carried, much injured, into a Quaker household where he is nursed back to health by the girl. By the time he is able to look about from an arm chair, his ideals of bachelorhood are shattered. The Quakeress and her father later go to the city to see the bachelor and the young woman is much shocked by her prospective husband's friends. She doesn't know whether she loves him or not, but the sky is clear in time for a happy ending just before the drop of the final curtain. The piece is chuck full of catchy musical numbers, "I'm Ready to Quit and Be Good," effectively rendered by Mr. Purviance, and Miss Von Hatzfeldt's delightful "Doctor Tinkle Tinker" being the most popular. The balance of the company numbers among the principals Eda Von Luke, Francis Gaillard, Neil Burns, Cecile Renard, Irving Brooks, Frank McEwen and W. D. Stone, together with a splendid male chorus and the original De Luxe Pony Ballet. The organization numbers 60 people in all.

"The Shepherd of the Hills."

"The Shepherd of the Hills", a dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's novel of the same name by Mr. Wright and Elsbery W. Reynolds, is announced for production at the Academy at an early date.

Never in the history of publishing of books has a novel attained such a widespread popularity in the short space of four years. It has exceeded by over one hundred thousand copies the sale of the previous biggest seller, "David Harum." In making a play of his story, the author, in collaboration with Mr. Reynolds, has retained the big dramatic possibilities of the book, making the love story of "Young Matt" and "Sammy Lane" his big theme. The play would be interesting even if it only depended upon its excellent character-drawing to entertain, as the characters of the mountaineers of the Ozarks are indeed unusual upon the stage and lend a picturesqueness that is really worth while.

Vaudeville at Academy.

The vaudeville at the Academy of Music for this week promises to be unusually good. All of the acts for the last part of the week have not yet been arranged. A partial list of the attractions will be: The Morton sisters, singing and dancing; Du Barry and Leigh, vaudeville surprises; Mlle. Genevieve Grosse, the Pettrazzini of vaudeville; The Atlas Trio, European sensational tight wire artists and novelty acrobats, and the Musical Leslys, who play all standard instruments.

Friday night the "Country Store" will be given in addition to the other features. There will be a country store on the stage and it will be presided over by a typical country storekeeper. The merchandise and everything necessary to make a Huckinsville emporium has been donated by the local merchants. The goods will be given to the patrons of the theatre after the play.

Special matinee every afternoon for the ladies and children. All seats will be 10 cents. Performance starts at 3:30 P. M.

Four Pictures at Grand.

With four fine films, the best in the market, the pick, in fact, the cozy, handsome Grand will inaugurate its new week tomorrow. It's a quartette of photoplays that will appeal to every one and that should not be missed. The leader of the galaxy is Edison's "A Wilful Colleen's Way," which is as pretty and as snappy an Irish story as ever written, and in the cast will be seen such well known Thespians as May Abbey, Amy Lee, Richard Tucker, Harry Eytinge and Mrs. C. Jay Williams.

"The Actress and Her Jewels" is another great headliner tomorrow and is exceedingly fascinating. It is of a fake robbery of the jewels of an actress, to secure publicity. It's a scream all the way through.

Pathe has a heart gripper on tomorrow in "The Secret Treasurer," a fiery dramatic with the scenes laid in Mexico, which is particularly in the limelight just now.

Lubin's "The Constable's Daughter," is also a star. It is a case of love at first sight and in which auto speeders and a village constable are involved. It is a dainty comedy indeed.

Great Bill at the Bijou.

Another great week-end was chalked up yesterday by the people's popular pleasure palace—the charming Bijou. Great Saturday crowds were at the theatre afternoon and night and each immense audience was immensely delighted. But as wonderful as was last week's shows those of this week, judging by the films already contracted for, will be bigger and greater. A fine start will be made tomorrow when a rare collection of films will be presented, headed by Lubin's masterpiece, "Winning His Wife," in which two noted artists, Ormi Hawley and Earl Metcalf, will appear in the stellar roles. It will be something extra choice, with the scenes laid in country, city and forest. It is a great dramatic novelty. Another superb photoplay for tomorrow will be the Biograph's "The Law and His Son," while there will also be the latest Pathe Weekly. Current events will be depicted in this film in most interesting manner, including the visit of Prince Albert of Monaco to New York, a glimpse of celebrated Coney Island and Secretary of State Bryan at his chautauqua work.

The Bijou is always the delightfully comfortable spot and the price of admission never varies from the 5 cent mark.

NEWSPAPER FAKING

(Nyack (N. Y.) Star)

Much interest will be felt among newspaper men in the announcement of a "bureau of accuracy and fair play," inaugurated by a New York newspaper. The purpose of this department is to check carelessness, avoid needless libel suits, to promote fair play, and stamp out fakes and fakers.

The public sometimes laughs at the smaller newspapers as collections of curbstone gossip, and looks with a certain awe at great metropolitan journals with their enormous circulations as institutions dealing with great national issues on which a high standard of accuracy and truth telling is required.

In actual practice the situation is reversed. The smaller papers, those that are close to a small city or village constituency, are held down very rigidly to high standards of accurate reporting. If some one's initial is printed wrong, they will hear about it next day. The most offhand remark is often accepted as containing deep and poisonous innuendo.

On the other hand, even the best of the big metropolitan papers print news on mere heresay, affecting the most important and delicate interests of business and government. The next day the whole thing is riddled by the people who know about it, error is admitted, and every one forgets about the incident except those who are injured.

The smaller city daily and the country weekly realize fully the folly of all this. It sells papers for the moment, but produces a hornet's nest for the next day. In the long run it hurts newspaper circulation and disgusts the public. It places irritations and obstacles in the way of the true newspaper man who is working every minute to find the truth and give it to the public. The New York newspaper has taken a step in the right direction in establishing a bureau of accuracy that might with many good results be emulated by some newspapers in most all the large cities of the country and one here and there in the smaller communities. Sensational journalism with red ink attachment encompasses a multitude of sins that in the long run will not be tolerated by a discriminating public.

A 12,000-mile motorcycle trip is being made by R. L. Allen, of San Francisco, Cal. He is taking the Northern route across the continent to New York. He will return by the central route.

MILLIONS IN WASTE PAPER

New Yorkers Throw Away Six Million Tons Yearly—Repeaters in Coming Election—Directors' Fees.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, Nov. 1.—Father Knickerbocker has just discovered that he is the greatest waster of waste paper in the world. So enormous is the amount which he throws away that there are more than 150 firms in New York engaged in gathering and selling it.

Its value is estimated to be greater than the income of any European ruler. At a conservative estimate, at least 40,000 workers—pushcart men, drivers, sorters, buyers and experts—are engaged in this industry throughout the greater city. More than 100,000 tons of waste paper is collected every week—a yearly crop of nearly six million tons. The principal factor in this field is the Salvation Army, which for years has solicited old clothes and magazines for the "down and outers" taken into its homes. Undoubtedly the tons of magazines and newspapers given and offered to its wagons led to the adoption of house to house gathering of waste paper as a means of self-support for the thousands of homeless and jobless men whom the Army undertakes to help to help themselves. In more recent years, realizing the possibilities for profit in the business, the Army has established a number of thoroughly equipped plants in various parts of the city, each one with stables and sorting and baling rooms, and also with living accommodations for its workers.

No small job on its hands has New York's Honest Ballot Association to eliminate the usual 60,000 to 100,000 illegal votes from next Tuesday's election returns. Ballot box stuffing in Gotham is restricted neither as to locality nor as to method. Any one or more of the old or new tricks are likely to be put over at any of the thousands of voting places in the city. Contracts for such jobs are made and plans laid months ahead—in fact, the game belongs to that underworld which never sleeps. However, under present laws, the voting frauds are largely, if not wholly, confined to illegal registrations and to the voting by crooks on registered names before the voters themselves arrive. So this non-partisan association, backed by men and women of wealth and influence, has enlisted the services of 3,000 college men to purge the registration rolls of repeaters and floaters by looking them up between registration and election days and verifying their residence at the addresses given, and by being on hand at election day to bag those who attempt to vote illegally, and combat other abuses.

The incomes of many New York financiers from directors' fees alone would be sufficient to keep the wolf from their doors. The usual fee paid by the larger corporations for attending a meeting is $20, though a few pay more and the majority of the corporations distribute tens and fives among "those present." There are probably scores whose fees amount yearly to four to five thousand dollars and several who thus add eight to ten thousand to their pocket change. The largest income from this source—approximately $13,500 annually—is enjoyed by a close associate of the late "Czar of Wall Street", who has a policy of never missing a directors' meeting unavoidably, it being his desire to keep in close touch with his various interests, and he is said, also, to keep a sharp eye for his fee whenever in attendance. This gentleman is a director of 57 active railroad, banking and industrial corporations.

Over $2,000,000 is the estimated market value of the postage stamps shown in New York this week at the International Stamp Exhibition, which is the first exhibition of its kind ever held in this country. There are in the world half a million stamp collectors, of whom at least 150,000 are in the United States and nearly 30,000 are New Yorkers. The most valuable collection exhibited is that of a Cleveland philatelist and is worth not less than $500,000. There are several other collections appraised well into six figures. Probably the most highly prized individual stamps in the exhibition, or in fact in the world, are the Mauritius 1847, one pence and two pence stamps, quoted at $18,000 for the two. A number of others are in the $5,000 and up class and many are valued at $1,000 or more.

Is the millenium at hand? New York's union of waiters has declared against tipping and is holding mass meetings and otherwise working out plans to abolish the nuisance. Already nearly half of the 6,000 active union waiters here have signed petitions to the legislature to make it a misdemeanor to tip a waiter or for a waiter to accept a tip and to provide as punishment to fit the crime a year's imprisonment or a $500 fine, or both. The waiters have the enthusiastic backing of the commercial travelers' organization. The average wage of waiters here is $25 a month. Some receive more, but many less. For the difference between this wage and a decent living they must depend upon tips, which they claim is prejudicial to self-respect. Hence, they will demand wages of $80 or thereabout, even if the advance has to be added to the already high restaurant rates.

The teaching of thrift in New York schools is proposed and a representative of the organization which has proposed it, S. W. Straus, of Chicago, who is chairman of the organization committee of the American Society for Thrift, is about to descend upon New York to push along the idea. Conferences have been arranged and others are to be arranged which will keep him busy talking thrift to educators and charity workers, corporation managers and others, for several days. The American Society for Thrift, from the headquarters in Chicago, has started a nation-wide canvass to find out what is to be done about the prodigal tendency complained of from one end of the country to the other, and to get steps taken to awaken notions of old-fashioned thrift at least among the rising generation. The New York school superintendents and principals have been recipients of many of the initial bulletins sent out by the society in which the announcement is made that school children will be given cash prizes for the best definition of thrift and the best story of typical thrift received before November 15th.

It is now announced that New York's new water system, which almost rivals the Panama Canal in size and cost, will be completed in two years. It is by all odds the biggest water system in the world and will cost, it is believed, far in excess of the $200,000,000 already appropriated. Incidentally, the fact has been brought to light that this city has what is probably the largest subterranean population in the world. There are now employed underneath Manhattan Borough 25,000 men, carving out, cementing and otherwise making ready the tunnels through which the city will receive 770,000,000 gallons of water daily. These tunnels are from 200 to 500 feet below the surface and are carved out of solid rock, which will be lined with a 1 1-2 foot thickness of concrete, thus avoiding the deterioration that is characteristic of iron pipe. These operations extend all the way from the Ashokan reservoir to Staten Island, a distance of 127 miles. There are 92 miles of aqueduct north of the city's bounds. The four drainage areas from which the supply will be drawn aggregate 900 square miles. Incidental to this stupendous undertaking seven towns are wiped out, causing the removal of thousands of people; over 2,800 bodies in 32 cemeteries have been reinterred in new sites; 64 miles of highway discontinued, and 40 miles of new highway constructed; 14 bridges built; 11 miles of railroad re-located; 15,222 acres of land acquired; 2,936,600 cubic yards of earth and rock excavated; 8,069,000 cubic yards of embankment and 984,000 cubic yards of masonry placed; and 2,187,000 barrels of cement used. This new system is designed to supply the entire population of Greater New York and provides for the growth of the city to twice its present population.

Recent prosecutions have brought to light even more forcibly than heretofore the existence in this city of the profession of horse poisoning. Strange, but none the less true to relate, there are poisoned here each year thousands of horses employed in the delivery of ice, ice cream, milk and other such commodities because of the refusal of their owners to pay blackmail in some of the forms peculiar to the "gangs", or perhaps because he chooses to remain independent of some association, or maybe for no other reason than that he is a competitive "thorn in the side" of those who are willing to risk due punishment in order to cripple or get them out of the way. The latest case is of two poisoners convicted of making away, for $100, of the nine horses of an ice cream manufacturer who, according to the testimony, has been "decently asked" to join an association and, declining, was taught a lesson.

One hundred and one fires in three years is the record of a single city block in what has been known as New York's "Arson Zone." Few realize what this means in cost to the city and the property owners. Any alarm in that section will bring out at least three engines and two hook and ladder trucks, with 44 men, and to turn out each of these apparatus costs just $35. The totals for the 101 fires therefore are 505 pieces of apparatus used and 4,444 men called out at a cost of $3,535. Damages suffered at fires average $622 each, making the total loss for this block $62,822. That not one life was lost in all these fires will seem strange to one who does not realize that the people who care to live in such a place surely know all about fires—take them as a matter of course, and are always ready. Rarely do they even have to be rescued. However, "Block 1672", as this block is known, has washed its face and turned over a new leaf. As a result of special attention from the new bureau of fire prevention it has furnished only two alarms during the present year.

An altar bedecked with relics from all over the world and recalling many historical and traditional places and incidents will be the most absorbing feature of the magnificent Chapel of the Intercession now nearing completion on Washington Heights. This church is declared to be the finest example of ecclesiastical art and architecture in New York, and probably in the United States. No building in New York has a setting of greater historical interest—to the east and south being Trinity cemetery (now its own churchyard) in which still appear faintly the ridge of the trenches used in the Battle of Washington Heights. Within the chapel every bit of ornamentation is of a profoundly symbolic character. The significance of the whole, however, will concentrate in the altar with its remarkable suggestion of secular and sacred history. There will be bits of sculpture, bricks, colored tiles, rough slabs, fragments of tombs and palaces, pebbles from Jordan, stones from Mount Sinai, the walls of Jericho, the Temple of Jerusalem and the Mount of Olives, and other relics almost countless, the gathering of which is a story in itself, and every one of which has its individual certificate of authenticity.

Is Gotham to have a war between the low priced restaurant concerns? There are promising signs that the "fur may fly" in the near future—and by no means to the dismay of the city's quick lunch population which numbers well into the millions. For several years two or three "chain restaurant" enterprises have been establishing branches in every section of the city, and more recently a number of new chains or systems have entered the field. The brightest present prospect of lower cost in this phase of city living grows out of persistent rumors that the wealthy backers of a large and tremendously successful Chicago system are preparing to lock horns in competition for New York patronage with the two local chains that are reputed to be controlled by Standard Oil interests. So a battle royal may be hoped for.

YOU hear and read a lot about cheap clothes; and maybe you buy some.

You can get more for your money, if you pay $25 for one of our suits than if you pay less. If you can afford $25 for a suit you'll be better satisfied than if you pay $18 or $20. It's logical that a maker who wants to put all the value possible into his goods can put in more for $25 than he can for $18 or $20.

If $18 or $20 is all you can afford, don't be ashamed of it; you'll get a suit you needn't be ashamed of, if you buy here.

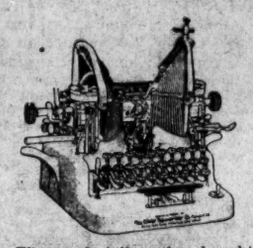
Why Not Try the 17c-a-Day Plan?

The beauty of The Oliver Typewriter 17-Cents-a-Day Plan is that it works out satisfactorily for everybody concerned.

This plan ties up a very large sum of the company's money in typewriters sold on time.

But we have an abundance of capital. We are glad to use our resources to bring this great business aid within easy reach of all who have use for typewriters.



Thousands tell us they bought their Oliver Typewriters without noticing the outlay.

Here's the way the Plan works:

You make a small first payment and get the machine at once.

Then save 17 Cents a Day and pay monthly, exactly the same as rent.

When you complete the payments, the typewriter is yours forever. And you pay only the regular list price.

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer.

is a salary-raiser, an income-producer, an aid to personal efficiency.

Oliver Typewriters are earning millions of dollars for their operators and owners.

They are helping hosts of ambitious young people to achieve successful business careers.

They are helping the small business to grow big and the big business to grow bigger.

They are trade-builders as well as revenue-producers and efficiency-makers.

The newest and best model Oliver Typewriter is sold on this popular plan. There is no extra charge for the famous PRINTYPE OLIVER—the only typewriter that prints print. Printype is conceded to be the greatest typewriter improvement of the century.

More than 15,000 Local Agents in the United States and Canada are making money selling Oliver Typewriters. This is proof positive of Oliver merit and Oliver popularity.

Japanese Hero Worship—Plague of Rats—Grain Market in Liverpool—Dirigibles and Aeroplanes—Hop Crop.

(By Associated Press.)

Tokio, Nov. 1.—A picturesque instance of Japanese hero worship is reported from Kobe, where Sanjin Murano, a millionaire business magnate, has announced his intention of consecrating his life and fortune to the spirit of the late Gen. Nogi, the hero of Port Arthur, who, together with his wife, committed suicide by Hara-kiri on the night of the funeral of Emperor Mutsuhito, last year.

Mr. Murano has decided to retire from business and has severed his connections with all the concerns in which he has held important posts. The announcement was made on the anniversary of the tragic death of the great soldier, whose loyalty and devotion to the country and its ruler have been held in great admiration and reverence by the retiring business man.

Mr. Murano will build a temple at Fushimi, in the vicinity of the mausoleum of Emperor Mutsuhito, as a memorial to Gen. Nogi, and in that sanctuary Mr. and Mrs. Murano intend to spend their remaining days. He will also build an industrial school for children of the poor in order to cultivate the spirit of industry and the love of work, which the late Gen. Nogi always insisted upon for the rising generation of Japan. For this purpose Mr. Murano has given one million yen.

Mr. Murano started his life as a modest municipal official, and the fortune he has amassed is due to his own hard work and business talent. He is now 66 years of age.

The entire population of the small island of Nakashima, of the Ten Islands Group in southern Japan, has been threatened with extermination by a veritable plague of rats.

Nakashima is inhabited by a dozen families, all engaged in agriculture. The rodents increased there at such an enormous rate that they absolutely took possession of the island, ravaging the farms and devastating the crops, and actually attacking cattle and other livestock. The inhabitants killed or captured 5,000 of them, but not before they had lost all their provisions. The authorities were forced to send a quantity of rice and barley to save them from starvation. Meantime, a campaign was organized from without to exterminate the rodents. This was a difficult matter, as they had burrowed retreats in all parts of the island.

Leading Japanese have accepted a suggestion coming from religionists in the United States to hold a universal congress of religions in Tokio in the Spring of 1915.

The suggestion was brought here by Rev. Dr. J. T. Sunderland, who is traveling in the Far East, representing particularly the American Unitarian Association and the British and Foreign Unitarian Association. The object of the congress is that of breaking down the existing barriers that divide religions and nations and races. The idea, therefore, has been welcomed in Japan as a step in bringing about a closer understanding between the peoples of the United States and Japan.

In outlining the scope of the congress, Dr. Sunderland argued before the Japanese that religion has often times proved an antagonizing force instead of a uniting element between races. He thought that a congress where all religious ideas, including Buddhism, Shintoism, Mohammedanism and other sects should be represented would be helpful. There is no idea, he said, of criticising or attacking any religion. The goal is to bring them into sympathetic relation without trying to destroy or change any of them.

The Tokio congress will be preceded by similar congresses in Europe, the Near East, India, Ceylon and Shanghai, and will be followed by a final congress at San Francisco.

During his stay in Japan, Dr. Sunderland made many addresses. He was greatly impressed with the marked development in the educational system of the country and was especially struck with the zeal of the Japanese girl students, whom he addressed at the Woman's University of Japan on what to them was the absorbing subject of the higher education of women in the United States.

Grain in Liverpool.

Liverpool, Nov. 1.—Alexander Mackenzie, a wealthy wheat rancher of Saskatoon, is here investigating the condition of the grain market, and he has taken advantage of his visit to warn the wheat and flour importers of the British Isles that the passing of the American tariff law means the attainment of the long cherished ambition of American millers to the control of the flour markets of the world. Speaking on this subject the Canadian rancher said:

"It has long been the cherished ambition of American millers to control effectively the flour markets of the world, and it now appears as if this dream was in a fair way to be realized. The realization of this dream will not work any hardship on the Canadian wheat grower, as it will be distinctly to our advantage to have such a near market for our grain, but how will it fare with the British and Continental millers? When they were abole to secure our wheat regardless of the long haul, which was offset by the American duty, everything was well, but if the millers of St. Paul, Minneapolis and other great flour centers of the Middle West States, near the Canadian boundary, adopt for their trade motto, 'flour only for sale,' they can well afford to stand pat, selling their flour at the acual cost of production if necessary, and still make good profits on the by-products, which have hitherto enriched the British and Continental millers.

"I am surprised that the millers here are so indifferent to the threatened loss of business, which will be inevitable, for from the moment of the ill-starred reciprocity campaign the American flour men have been preparing to take advantage of the removal of the duty on Canadian wheat. The Canadians are also under no illusions as to the advantages which will accrue to them from the new tariff, as witnessed by the fact that they are now preparing to ship across the border 3,000,000 bushels of oats, which they have been holding in anticipation of the passage of the new act."

Topics in Paris.

Paris, Nov. 1.—The death of the Duke de Fezensac, head of the great Montesquiou family, renders vacant the important office of President of the French Jockey Club, one of the world's most exclusive clubs.

Founded in 1833 on the same lines as the English Jockey Club, by the celebrated Lord Henry Seymour, it numbered among its 14 foundation members the Duke of Orleans, the Duke of Nemours, Prince of the Mos-kowa, and Count Demidoff. High social position and large fortune have always been indispensable conditions of membership; one black ball in six suffices to exclude. The etiquette of the club is of the strictest, and a long period of mourning will elapse before the election of the new president takes place. The post is not an easy one to fill.

First there are the social qualifications, which are many; secondly, the successful candidate must devote much time to his duties. Both the late Duke de Fenzensac and his predecessor, the Duke de Doudeauville, were admirable in these respects. The president is usually taken from among the four vice presidents, but of these at present two are considered too elderly and neither of the other two seems to have enough weight for the post. The Jockey Club has a predilection for members of French noble families and, outside of royalties, admits comparatively few foreigners. There are at present a thousand members; but it is only on rare occasions that anything like that number assembles. The club is a solemn and dignified institution. It never gives entertainments and women are rarely, if ever, admitted.

"America's first step towards a new policy," is the way George Scelle, professor of International Law in the University of Dijon, describes the Porter proposal which resulted in the International convention of 1907 on the coercive recovering of contract debts from defaulting States. This policy has resulted, the professor writes in the Franco-American Review, in a de-facto protectorate of the United States over several Latin-American countries. The "protectorate" must not be taken in its ordinary sense, as "implying the giving up of interior government and especially the control of exterior relations to the agents of the protector who are ostensibly installed in the administration of the protected country."

"The recent interventions of the United States," says he, "in Central America, in San Domingo, Honduras, Nicaragua and Mexico, recall attention to the constant manifestation of North American imperialism in the affairs of the Latin States. This coercive action comes about as a result of disorder. It takes a logical course according to the circumstances of the case, appearing at one time as a political intervention, or at another in the from of tutelage, financial in principle, political in effect, pacific in result, which one scarcely knows how to classify among the institutions of international law. Notwithstanding criticism directed aganst this policy, it appears impossible to deny that the work undertaken is one of civilization."

Lieut. Col. E. Picard finds that the firing of one shell of the 12-inch naval gun costs 4,350 francs, or about $970. This amount is divided as follows: The cost of the projectile, which weighs 440 kilograms (about 970 pounds), is 1,500 francs ($300). The charge, which weighs 135 kilograms (about 297 pounds), and costs 1,100 francs (about $220). The gun costs 350,000 francs (about $70,000). Taking the life of the gun as 200 shots, each shot would cost 1,750 francs, or about $350.

The enormous role which the dirigible and the aeroplane will have in future wars has convinced European governments of the necessity of discovering an invisible uniform. During the recent French maneuvers the troops on both sides spent a good deal of their time in deceiving the enemy's air craft. Immediately an aeroplane appeared on the horizon, the order was given to hide, and the soldiers were forced to lie behind hedges or under whatever cover was available until the air scout was out of sight.

The French military authorities acquired the conviction that the only hope of taking an enemy by surprise in modern warfare lay in being able adequately to hide from air ships, for it was demonstrated that by means of their air fleets both Gen. Pau and Gen. Chomer, commanding the armies of the French maneuvers, had almost as accurate a knowledge of their enemy's movements as of those of their own troops.

The cloth for future French uniforms which proved to be the least visible from above appears to be a blue-gray material, light in tone, with a reddish tinge. It is quite distinct from khaki and from the greenish cloth which was tested in the French army a couple of years ago.

Hop Crop Short.

London, Nov. 1.—The London hop market is experiencing a crisis inprecedented since the famous season of 1882, when hops attained a price never reached before or since.

For several years English hops have been plentiful, but of a poor quality, and the ruling price was so low that all of the weaker growers were driven out of business, leaving only the independent farmers in the field. This season the crop in England and Austria is very short, and the market had hardly opened when prices began to soar. In the United States the crop is plentiful and good and, almost from the opening of the market, the price on the other side has been ten cents lower than here. In spite of the high price no hops have been brought to market, and the surviving growers are enjoying their vengeance to the fullest extent. All of them can hold on as long as they please and with the season two weeks old there are no signs of weakening on their part. The only buyers who are happy are those who foresaw the conditions early enough to buy American crops in advance, some of whom have made fortunes on their deals.

Other buyers are very pessimistic over the situation and declare that the cheapness of hops in the United States cannot save the situation long, as the price there is bound to go up as soon as the American growers realize the situation here. Some of the dealers are already predicting that the price will finally surpass the historic level of 1882.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Forthcoming Congress in Washington, One of Special Interest.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—In view of the agitation going on, not only in the United States, but in European countries as well, over the free toll provision of the Panama Canal bill, and the 5 per cent rebate given ships flying the American flag and engaged in the foreign trade, as provided in the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, the forthcoming convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which is to be held in this city December 3rd, 4th and 5th next, gives promise of being the liveliest convention in its history. And as President Wilson will delver the opening address, those in charge of arrangements for the convention are looking forward with keen interest to the position which the chief executive will take on matters relating to waterway improvement and their relation to the subject of transportation.

While the programme for the convention has not been finally made up, in the main it is completed, and for variety and scope will compare favorably with the programme of preceding conventions. In addition to President Wilson, Secretary of War Garrison, under whose direction the Board of Engineers, charged with river and harbor work, perform their functions, will have a most important place on the programme. This being a new administration, made up largely of men who have come from scholastic walks of life, the position which it will take on the intensely practical question of the development of the rivers and harbors of the country will be watched with the greatest interest.

The Dominion government will be represented by Hon. John D. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries and Minister of the Naval Service, who has been especially designated by the Premier, Hon. Bobert Laird Borden, to represent "Our Sister of the Snows" at the coming convention. At least one, and perhaps two of the ambassadors from foreign countries will tell of the development of ports and rivers by their governments.

Now that the Board of Engineers, through its late chief, Gen. Bixby, has recommended the purchase of the Chesapeake & Delaware Canal as part of the scheme for an inland waterway from New England to the Florida Keys, considerable attention will be paid to that project, which is now under course of construction. Representative John H. Small, of North Carolina, will address the convention on some features of the Atlantic Deeper Waterway, while Representative J. Hampton Moore will deliver an illustrated lecture on the whole subject.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, and Representative Burgess, of Texas, will tell of the waterways along the Gulf coast from the Mississippi to the Atlantic and to the Rio Grande, respectively. Representative Kelly will speak for the Ohio river; Representative Humphreys for the Mississippi; E. M. Clendening, secretary of the Commercial Club of Kansas City, will tell of the use being made of the Missouri, and W. B. Thompson, of New Orleans, will speak on municipally-owned terminals as an essential part of the scheme for increasing water transportation. Senator Jones, of Washington, Governor Johnson, of California, and Representative Knowland have been invited to speak for the Pacific coast, and Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, chairman of the Commerce Committee, on waterway legislation. Mr. E. S. Conway, of Chicago, will represent the Great Lakes and there will be speakers, who are yet to be selected, for New York and New England.

Two evening sessions have been arranged for, one of which will be Ladies' Night. Mrs. Sarah Willard Strout, president of the Woman's National Rivers and Harbors Congress, will preside and also make an address. Another speaker will be a representative of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, and an interesting innovation at this session will be an illustrated lecture by Mrs. Agnes Greene Foster, of Chicago, on "Some Wondrous Waterways." Mrs. Foster is not only an authoress of note but a traveler as well.

On the second evening Hon. John Barrett, Director General of the Pan-American Union, will make his first essay into the ranks of illustrated lecturers, being already engaged in the preparation of a picturesque story of the South American Republics and what they are doing in the way of improving their rivers and harbors. As a fitting climax to the lecture of Mr. Barrett, Mr. Elliott Woods, superintendent of the United States Capitol, will show the last word in the "movies" of the Panama Canal, the pictures having been taken under the intimate personal direction of Col. Goethals.

"Anyone who spends less than he earns, and saves the difference, and pays as he goes, is on the way to independence."—Harvey A. Blodgett.

There are 612 more motorcycles in Chicago this year than there were last, according to report of Edward Cohen, city collector.

Skin Sufferers—Read!

We want all skin sufferers who have suffered for many years the tortures of disease and who have sought medical aid in vain, to read this.

We, as old established druggists of this community, wish to recommend to you a product that has given many relief and may mean the end of your agony. The product is a mild, simple wash, not a patent medicine concocted of various worthless drugs, but a scientific compound made of well known antiseptic ingredients. It is made in the D.D.D. laboratories of Chicago and is called the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

This is a doctor's special prescription—one that has effected many wonderful cures.

The effect of D. D. D. is to soothe instantly, as soon as applied; then it penetrates the pores, destroys and throws off all disease germs and leaves the skin clean and healthy.

We are so confident of the marvelous power of D. D. D. that we have taken advantage of the manufacturers guarantee, to offer you a full-size bottle on trial. You are to judge the merits of the remedy in your own particular case. If it doesn't help you, it costs you nothing.

D. D. D. Soap is made of the same healing ingredients. Ask us about it.

cred pledges of the party, by putting through Congress a low tariff measure, framed and founded upon the Democratic idea of government—that greatest of all principles of free government: 'Equality of opportunities, and equality of burdens,' for which free men have fought from the earliest periods in the history of all governments. It was the demand for this same great principle, which shook the foundation of Old World governments prior to, and at the time of, the French Revolution. Within the briefest period in which a great tariff bill was ever enacted, the Congress placed upon the statute books, on last Friday, the only tariff act ever passed by any political party in the interest of the whole people.

Woodrow Wilson ably sided by his first Lieutenants, Senator Simmons and Congressman Underwood, has performed a task that at one time seemed well nigh impossible. This so called "Impracticable theorist," in the opinion now of even his political enemies, has demonstrated beyond any question, his capacity in the art of practical politics. When controversies arose during the heated debates he sent for the warring combatants and diplomatically smoothed out their differences and converted them into active co-laborers in the common cause. When insurgency threatened, he argued, persuaded and even implored the insurgents to desist, and when these "tufts of grass" failed, he "cast stones," and smilingly over-rode the insurgent opposition, and afterwards expressed to the most active among them, in almost tearful tones, his profound regret at his inability to agree with them.

There were occasional outbursts of resentment in both the House and Senate, but in every instance, the superb leadership of the President, displayed in his many conferences, overcame all obstacles, and on last Friday night, at nine o'clock, this great leader, surrounded by his faithful Lieutenants, affixed his name to the Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill, and stood forth with his colors as a practical statesman, flying in the October breeze. But, did he on this occasion of his great victory, exalt himself after the manner of that numerous hordes of modern politicians, (some of whom have lately, even, held the high office of President)? Did he show any evidence of being afflicted with the "exaggerated ego", as so many would have done under the same circumstances? On the contrary, he gave most, if not all, of the praise to those who assisted him, as the following words spoken by him, when he signed the Bill, will bear eloquent witness:

It is with a feeling of profound gratitude, that working with the splendid men, who have carried this thing through with studious attention, and doing justice all around, I shall have had part in serving the people of this country.

'I was quoting to some of my collegues in the Senate, those lines from Shakespeare, which have always appealed to me—If it be a sin to covet honor, then am I the most offending soul alive,' and I am happy to say that I do not covet it for myself alone.

I covet it with equal ardor for the men who are associated with me, and the honor is going to come from them.

I am their associate. I can only complete the work which they do.

I can only counsel when they ask for my counsel. I can come in only when the last stages of the business are reached. And I covet the honor for them quite as much as I do covet it for myself, and I covet it for the great Party of which I am a member; because their party is not honorable unless it redeem its name and serve the people of the United States.

'So I feel tonight like a man who is lodging happily in the inn which lies half way along the journey, and that in the morning with a fresh impulse we shall go the rest of the journey and sleep at the journey's end like a man with a quiet conscience, knowing that we have served our fellowmen and have thereby tried to serve God'.

This spirit of unselfish political courtesy has few parallels in the history of American politics, and reminds one rather forcibly of the unselfish Christian courtesy displayed by Paul, in recognizing the services of his co-workers, so vividly expressed in the sixteenth chapter of his Epistle to the Romans."

"He realizes, as every intelligent man must realize, that the reformation of our currency and banking system, including a proper scheme for agricultural credit and land banks, is the greatest single question that has agitated the public mind in America for a generation. The farmers of the country have been discriminated against by the system of bond secured national bank currency in a manner that would have destroyed the agricultural interests of our country, except for the fact that our natural resources in agricultural wealth are constantly renewing and reproducing themselves. There will, no doubt, be a sharp and severe struggle with the opposing forces in Congress on this great measure of currency reform, but those of us who have learned to follow implicitly and with unwavering confidence, the leadership of our President, hope and believe that he will not relax his efforts until this great public need will be accomplished.

The world has, in all ages, produced some great leader, who towered above his fellows in the form of human endeavor. Alexander the Great, King of Macedon, was the great leader of the ancient Greeks, who won fame, not only by his triumphant success in building up so vast an empire, but whose career also excited among mankind the greatest admiration.

Hannibal, the great military hero of the Carthagenians, won his fame by the intensity and implacableness of his hatred of his enemies, and his claim to greatness was largely due to the fact that he kept a vast empire in a state of terror for fifty years, by the power of the victorious sword.

All of these great leaders in the world's history, possess many marks of genius, but, unfortunately, all of them show defects in their personal and moral character, which forever obscured and marred their greatness in other respects.

Fortunately, we find combined in the character of Woodrow Wilson, most of the admirable qualities of leadership and statesmanship which characterized the great men of the world, but differing from these in that his private character and his personal integrity have always been above suspicion.

Under Woodrow Wilson's leadership, the Democratic Party has achieved a capacity for constructive work which it has not shown before for at least a generation. He took a party confused by contentions between the so-called radical and conservative elements, and welded it into a cohesive, constructive, political organization, to the surprise and satisfaction of the leaders of his own Party, and to the dismay and chargrin of the leaders of the opposing parties.

Our last democratic president, Grover Cleveland, was a great man, and made a great president, under many trying difficulties.

My admiration for and loyalty to Mr. Cleveland are sufficient to protect me against the charge of unfriendliness to his memory, when I say that he utterly failed to control the discordant factions in his Party in Congress. He admitted his failure when he repeatedly expressed his misfortune in having a "Congress on his hands". President Wilson has succeeded, where Cleveland failed. No one can say that President Wilson has a "Congress on his hands", but all agree, that Congress has a President in the lead or at its back, as occasion may indicate, as the most appropriate place for securing the successful performance of Party pledges. Instead of President Wilson waiting to see what Congress is going to do, he takes the lead, and by his counsel and active conferences with party leaders, he smoothes out differences and accomplishes definite results.

Some few men, in all ages, have demonstrated that they are born leaders of men. This rare gift is typically exemplified in the person of our present President. As proof of this assertion, he has established in a few months time, a leadership of the Democratic party which has no parallel since the days of Andrew Jackson, and he has accomplished it without the threats, the bluster, or the use of patronage which characterized the leadership of Jackson. For the first time in a long period of years, the Democratic party is moving aggressively, along affirmative and constructive lines, instead of being merely a negative force— a party of opposition only.

Some of you, no doubt, who have not had the opportunity to see Woodrow Wilson, are interested to know what manner of man he is, and what are some of his personal characteristics. Although I have seen him on several occasions and under varied circumstances, I declare to you that it is difficult to describe him. He possesses, in a very remarkable degree, a certain combination of mental and personal attractions, which, in every age, gives to those who exhibit it, a mysterious and almost unbounded ascendancy over all who come within the sphere of their influence. He is a scholar beyond comparison with any man in public life in this generation, and perhaps of any period in the history of this country. He possesses, in the language of Milton, "a complete and generous education, that which fits a man to perform justly, skillfully and magnanimously, all duties, both public and private, of peace or war." He never shrinks from the discharge of any public duty because of difficulty, apparent or real, but is always ready to take an unequivocal stand on public questions, and unflinchingly to abide the consequences of his decision, before the people. His thoughts and perceptions are rapid, and his plans are often formed and executed while others are deliberating and doubtful of the course to pursue. He has ever shown by precept and example, his quiet, deeply seated, unfaltering, and unreserved faith in human freedom, and has never wavered in his support of all the means and agencies which may contribute to the greater freedom of the people. In short, he is as genuinely democratic as Thomas Jefferson professed to be, and, in addition, possesses many of the other good traits of Jefferson; but; at the same time, he is very unlike Jefferson in his moral and religious convictions.

He is not only free from the sinister influence of self-seeking men, but his natural convictions upon this phase of our public life are such that he is constantly on the alert to detect such efforts and quickly flees from the very appearance of the evil.

As an evidence of this quality, permit me to repeat a statement made to me recently in New York by a man who has had long experience in observing public men. This man stated that he differed from the President very widely upon most, if not all, of the public questions of the day; but that he frankly confessed, that he was the only President in his recollection, who could not be influenced or controlled by somebody, and that he was thoroughly convinced of the honesty and sincerity of Mr. Wilson in everything that he undertook.

The career of Woodrow Wilson is one of the most fascinating and intensely interesting of any man who has held high public office in this generation, and probably of any generation. His administration of the affairs of government marks a new epoch in our national life.

With him, honesty and purity in politics is a cardinal principle, and during his incumbency of the chief place at the head of the nation, talent and virtue and merit, instead of political chicanery, will be considered as passports to power.

In conclusion, let me urge, that if we, as individuals, composing the rank and file in the army of civic endeavor, "can perform our part in consummating this much to be desired achievement, the blessing of the patriot will gild the pathway of our journey through life, and the tears of the patriot will descend upon our tombs forever.

Thankful He Was Not a Woman.

The late Lawson Tait, of England, the great woman's doctor, said he never went to bed at night without thanking heaven he was not born a woman. No doctor ever knew better than he what women have to suffer at some times of their lives. It was an American woman long since passed to her reward who introduced a simple combination of roots and herbs called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that has proved wonderfully successful in mitigating suffering and curing diseases of women. It has brought unspeakable relief to thousands of women who suffered from female ills.

BURGAW HAPPENINGS.

Oxford Orphanage Singing Class—Other News, Personal, Etc.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Nov. 1.—The concert by the Oxford Orphans' Class at the auditorium of the High School Wednesday evening, was very much enjoyed by the audience, which, owing to the inclement weather, was not as large as it should have been, although it was very creditable under the circumstances. The class left for Wallace on the morning train Thursday.

Messrs. Marcolis Bros., of Wallace, have bought out the firm of Overstreet & Cook, who have been conducting a dry goods store here the past three years. The new firm also conducts a dry goods store at Wallace which they will continue. The friends of Overstreet & Cook regret to see them retire from business.

Capt. R. P. Paddison, of Point Caswell, was here on a short visit early in the week. The captain is still very much interested in the monument and hopes that an agreement may be reached by which the monument may be erected at an early date.

Mr. Brewer, who has been foreman of the Pender Chronicle for some time, severed his connection with that paper last Saturday and has gone to Jacksonville, N. C.

The farmers claim that the long continued wet spell has damaged crops a great deal. In addition to damage to cotton and peanuts, many farmers say that the sweet potatoes are ruined; that they are sour in the ground and the hogs will hardly eat them. This has been the wettest October in the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

Superior Court will convene here next Monday with Judge Rountree presiding and Solicitor Lyon at the prosecutor's desk. This will be the first appearance here of Mr. Lyon as solicitor. The term is for one week for trial of both civil and criminal cases.

Mr. A. H. Paddison has been appointed registrar of vital statistics for the town and township of Burgaw, in place of Dr. Bradford who could not serve.

It is reported that the people in the county are rushing their cattle to market on account of the stock law, and they are getting poor prices for the same. If this is true, they are making a great mistake for they have six months in which to get ready for the law, and in that time they ought to be able to dispose of it to good advantage. Certainly beef is no lower in price on the local market and as to pork, city prices are prevailing here for it. The farmer with pork to sell now is rich.

There has been no definite plan made here for the observance of the Governor's proclamation for working the roads November 5th and 6th. It is not yet too late for something to be done along this line and it ought to be done as the roads need the work, and two days' work by everybody will do a great deal of good. The only trouble about it now is the fact that the roads are almost too wet to work.

The price of cotton is just about three cents per pound more than it was a year ago and this will help the farmers out on the short crop. A Democratic President does not seem to mean five cents cotton, though there were many Republicans that fully believed the election of Wilson meant five cent cotton and everything else in proportion.

STARTED FOR HEAVEN AT MIDNIGHT.

Uncle David Fulch, Scott's Hill, N. C., had his parlor well filled for watch night. Two girls knelt for prayer. One, Rachel H. Alexander, was soon converted and joined the church. She soon had the pleasure of seeing her parents and the other children converted. She became the wife of the Rev. F. A. Bishop, of the North Carolina Conference, and stood by his side to the end of his 35 years in the ministry. They both died in 1912. They had touched thousands of souls for their good. The fruit of one watch night! Let us pray and get ready for December 31st, 1913.

Tackle Catarrh Now Be Free All Winter

Avoid Colds, Stall Pneumonia, Keep Your Nose Clear and Your Throat Free.

Don't Wait Till You're All Bunged Up. Use S. S. S. Now.

If you will go into any first class store and get a bottle of S. S. S. you are on the way to getting rid of Catarrh. But don't let anyone work off that old trick of something "Just as good."

S. S. S. is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, comes through all the veins and arteries, enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

The medicinal components of S. S. S. are relatively just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritive properties of the grains, meats, sugars, and fats of foods. Any local irritating influence in the blood is rejected by the tissue cells and eliminated by reason of the stimulating influence of S. S. S.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a decided clearing of the air passages, a steadily improved nasal condition, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely catarrh often infests the entire system.

You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, boils, and all other diseased conditions of the blood. For special advice on any blood disease write to The Swift Specific Co., 202 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not Arifle with substitutes, imitations or any of the horde of "Just as good" Counterfeits of S. S. S.
